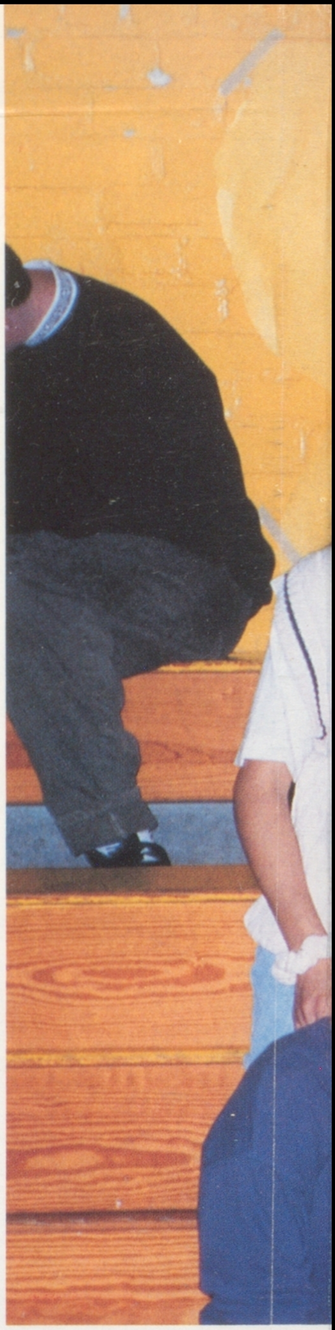
Impressions are made by who we are, what we feel and what we do: IDENTITY - EMOTION - ACTIVITY.
We celebrate these impressions.



IDENTITY, the image we outwardly express, who we were, who we are today and what we are becoming. Day to day we express ourselves the way we want to be thought of. It is , the way we dress, act, and speak, our values, and in the friends we choose. Identities present on campus are those of individuals, groups and the school as a whole. We all have the right to be who we want to be, the right to pick our own friends and the right to be open to new people and experiences. We honor these rights.

We are a campus and student population reflective of our diverse community. We are hanging out together, sharing our thoughts and feelings with each other and growing and learning from one another. We are individuals who strive to respect each other and are learning that demonstrating compassion, demonstrates strength. We are developing identities that will create positive IMPRESSIONS.

Stick 'em up! Traci Woodburn was among the many juniors who expressed themselves during theHomecoming Parade.

Love, peace and happiness, the theme of the Welcome Freshmen Dance, was exemplified by the Hornet Family. All the classes mixed in a friendly environment. Everyone can identify with a caring environment.

Free stickers? During lunchtime Wild 107 gave away stickers as well as CD's and posters. After a hard week, students relaxedwith Wild 107 as the DJ for the second dance. Some Hornets find their special identity while dancing.

Can I have a chip? Dan Peel, Jeremy Meyers and Joe Courtwright take time out with their friends during lunch. Identity is very much related to the friendships we build.

Emotional Experiences

EMOTION, the strong complex feelings held inside or outwardly expressed. Each of us has within us a wide range of feelings. We are all capable of love, hate, confidence, anxiety, dislike, and passion. Our experiences, interactions, situations and reactions all generate emotions. The Freshman experience of everything being new, the blending of students from various middle schools and facing the challenges of academics can be one of insecurity and fear.Sophomore year includes getting involved, understanding what is expected and knowing how things work lead to security and comfort Juniors have established friendships, developed class unity and realized the importance of grades and extra-curricular activities, creating feelings of uncertainty and desire. Senior year is complex with facing the challenges of the future, participation in celebrations, saying good-bye, being on the edge, all resulting in doubts and joys. All these experiences and interactions generate emotions that make real

IMPRESSIONS.

On your marks, get set, go! The cross country team had a great season. With everybody's strong will the team was bound to go far.

Go, fight, win tonight! The tension began to build as the Hornet team worked together to achieve a 17-15 victory over Albany. Teamwork = success!

Hornet pride! Joe Courtwright lead the water polo team members in an energetic cheer to boost team spirit

Preparing to volley. Berly Ramos and Alisha Lee put all their feelings into a match. Practices were held during sixth period and after school.

Accentuate Activity

ACTIVITY, the process of expending energy in the things we do, the activities we participate in and the time we spend together. Trying out for sports teams, auditioning for school productions, building floats, attending dances, participating in labs, tutoring at Study Nights, lunching on the green all combine to make our time interesting, stressful, yet fun-filled.

Activities are outlets for our special skills and talents, our intellectual pursuits, our physical abilities and our social needs. They help us learn about each other, appreciate our differences and celebrate our successes. We focus our attention on the things that are making impressions around us, new adults on campus, new students to AHS and to America, waiting for construction of the new gym to begin, painting of all the classrooms, changes in the bell schedule, dwindling economic resources, and the myriad of things that make everyday unique at AHS. For all that we are, feel and do the focus is on celebrating our Hanging ten with Mr. Bones. Senior Monty Shoopman and his fifth period physiology class use Mr. Bones for classroom activities.

Are you involved? Getting involved is a great way to know what is happening on campus. Activity and spirit are the keys to having fun.

Srtike up the band. Mr. Riccardi conducts his band class at the beginning of rehersals, Rehersals led to super concerts for the music departments.

I'll trade my Snapple for your cupcake. Tina Caim, Angelic Powell, and Christina Salinas spend their break socailizing before returning ot class.

MAKING IMPR

It isn't easy being a student, but by participating in school activities, one creates a life within the walls of AHS that is secure and unified. An important part of a successful student life is friendship. Carrying one another through the good times and the bad, produces a feeling of unity and makes the whole school experience positive and rewarding. Spirit is the energy that binds us together as the Hornet Family. Frienship, unity, and spirit combine to help every-one with making impressions

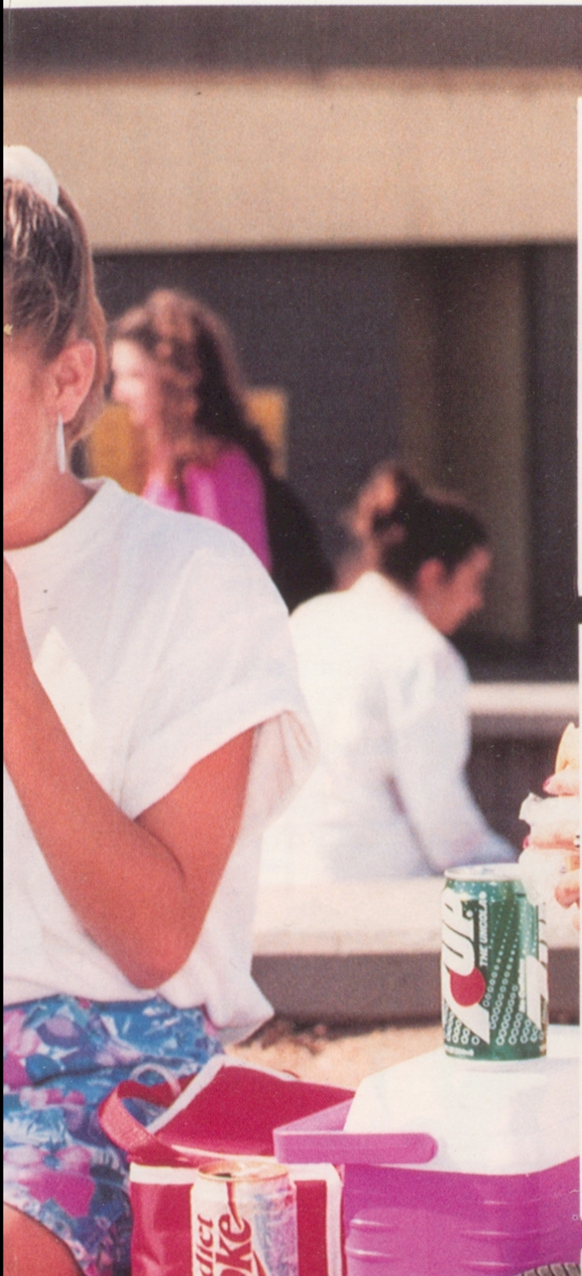
RESSIONS



TAKING A BREAK FROM ALL YOUR WORRIES - Every day is a day on the green for seniors David Burke and Cory Whalen. Lunchtime was the perfect time to rest and relax before fifth period, and the lawns of AHS were ideal.

HORNET PRIDE RUNS DEEP - With the help of Varsity Cheer member Erin Thomson, the 1992 spirit assembly was a success. Excitement ran between spectators and cheerleaders alike and helped to create unity in the "Hornet Family".

FRIENDSHIP AND PEACE - That's all that mattered to Natalie Mariani, Elizabeth Baca, and Jenny Archibald, as they collected money. Student life continued into the night with various school activities.

AROUND CAMPUS

All over campus changes could be seen, heard, and felt. The 1992-93 school year started off with a bang! Lunch time activities and pep rallies keep students enthuiastic about upcoming games and events. Anthony Primas, senior, said," I think the school does a great job on getting kids to interact."

One of the many exciting changes this year is the music heard at the circle on Fridays. Fridays at noon are packed with music, D.J.'s, and open mic. Open mic. is an opportunity for students to speak to the student body about issues that are importnat to them.

To add to all this excitement Alameda has thirteen new teachers. " I am very happy to be here, the faculty has been wonderful and the students are great. My biggest challenge is the large class sizes."Allison Greany, Current Life Issues teacher. This year, along with the new teachers many new classes are being offered, such as, Advancement Via Individual Development-AVID, Pre-Calculus and the Law and You, just to name a few.

Along with all the new teachers other new faces are also being seen. Painters are observed around campus fixing the interior and exterior of the school. Amongst the crowds Mike Noonan is also seen.

With new events, new school development and new faces this year is sure to leave a lasting impression.

Alameda High is"... real nice because I came from a private school and I appreciate the freedom. There are more sports, clubs, and more classes to take. Individual racial clubs don't leave anyone out. It's a nice mix of races, too."

Chad Furlong, Junior

During the break Cybil Gilbertson, Carrie Merril and Courtney Bellinger hang in the hall. Students from all grade levels share time and space in the main hall.

Twins?? Juniors Natalie King and Dianna Moran dress alike for twin day. Spirit Week, October 19-23, is one of the best weeks on campus.

Spirited Hornets! Jessica Faria, had fun "seeing how spirited people get." The cheering squads show off their talent at lunchtime.

New to A.H.S. Mrs. Ruark and Mike Noonan bring new ideas to our campus.

Enjoying the sunshine. Groups of students gather in various places on and off campus. The circle area is the most populated place.

Lunch anyone? Lunchtime is a great opportunity to hang around with friends and have fun. Laura Taylor believes that lunchtime " is fun, a great time to be with friends and act stupid."

Fridays On The Green

Lunchtime on the green is a daily activity for many Alameda High students. During lunch students usually gossip about things going on around school. A wide variety of people can be found enjoying a relaxing lunch outdoors.

New on Fridays is "music on the green." Any student can submit music to be played. A wide spectrum of music can be appreciated.

Once a month a DJ provides the lunchtime sounds.

During lunchtime school/class rings were sold. Dan Sequiera is our sales representative from Herff-Jones. Students are extremely pleased with the quality of the rings and the time and care that is taken in helping them select their perfect memory ring.

Class competitions were held at lunchtime and sometimes during assemblies. At the beginning of the year they were held every week, later that changed to once a month. Joy Sherratt is the Class Competition Commisioner and plans very exciting and hilarious activities. All classes compete for points and a cash prize is awarded to the class that has the most points at the end of the year. Money makes the competition keen.

A new activity is Open Mic, also held at lunch time. It first occured on Thursdays, but was moved to Fridays. To participate you must submit a topic slip to Peer Counseling detailing the issue you wish to talk about. Then you can speak over the mic, at the circle for five minutes about the topic.

Many people just sit at the circle enjoying the sun. Most students eat lunch, talk, make plan for after school or the weekend or even study or do homework for their next class. 1992-93 brought many changes, Friday's lunchtimes on the green is an improvement that all students can enjoy. There is something for everyone.

By: Aaron Filipelli

"Friday on the Green, gets people involved with spirit and activities on campus, it brings us all together as a whole."

Julie Mathieson, Freshman

On the green! Students enjoyed the sunshine and green grass. Senior Terri Murray is one of the many students who enjoy catching some hot ray's during the lunch time activities.

Michigan Wolverines

Reaching and grabbing! A.H.S. students jump up and reach for Wild 107 stickers. Wild 107 was the DJ for the Homecoming Rally during Thursday lunch.

Eating lunch together! Janina Brandt, a foriegn exchange student from Germany and her friend Christina Singh, new to A.H.S. enjoy there lunch on the green.

Buy a ring! During the lunchtime students were impressed by the wide variety of rings offered. Sophmores, Samantha Madrid, Elizabeth Eihl, and Linda Monroe consider purchasing rings during their sophmore year.

It's finally lunch! We finally get to go to eat. Emma Vasquez, 'Brenda' Taveres, Drew Macdonald, and Mario Smith are going to the circle to hang out and watch the rallies. Noon rallies were a big thing this year.

Friends hanging out! "Lunch time was a great time to hang out and gossip with friends. Wishon Chandler, Sara Ginty, Crystal Irby, and Jaimie Schnieder show off there impressive "IN" style.

Back To School Night

Attention Moms and Dads

Thought that might get your attention. On September 30, 1992 at 7:30 p.m. moms and dads went to Back to School night. Only to see how you are doing in your classes. As mom and dad leave the house to go to your school. You start to wonder what your teachers will say about you. Hoping that they don't go to certain classes your doing bad in. Even when you said "I'm doing great in History, Math and even English."

With any luck that teacher will be to busy to talk to your parents. In the back of your mind you think of many things to say to keep yourself out of trouble. One excuse you can say is "I thought I was doing good, I didn't know, how could I be I did all my work, etc." You can hear the car come up. You think up one more excuse its not a good one but it will work, the key is in the door, it opens and you ask how it went, they say "Fine honey, how was your night?" Your not in trouble, your safe until the next time.

By Adella Medina

"I thought Back to School Night was fun, but I was kinda wondering what my teachers were going to say. I enjoyed looking at all the different kinds of class rings. Shanna Tippet

Anyone for a shirt? Brian Wong tries to get parents to buy spirit items and logo shirts. Buying a shirt helped support students activities.

I like that one. Juniors Jane Kang, Shanna Tippet, and Stacey Peverell discuss the rings that they like and the prices. Purchasing a class ring is an expensive undertaking.

No way! Some students were anxious about what parent - teacher contact might result in. Juniors Dara Kaplan, Jane Kang and Natalie King discuss the comments that their teachers might be making to their parents.

It's this way. Shanna Tippet and Stacey Peverell try tell Mrs. Finberg where to find Jenni's classroom. She along with many parents and freshman found the hallways confusing.

Dress To Impress

What to wear ? In preparation for the Homecoming Game and Dance, Alameda High had their annual spirit week. AHS students brought Hollywood with all its lights and stars to Alameda.

From October 19-23, the Hornets went through their closets to dress up. Monday was College Day, where students wore T-shirts, shorts, and sweats from their dream school. Tuesday was Pajama Day. Girls showed up in their cute nighties or PJ style sweats, some guys showed up in nightshirts and robes. Wednesday was a flash back to the Hippie Era. Beads and headbands were adorned around the necks and heads. On Thursday, teachers thought they were seeing double. Actually, it was just Twin Day! At the end of the week, each class dressed for their Hollywood class theme.

Throughout the week, the Homecoming Court competed during lunchtime at the circle. Each class prince and princess did all sorts of ridiculous activities while looking like they were having loads of fun.

On Thursday, the radio station WILD-107 came to The Circle to dee-jay at lunch. They played a lot of music and gave out posters and CD's.

Homecoming Spirit Week turned out to be fun for all. Everyone is looking forward to the year to come.

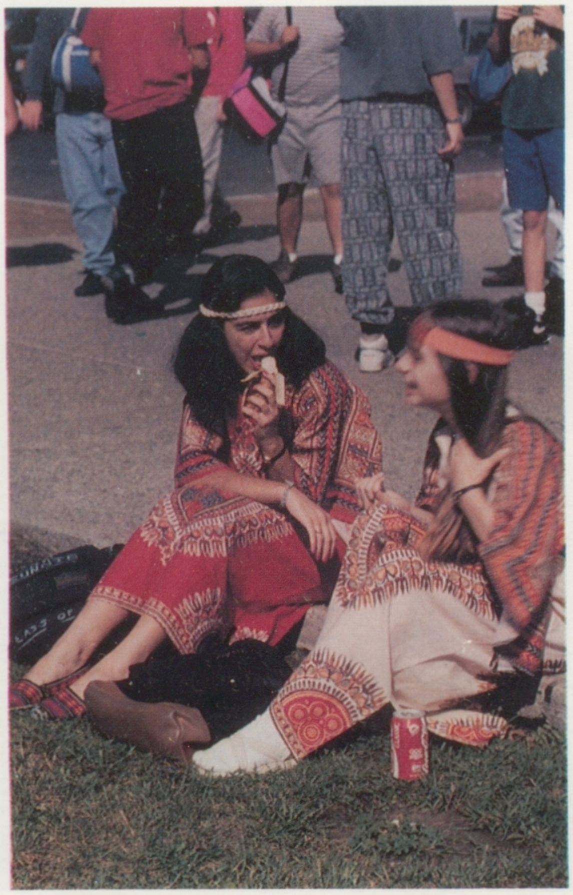
Where's The Beef? The Homecoming Princes made a mess eating baby food through nylons. The winners got spirit points.



Hippies in the 90's? Don't be confused, it's just Sunnie Azadimani with Stephanie Glover swinging into the grove.

Seeing Doubles? Shawheen Young and Katie Fullerton were the "Calvin and Hobbes" couple. Ships ahoy for Linda Monroe, Beth Eihl, and Darlene Pendergrass. Amy Wooten, Denise Woodard, Jen Sanders, and Shannon Connolly all showed their spirit on "Twin Day".

Taking a stand! Tanya Moen danced to the music of Wild 107 at the Homecoming Rally. Music got the students spirited.

Students reached for posters and CD's given by Wild 107 D.J. Eric York. They come to many of our spirit rallies and dances.

Who's Coming

Homecoming? Does it ring a bell? For some it's the first, for some it is the last. Homecoming is a time where kids can just have fun. Hang out after school and do construction and practice skits. It is also much more, it is a celebration of being part of the Hornet Family, whether you are new or whether you graduated 30 years ago.

Homecoming is a time to look back at your high school day and a time to make memories for the future.

Homecoming is events all around Alameda. On campus and in the community there is a feeling of excitement and anticipation. Waiting to view the floats built lovely by the current classes at a city-wide parade down Park Street. Hurrying to Thompson Field to view the Junior Varsity and Varsity football games. Laughing at the silly lunchtime rallies. Enjoying the class skits during the assembly. All these combine to create a very special time.

From Monday, October 19 through Friday, October 23 every class focuses their energy on building floats. The design phase begins in September when the theme is announced. Classes select a way of developing the theme that is specifically unique to them. They work hard to get donations so that the cost of the float is lower. They make arrangements to use flatbed trucks and trailers, and convertibles for the prince and princess to ride in. The Sophomore class had a major disaster with their flatbed, and did not get one until 9:00 P.M. on Friday night. They were in a panic, but it all worked out.

No matter what the trails and tribulations Homecoming was the best ever and everyone had a great time. The float competition ended with the Juniors' ''Lights, Camera Action'' float winning first place. The Seniors' ''Walk of Fame'' came in second. The Sophomores' ''Blue Hawaii'' and Freshman float ''Hollywood through the Ages'' tied for third place. The theme for Homecoming Week: Hornets Buzz Hollywood.

"It was a lot of fun. I put a tremendous amount of work in it. Then I just cruised in the Junior float and pretended that JAWS was after me in my little rubber boat. I felt really good working with my classmates. I hope to do it again next year."

Tyrell Patrick, Junior

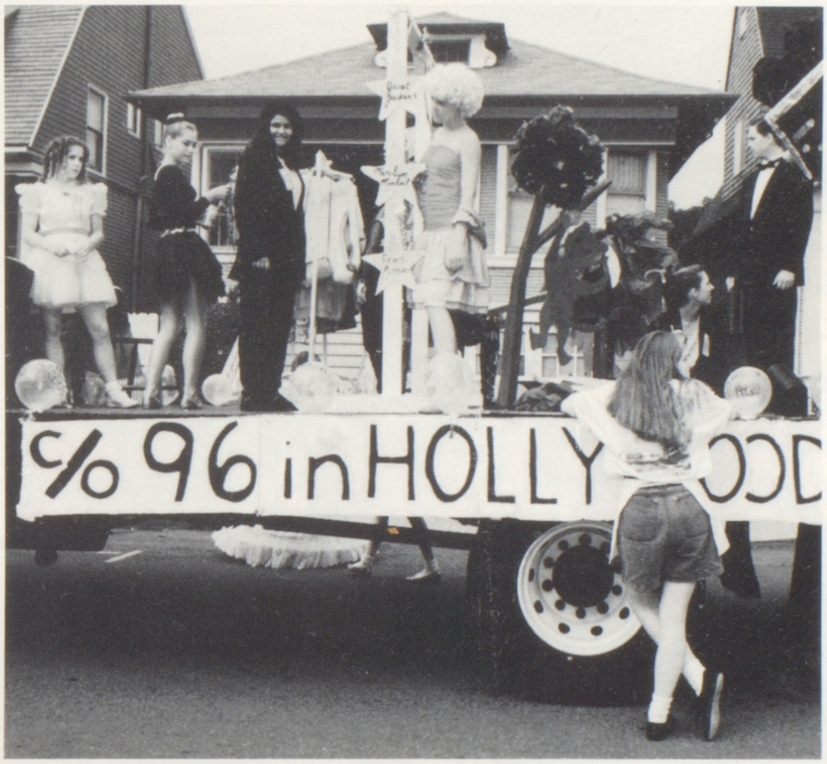
Caught in the act! Building the float is half the fun! The Class of '94 worked hard to build a first place float.

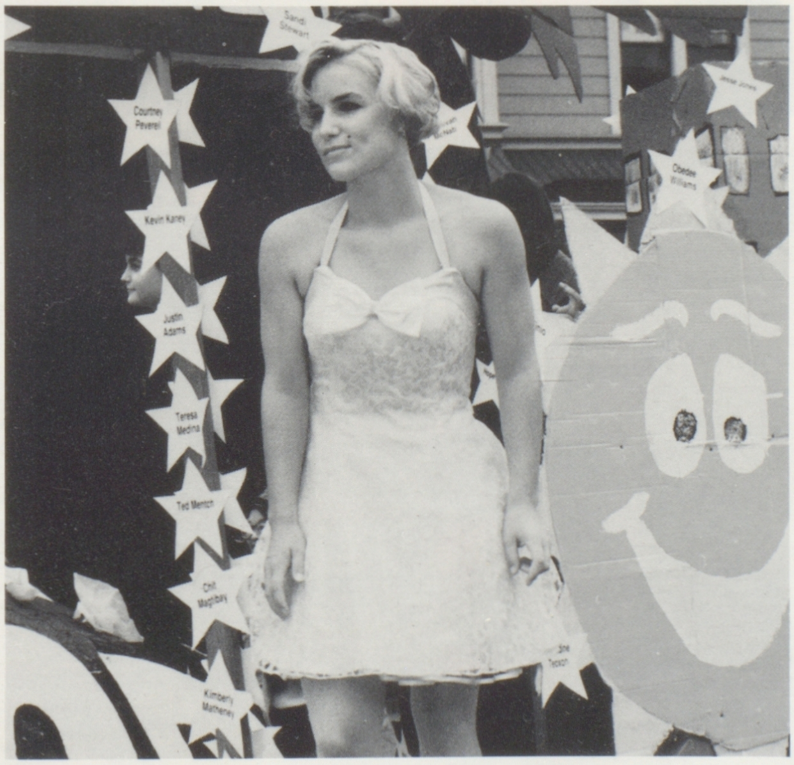
Hollywood here we come. Sophomores Darlene Brodit and Crystal Martinez work to make everything look professionally done.

to Homecoming?

Hooray for the Juniors! All the hard work that went into designing and building a look-a-like Universal Studio paid off. The Juniors walked away from Homecoming with first prize in the float competition.

Are we ready yet? Freshmen wait anxiously to start off on their very first Homecoming Parade. This is a time that those who participated will always remember.





Taking a break, Sophomore Jeremy Castro relaxes after completing the wave for his float. He was upset until their flatbed finally arrived, then he and everyone put in a super effort to finish on time.

Floats away! Senior Sasha Cullen is waiting to ship off to Hollywood on the Senior "Walk of Fame." Their float had a star with the name of every Senior on it. No one was left out.

Hollywood

Students were loud and rowdy. Authoritative figures attempted to settle them down and were slowly successful. The crowd quieted. The entertainment began.

"Welcome to the 1992 homecoming assembly." A few announcements were made, and we discovered that the senior class was barely leading the spirit point competition. Homecoming was the best chance for another class to pull into the lead, or for the seniors to hold onto their place.

The assembly's action began with the spirit squad performing a dance and cheer. This lead into the first class skit. The freshmen did their best at their skit which included several Hollywood mentionables in an audition for a fast food commercial. The spirit squad once again sprung into action with another dance to get the crowd fired up. After this, on came the sophomores with their skit which tied for first place. It tied together many favorite teen trends of the day such as "Bill and Ted," "Married With Children," "Wayne's World," and the video game Street Fighter.

The junior skit also tied for first. This skit's Hollywood theme was apparent throughout the dramatic soap opera scenes, the tourist scene, and the audition scene, all put together with different pop songs.

Finally came the seniors with their third place skit about a dance audition for "A Chorus Line." The skit starred girls such as "Mercedes" from Encinal, played by Tammie Chambless and the Amy M's from Bishop O'Dowd played by Amy Morig and Amy Marshall.

The skits were followed by another class spirit competition among the homecoming court along with other class volunteers. The juniors and sophomores tied for a win in this competition, gaining spirit points for their class.

Once again the AHS student body left the gymnasium from another homecoming assembly, just like every other year. Everybody enjoys the commotion and excitement of homecoming week, as it has become something to look forward to year after year, with the assembly being one part of this extravaganza.

by: Ellie Maass

"I was impressedwith the last minute togetherness that my class and our school showed to put on such a good assembly."

- Matt Shargel, Junior

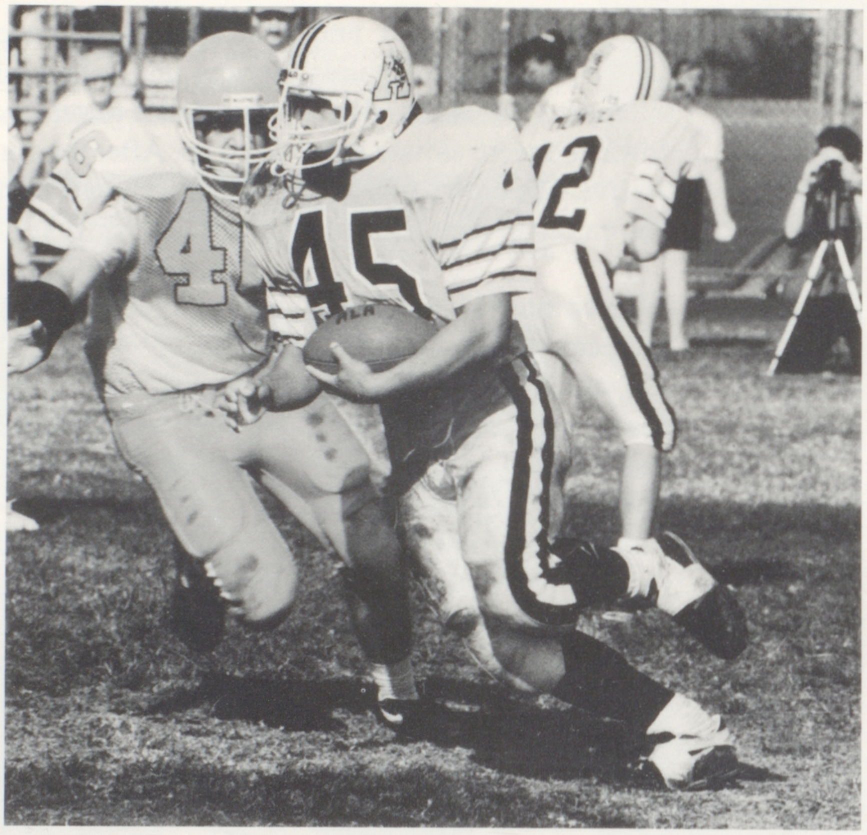
Bogus, dude- Sophomores Jeremy Castro, Monica Gilkey, Elizabeth Baca, and Akos Kondor jump into a phone booth to travel in time. Their skit tied for first .

Home Game

Four, three, two-time out! Fans held their breath knowing there were only two seconds left in the game. The Alameda High Varsity football team was busy, quickly planning their winning strategies!

The Hornets were three points behind Albany. Many fans believed there was little hope of winning the 1992-1993 Homecoming Game. With the help of the coaches and a tremendous amount of team work, the Hornets amazingly pulled it off with a winning field goal . The dramatic conclusion resulted in a 17-15 victory.

The October 24, 1992 Homecoming Game was enjoyed by all. The exciting game set-up positive feelings in everyone as they prepared to attend the Homecoming Dance.



Just before Albany tackle's soph. quarterback, Scott Hennessee manages to hand the ball off to Chris Bowman, successfully.

Dan Nguyen, a junior, returns an interception after pulling off Albany's quarterback, in October. Nguyun has been a starter on the team for the last 3 years.

I got it! # 30 Domingo Reynolds waits patiently to catch the ball.

Cutting it close! Mike Morrison successfully caught a 15 yard pass but was tackled on the one yard line.

> “The Homecoming game was not only exciting on the field, it was fun to see the seniors from last year who returned to watch the game.”
> Brian Wong
> ASB President

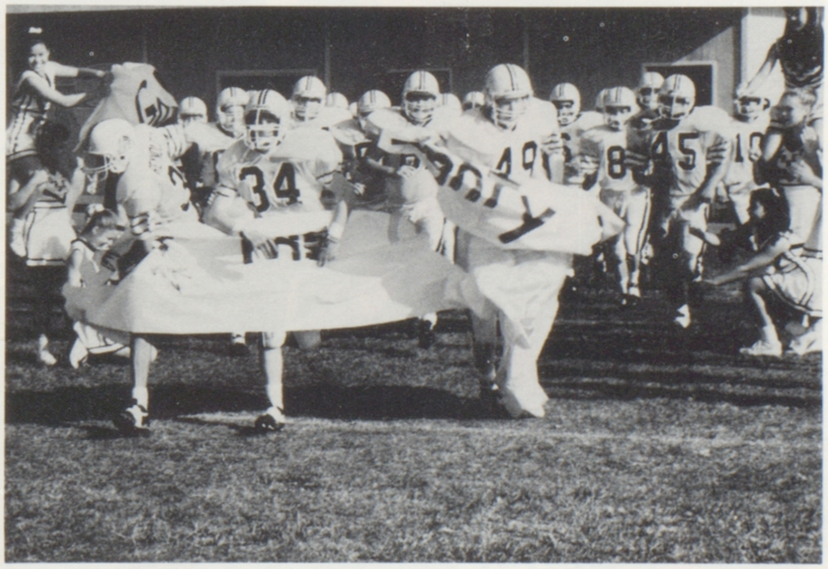
Up, up, and away! Ryan Hamlin starts off the game with an awesome 35 yard kick. The ball landed on the 5 yard line after bouncing twice.



Charge! The Hornets start off the game hyped up and ready to kill.

Shamiden Sandhu smashes Albany’s quarterback # 9.

It's Homecoming

Watch out Hollywood, here comes the Hornets! October 23, was Homecoming for the Alameda Hornets. The day was filled with competition, fun and spirit.

Homecoming began early with the final preparation of floats at the U.S. Navy and marines center. The Sophomores had the most work to do, because they got their truck so late but they finished in time. The students in all the classes pulled together to make the entire Homecoming work. Susan Lai, the Spirit Commissioner was in charge of the entire week and she did an excellent job. The parade progressed down Park Street, displaying all the hard work that each students had contributed to their class floats. The parade ended near Thompson Field because of construction on Clement the parade was unable to proceed right past Thompson Field. The members of the Homecoming Court, the Grand Marshall, Dr. John Searles, and the administrators were dropped off at the field and proceeded in to the stands.

"I had fun at the Homecoming because I was with my wonderful girlfriend."
-Jacob Battersby

The junior varsity and the varsity played against Albany. The JV won the game 35 to 18. The varsity won the game 17 to 15. Everyone was excited to be part of the winning spirit.

At halftime the 1992-93 Homecoming Court was presented. The Homecoming King was Patrick Foster and the Homecoming Queen was Cybil Gilbertson. Mrs. Ruark also announced that the Class of 1994 won the float building competition.

Homecoming Dance

Everybody Dance Now! After the victory over Albany, the Hornets celebrated by going to the Homecoming Dance which was held on Saturday Oct. 24, 1992.

The dance started at 8:00 p.m. and lasted until 11:00 p.m. At 8:25, there was already a line of over fifty people anxiously waiting to get into the gym to dance the night away.

Eric York from Wild 107, was the hip-hopping D.J., who kept the music pumping loud all night. However, music was not the only entertainment that was presented. An enormous video screen was also at the dance to keep the excitement going.

"It was the best dance that AHS ever had because the D. J. was not only responsible, but he also responded to the audience's requests, " commented by Ms. Bramlette, the Activities Director.

Wild 107 also gave out free T-shirts, tapes, posters, stickers, and CDs during the night.

But that wasn't all, packets of pictures were being raffled by Rooney's, the photographer for the dance.

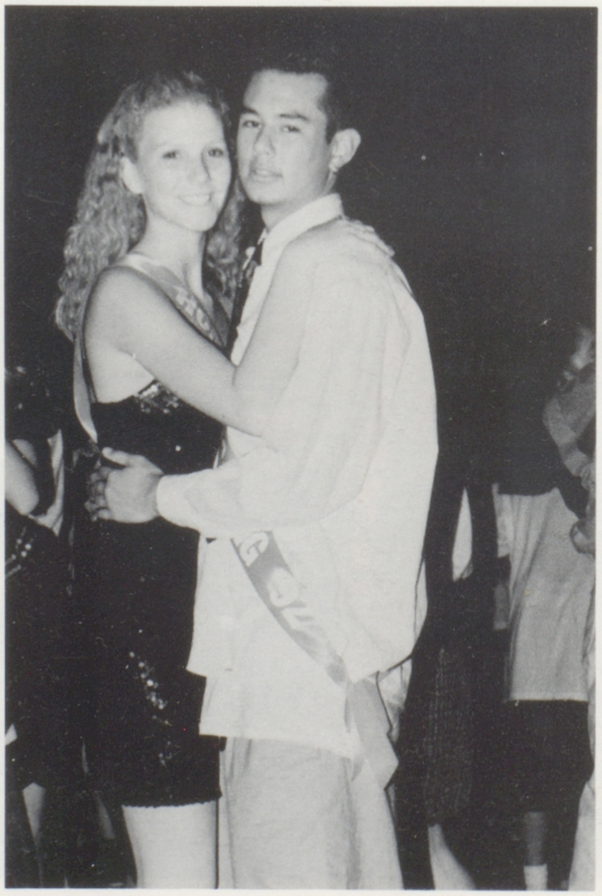
Halfway through the dance, the King and Queen, Patrick Foster and Cybil Gilbertson were presented.

All throughout the night, everyone danced and had the most fun they've had all year.

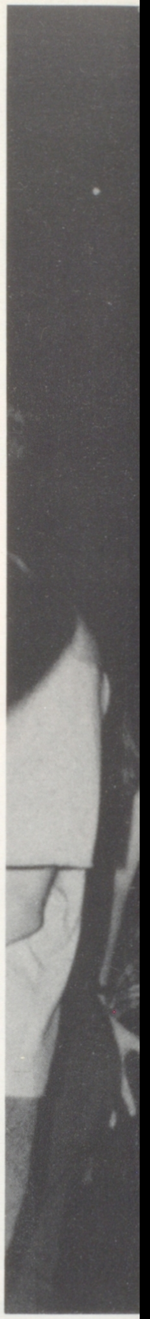
By: Tannie Fung, Amy Chan, and Cindy Loui

"I had a lot of fun at the Homecoming Dance. They played a lot of different types of music-which I think everyone liked. It was a fun dance."
Junior, Jennifer Finberg

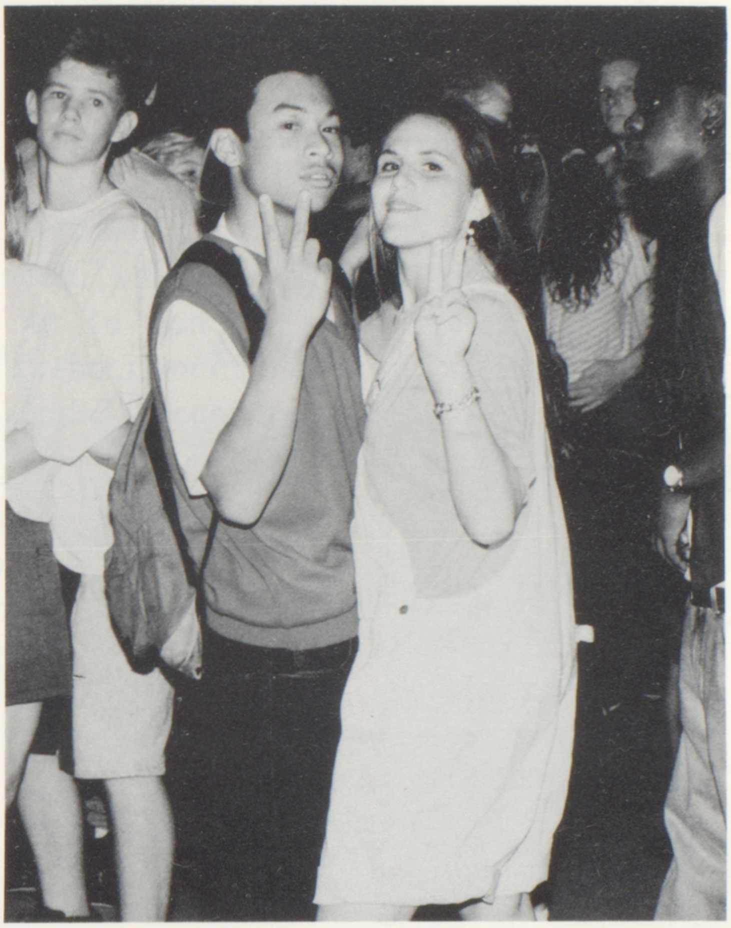
Excuse me, but are you having a good time yet? Sophomores, Venela Escondo and Lina Song were just two of the people who asked this.



Can I have your autograph? Homecoming King and Queen, Patrick Foster and Cybil Gilbertson, took a break from their new found fame.



Having fun together, Steve Kim and Darlene Brodit slow danced the night away.



Peace Out- Jason Ignacio and Natalie Mariani were sporting the popular peace symbols.

Harvest Faire

"It was like touring the world, I enjoyed the many different foods, It was great," commented Ben Ratto about the Harvest Faire. The Harvest Faire was held on Friday, October 30, 1992. this second annual Food Fair harvested a wide variety of different dishes from all over the world. Wonderful food from the Middle East, Mexico, The Phillipines, and Japan was abundant. There was a large turnout and lots of money was made. The freshman enjoyed the new experience of the international foods on the campus. School Resource Officer Mike Noonan enjoyed the experience and commented that the faire was "spectacular, the food was great." Many students commented that they could try all of the delicious foods. Since the Harvest Faire was held the Friday before Halloween, all the students got the chance to show off their costumes in a contest. The costumes were very original and added to the fun of the Harvest Faire. Everybody had a good time, it was definetly a unique experience.

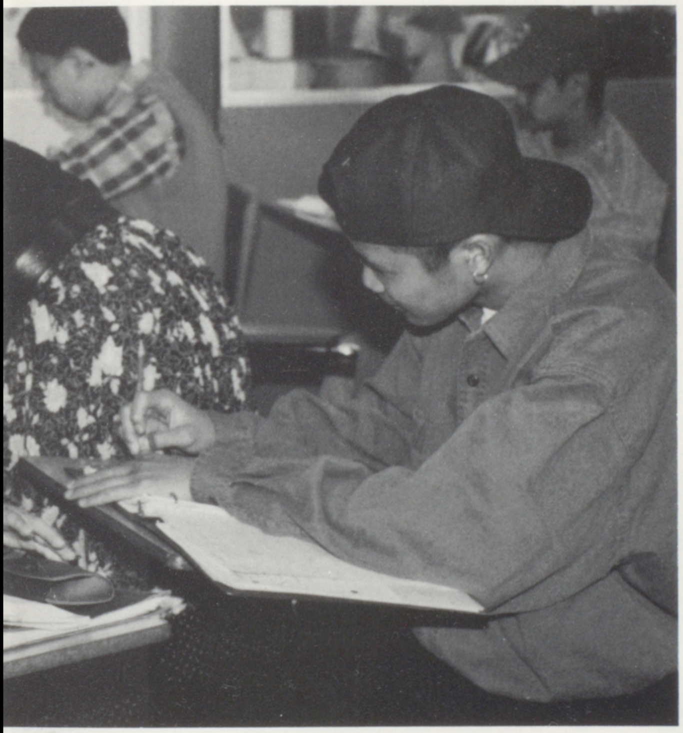
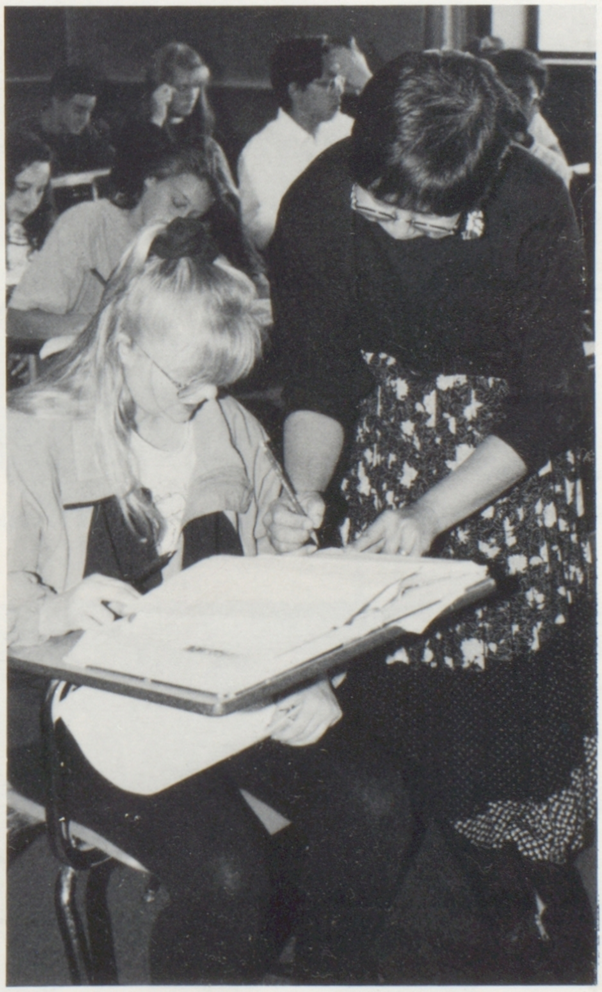
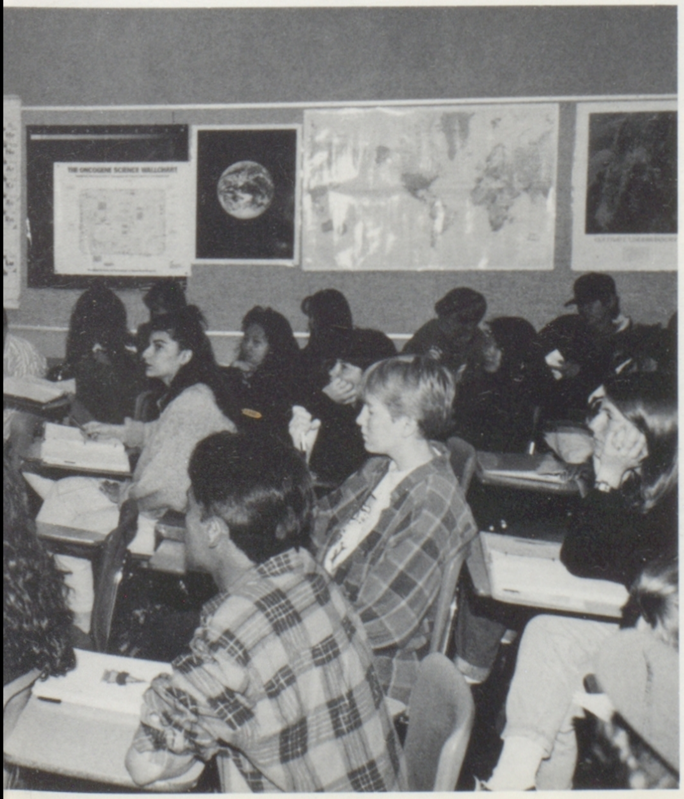
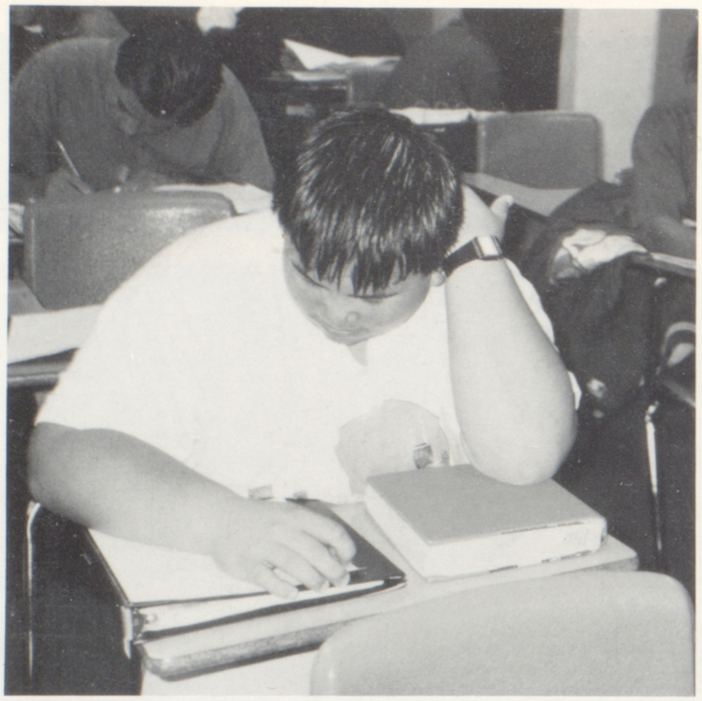
Work



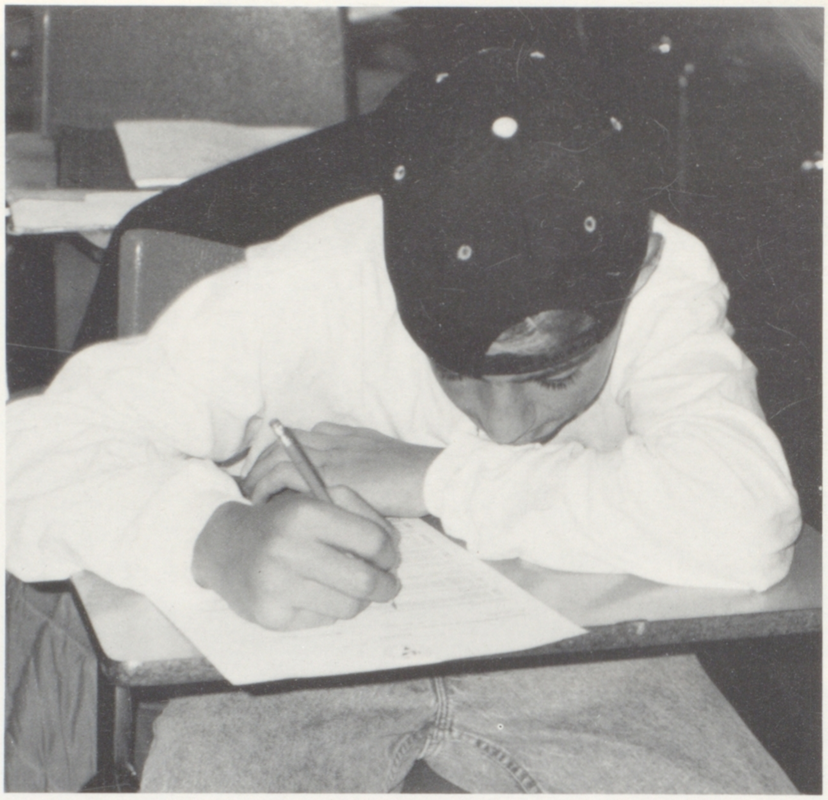


Students are required to take notes during class. For some, partners make learning easier, while others enjoy learning in different ways such as performing, listening to lectures or asking the teacher for help. During Child Development students entertain by making learning fun. Students use hands on activites to better their learning abilities.

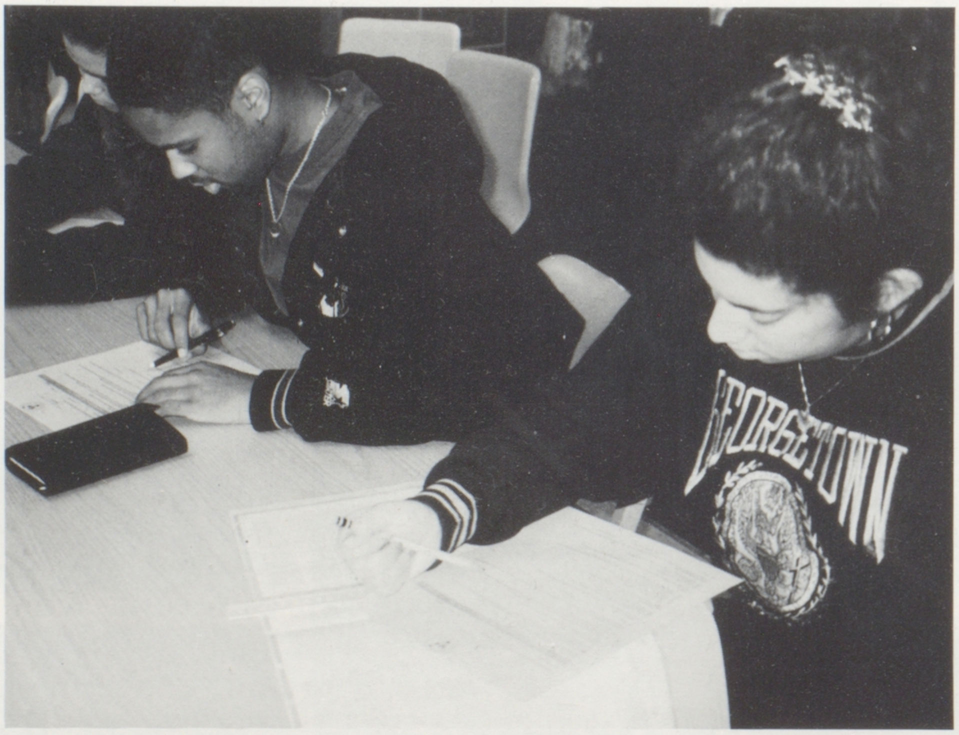




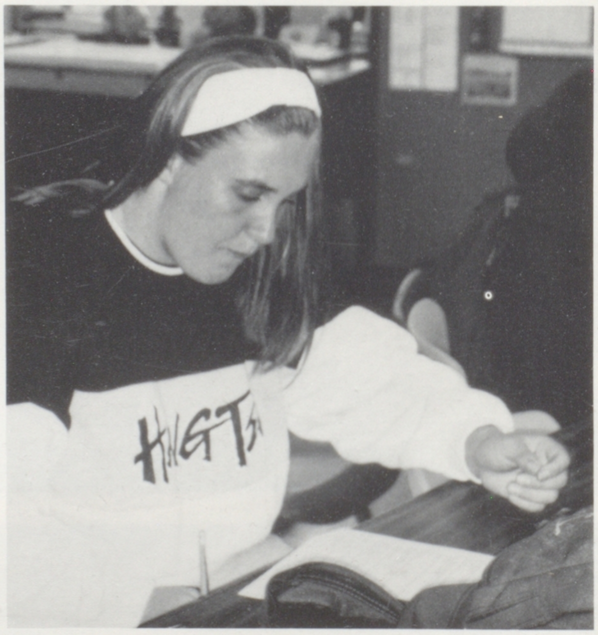
Taking it seriously! Pete Wong concentrates on picking the best qualified for the presidency.



Working intently! Deciding on the health care problems is a real task, considering our economy.

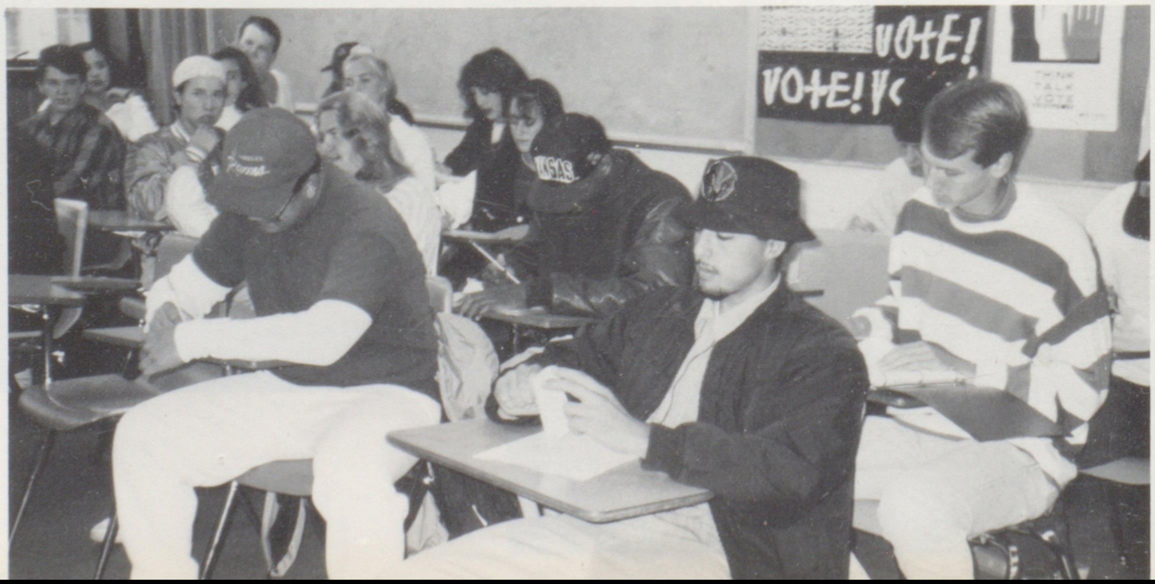


Picking their choices carefully. Will Lyle and Susan Eastwood take time to consider their important vote.

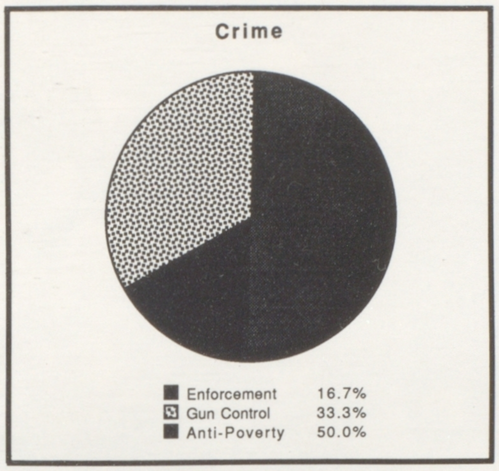


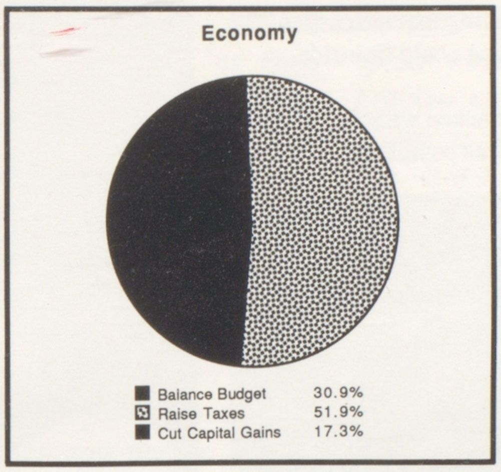
Looking over her ballot, Lisa Hansen studies her options in order to make a difference.

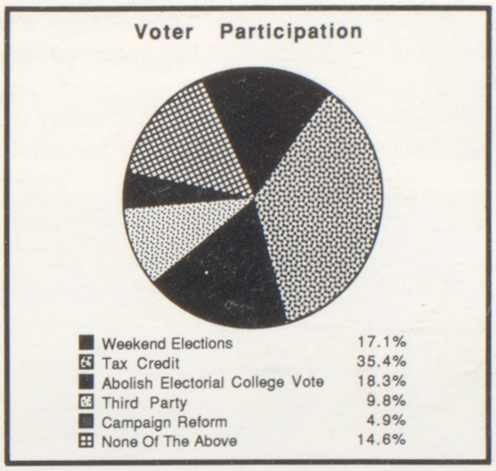
Students put in a class effort to make their voices herd in this election. Manny Quintero, Dave Suess, Mike Morrison, Ecir Dewolf, Eric Maybee, Gigi Gama, and Sasha Cullen together as a class.

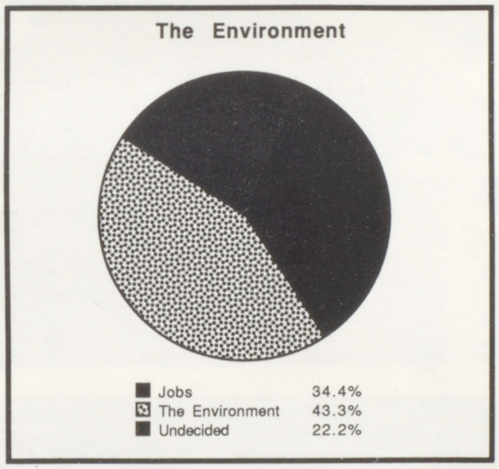


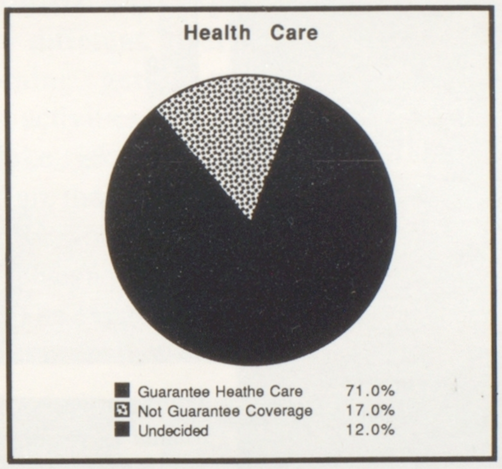
Mock Elections

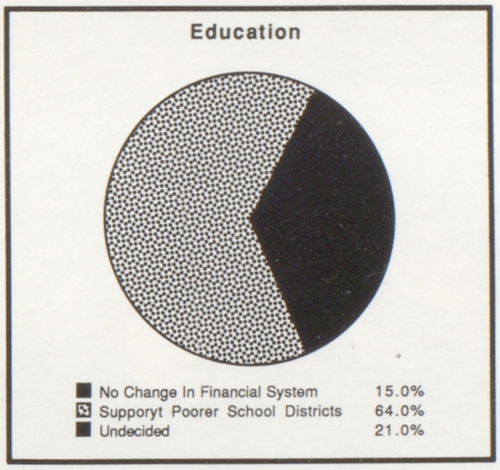


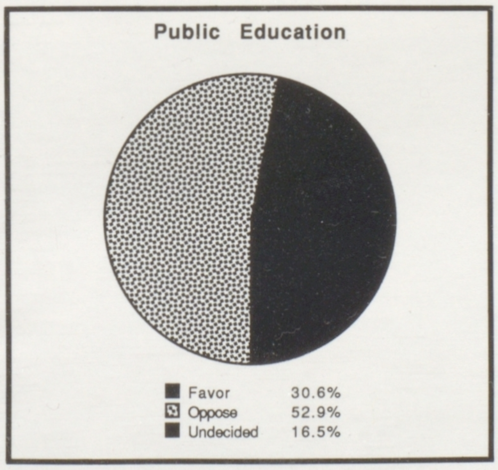


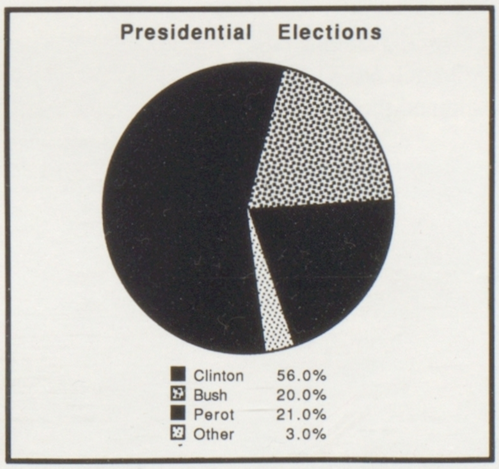












Of the 804 students who voted in the U.S. presidental election, 57% voted Bill Clinton, 20% Voted President George Bush, 16% Ross Perot, and 5% undecided.

The mock election was part of a nationwide poll sponsored by time magazine. Students also responded to a number of questions on issues that had been in the national spotlight during the campaigns.

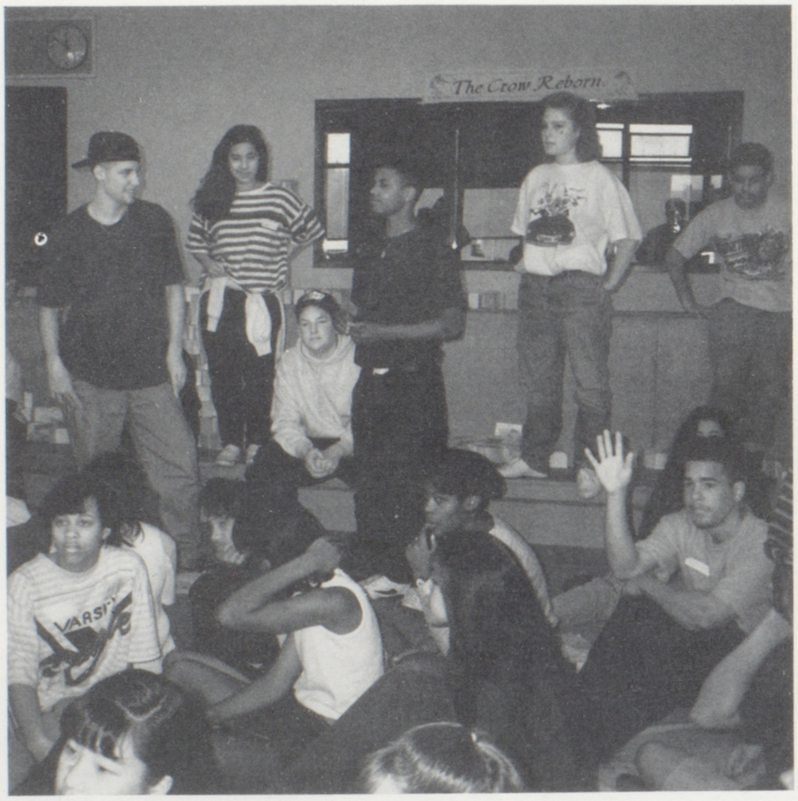
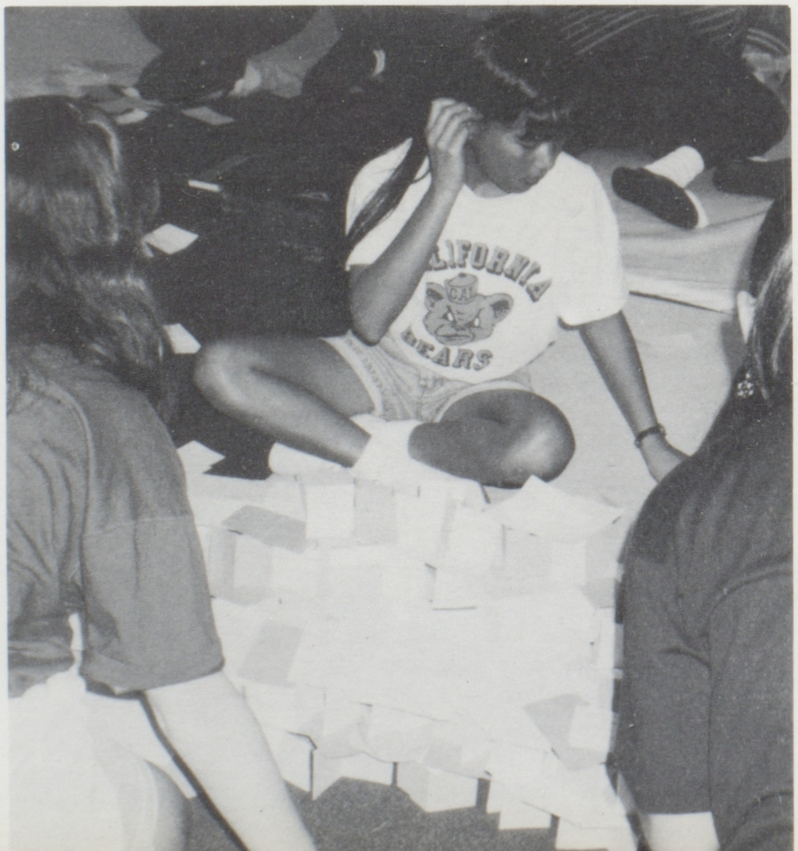
Insides

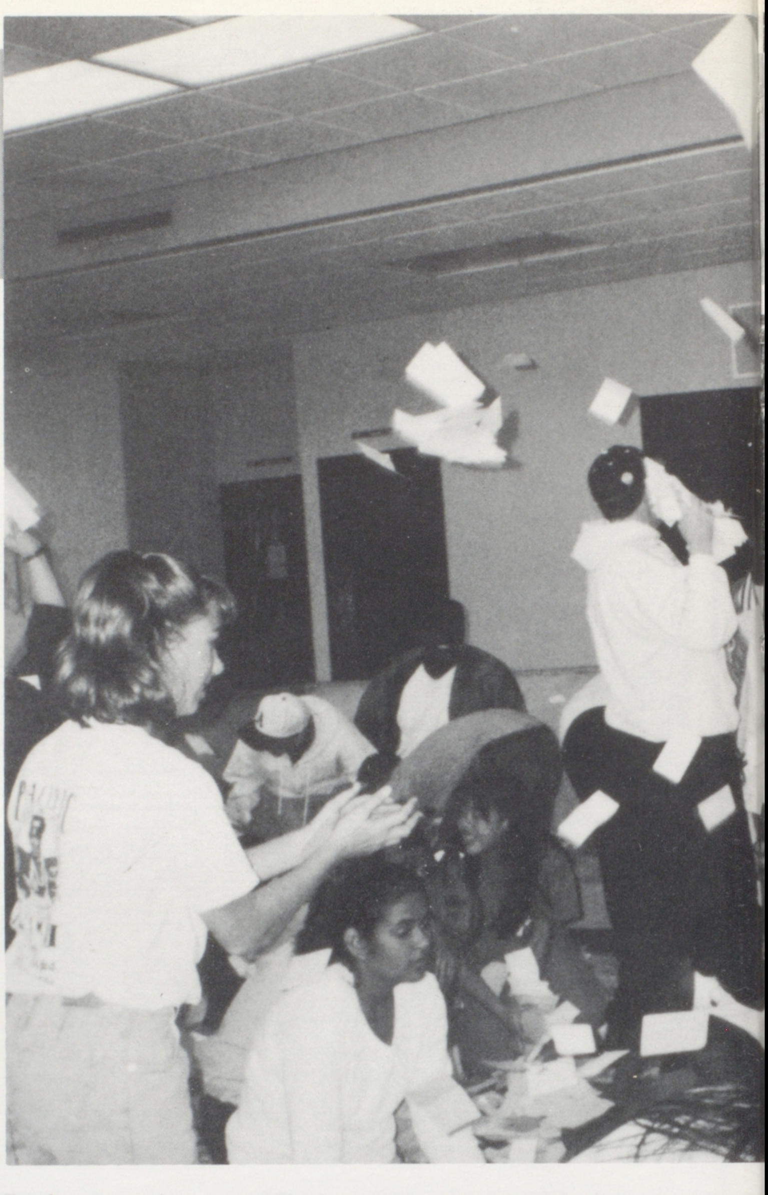
How high can they go? Students enjoyed destroying the card castles. The structure was designed so that everyone attending could fit inside.

What did you learn? The card structure was created without talking so that the evaluation was done after the activity was completed.

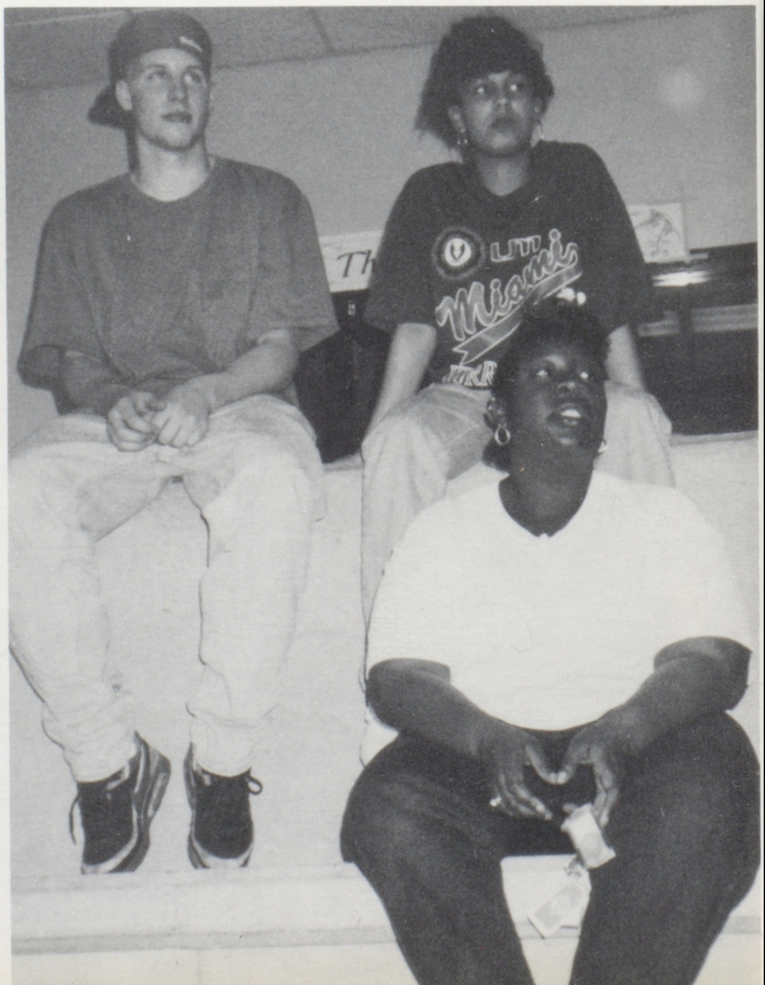


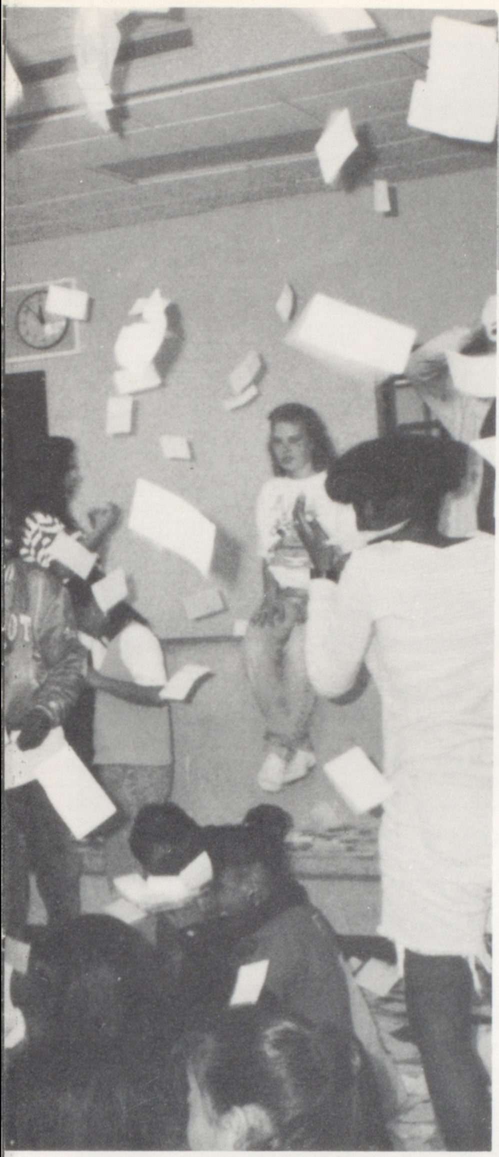
Working together to accomplish the task, Lynn Chu and friends build their portion of the card structure. The focus of the March 6th Kids' Day was to build trust and caring among all those present and then at AHS.





Paying attention, Laura Taylor, and new to Alameda, Mike Sabia and Shania Love focus on the lesson of the day...we all have a lot in common. It was a good way to get to know each other.





Outsides

Kids' Day is the day that we work on caring for each other. It occures on Saturdays and this year two were held, one in October and a second in March. Michelle Karns is the Kids' Day leader and makes the day special.

The days generally follow the same pattern, but the activities and people change and make each experience very different. During the morning, getting-to-know you activities and learning to take risks, like stepping out, are the outcomes. Midday we work to get to know ourselves and each other better. The evening focuses on issues in our lives and around campus. The entire day is spent working in small groups, usually changing groups as we change activities. It is a packed 8 hours.

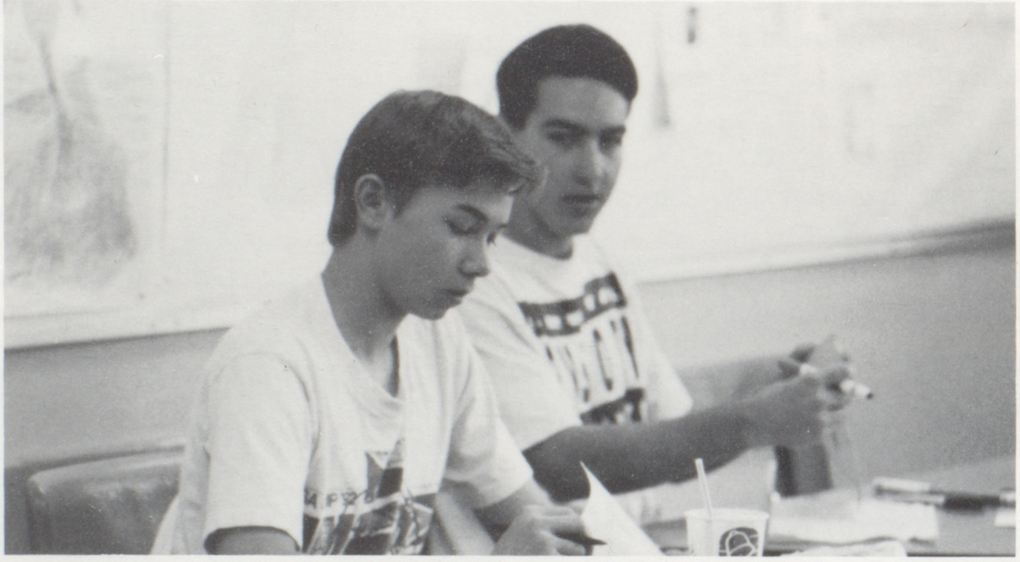
A brand new activity on the March 6th day was Eggheads. Each student selected and painted an egg to look like them. The eggs were all put away to dry, then randomly given out. We sent about 10 minutes locating the person that matched the egg. Once you had your egg back and were in your group you cracked it into a bowl proving the egg anology...different on the outside, same on the inside, just like human beings.

Eggheads?? This new activity, painting a egg to look like you, was designed to give the graphic lesson of... different on the outside, same on the inside.

Simon says... wave your hands and everyone does exactly what Simon, also known as Michelle, says. Everyone smiles during Kids' Day because we focus on the positive. It doesn't matter if you come without a friend because this is the place and the opportunity day to make new friends.

Getting serious about the issues that deal with the difficulty of being teenagers. Skits reflect our daily lives, but also give ideas to solving our problems.

Unity Week: One school One family One future

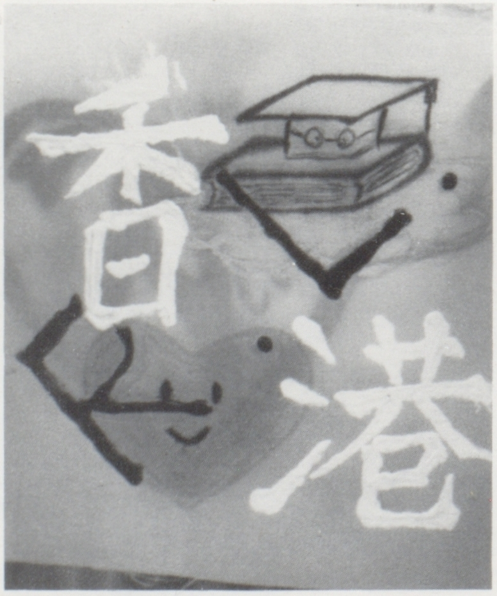


All together now...every student in the school comes together for a week at Alameda High.It is a week of sharing with one another and being proud of different backrounds; Unity Week is from March 22-26.It is the chance for every culture to share its uniqiness and specialness with the entire school All does not come together so easily though.It takes a lot of planning by Roja She ayee(Club Commisioner) and represenatives of each club.The quilt is put together by Leadership and other volunteers with free time.Numerous practice hours goes into each performance to make sure it is perfect.A Stage Purple meeting is held, so students' opinons and feelings could be shared about Unity.As the week ends, anticipation of the next Unity Week soared;hoping the next one would bring the school together once more!

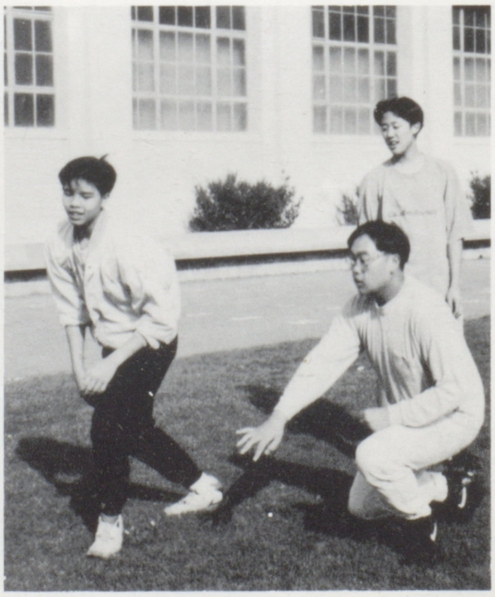
Friends share ideas! Unity quilts represents the friendships among students and the students themselves

"How does it look?" Ryan Hamlyn and Davin Skonberg compare their Unity quilts for Unity Week.

Whistle while you work! Dara Kaplan dedicates her day to help sew the Unity quilt.



Personal preference.. Students express their creativity by doing their own unity square.



Ready,set,kick. Ronald Ip and JackieKwong prepare to axe kick,while Grant Lee watches .

We can help too!JulieMathieson,Lori Keiser,andUsa Chaital spend time sewing.

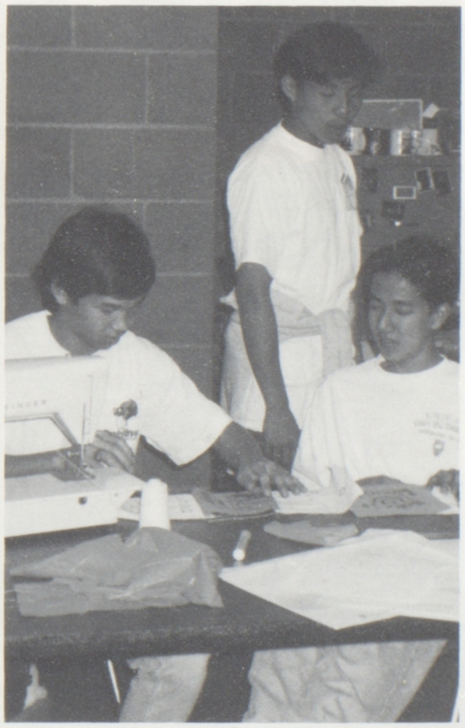
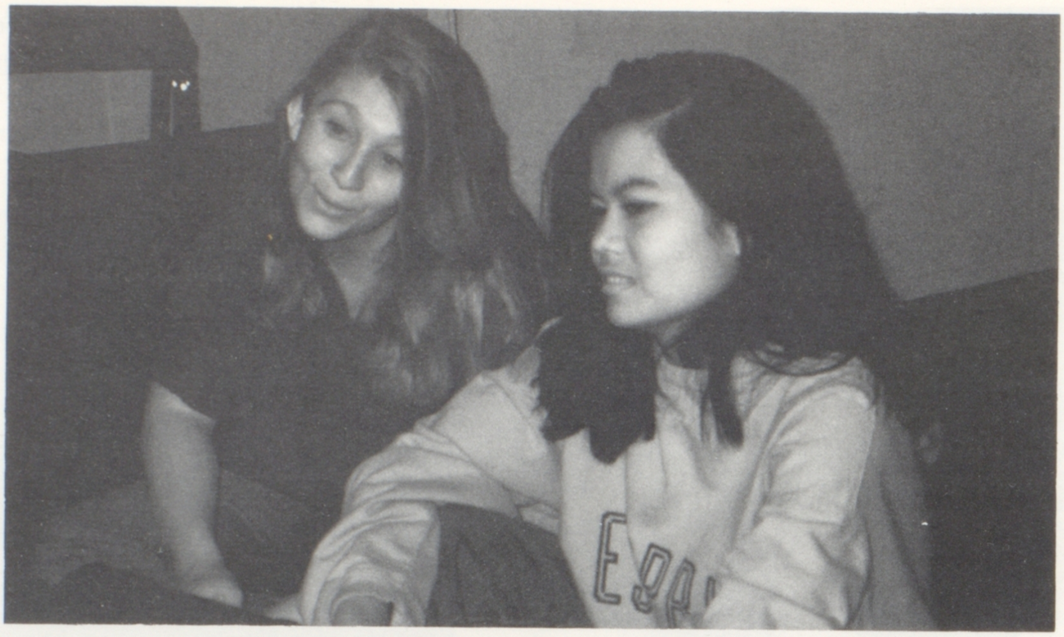
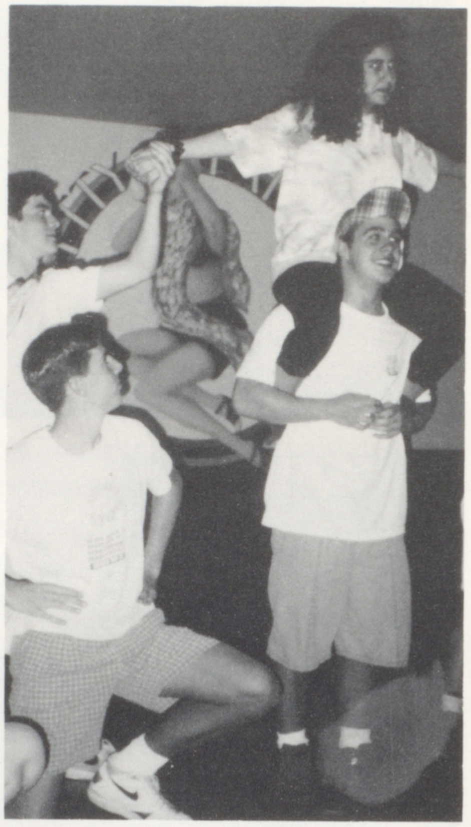
One, two, three... Members of Afghan Club practices for the Unity week assembly.



Men at work! Justin Woo, Edward Wong, and Doug Aoyama prove they can sew.

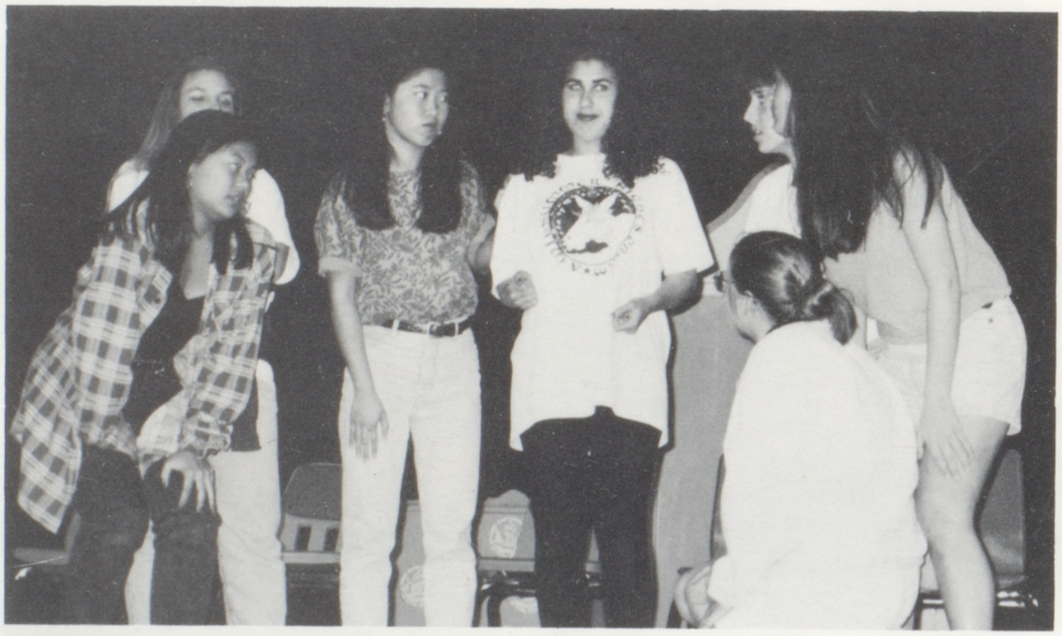
Round1!Fight!Chinese& Asian Club practice daily to perfect their performance.



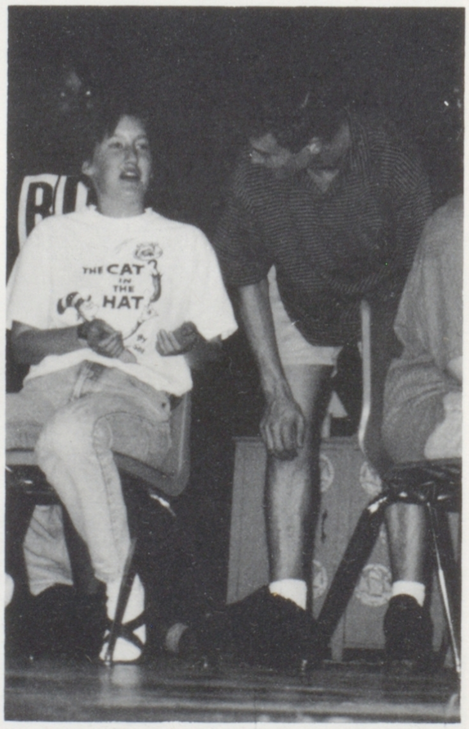


Everybody take five ! Chrisitine Ensley and Romina Ronquillo takes a break.

Practice makes perfect. This cast spends night and day rehearsing thier routine.



Say it isn't so! All the orphans look towards Annie(Nikki Kaplan) for support and love.



"Say what?" Matt Shargel waits for his cue from Jessie Smith to say his lines.

"Why you little..." Jennie Gambaoa plays Ms.Hannigan, the guardian of the orphans.

Annie: Take One

"The sun will come out"...and the curtains will go up for the spring musical, "Annie." May 7th marks the opening night for "Annie." The performances are expected to be great, the result of hard work from every cast member. According to Joy Sherratt, "We work really hard and spend a lot of time on it, but we know it is worth it because our performances will be great!" Everyday, during sixth period, cast members rehearse their parts in the Little Theatre, over and over again until they get it just perfect. Being a cast member requires a lot of dedication and patience. In addition, endurance is essential during the dance pratices held at West Coast Dance Studio. At the studio, everyone concentrates on the dance routines to make every step as spotless as possible. However, everyone has a lot of fun during rehearsals. "I look forward to 6th period everyday. It's the highlight of my day!" exclaims Matt Shargel.

Cool move, Justin Adams,Rick Tabor,Jon Harman,James Compact, and Jenny Wilson! There's more to the play than just acting.

Fa,la,la,la... Eboni Wilson and Akala Peoples harmonize together while others practice their lines in groups before they go on the stage.

Somewhere out there, someone still cares. Nikki Kaplan comforts sad Erin Thompson.

A Home for Annie... Joy Sherratt is Grace Farrell, looking for a pal for Daddy Warbucks.

Smooth slide... I think she's got it. Dara Kaplan perfects her routine.

After Hours

Aw man I need to do my homework, but I don't understand it! Study Night gives students a place to do their homework and an opportunity to receive help from the tutors that are available. Students believe that Study Night is a great environment for doing homework because they can get help, use references, and be away from distractions like television and the telephone. In addition, students gather at study night to socialize and even flirt a little. The opportunity to have a bit more privacy is important to many Study Night participants, so they use the personal study carrels. Junior Jennifer Sanders believes " It's great, you get to hang out with your friends and get your work done at the same time." "I go to Study Night because there's nothing else to do but homework," said senior Fred Baptista.

There is an after school tutoring program which provides many of the same sevice, but uses a one-on-one approach towards learning. Students sign up to come in after school and get help where ever they may need it. Students are also going to after school tutoring where they are acquiring better English. " I go to after school tutoring three times a week," said senior Amy Wootten. After school tutoring helps students get their work done, and that can do nothing but help.

By: Richard Benabou and Mike Parker

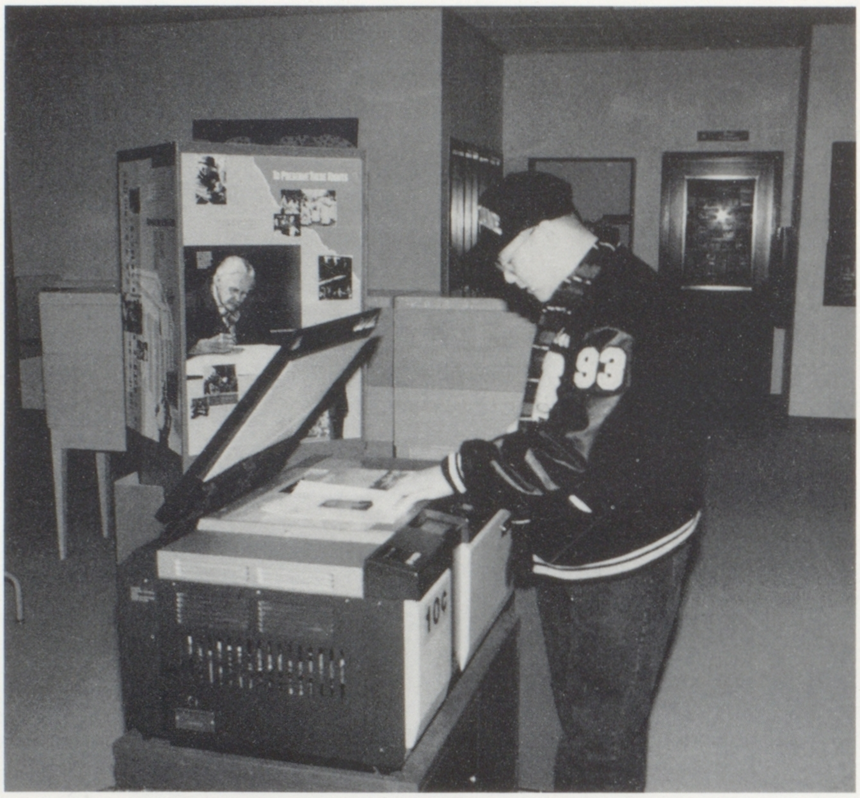


Image is everything. Copycat Charlton Lee makes good use of the copier at Study Night. At a dime per sheet, many students utilize the copy machine.

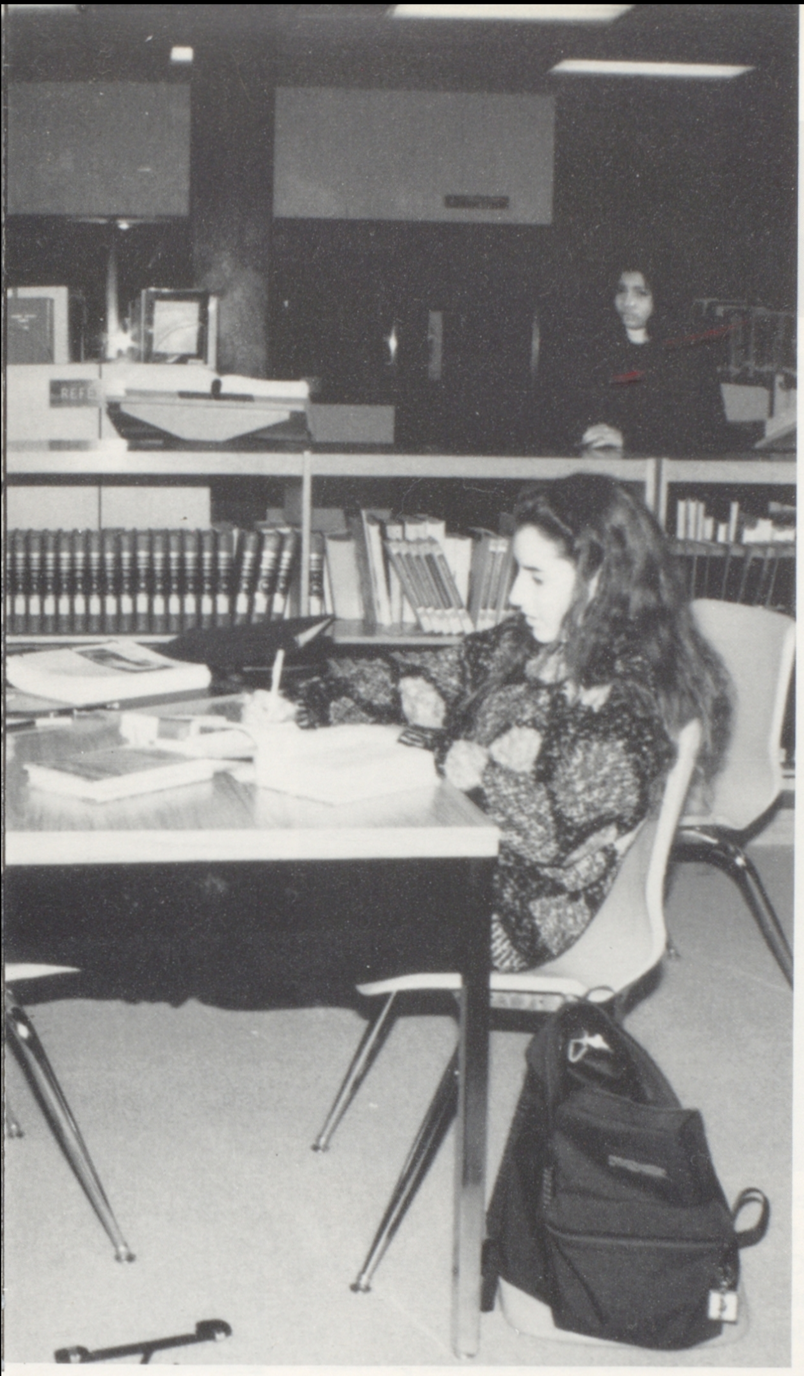
Two heads are better than one! Joy Sherratt and Michelle Cookson study hard at Study Night. Many attend Study Night with a friend or two to keep each other company.



Double trouble! Twins Dara & Nikki Kaplan hit the books at Study Night. "You can socialize and get work done at the same time," said Nikki.

A picture's worth a thousand words...or more! Jacob Battersby skims through the dictionary. Students use of the whole library at Study Night.

"Study Night is a lot of fun because you can finish your work and visit your friends at the same time." - Jennifer Finberg Whoa! Teachers study? Ms. Kameny supervises Study Night. Many different teachers and counselors have advised Study Night this year.

There's nothing like a peaceful atmosphere to help get your work done. A student at Study Night gets some peace & quiet while finishing his homework.

School-Based Health Center

The Alameda School-Based Health Center was originally conceived after a student survey revealed that students needed easier access to health and medical services and would be likely use a school-based health center. After a continuing push by students and teachers, and support from Supervisor Don Perata the program was established by the Board of Education in the early Fall.

Designed to serve Alameda, Encinal and Island High students, the Health Center functions as part of Xanthos Inc., a non-profit organization serving Alameda since 1969. It provides services such as physical examinations, immunizations, counseling and education on drug abuse and weight control, treatment of sexually transmitted diseases, HIV information and referral, pregnancy tests, crisis intervention and suicide prevention, and other much needed services.

Students have extremely positive responses to the Health Center and most are satisfied with its opening. "I feel this Health Center will be very beneficial and helpful towards the needs of the students. I'm glad it's finally opening," said Sophomore David Hoang.

Program Director David Seiken expressed his delight with the Health Center opening, and hopes students will overcome any intimidation they may feel about using it.Working along with David are Denise Leto, an administrative assistant, who you would see to make any appointments or get information about available services, and Bonnie Trinclisti, a nurse practitioner, who is at the Health Center a few hours per week, and available by appointment on Wednesday afternoons.

Seiken believes that the benefits of having an on-site health center are too numerous to count. The majority of students, faculty and parents see, a bright future for the Health Center and are pleased to have the services available. Expressing the view of many people Junior Greg Hugel said, "We're going to need it. It is coming at the right time." See mini-magazine for more coverage.

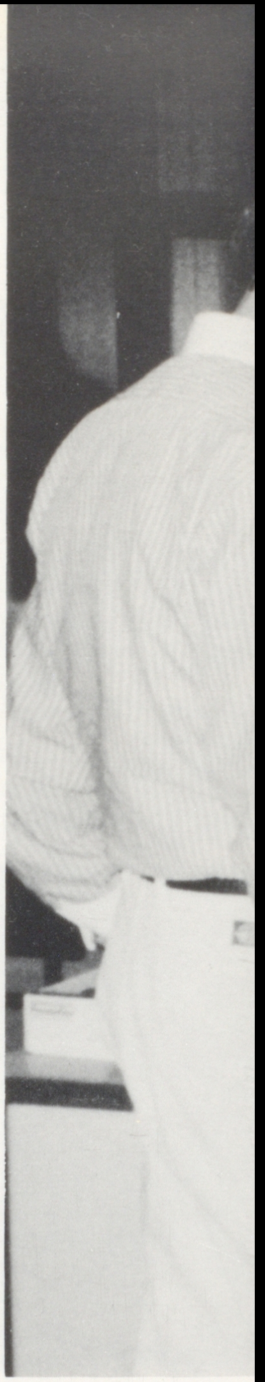
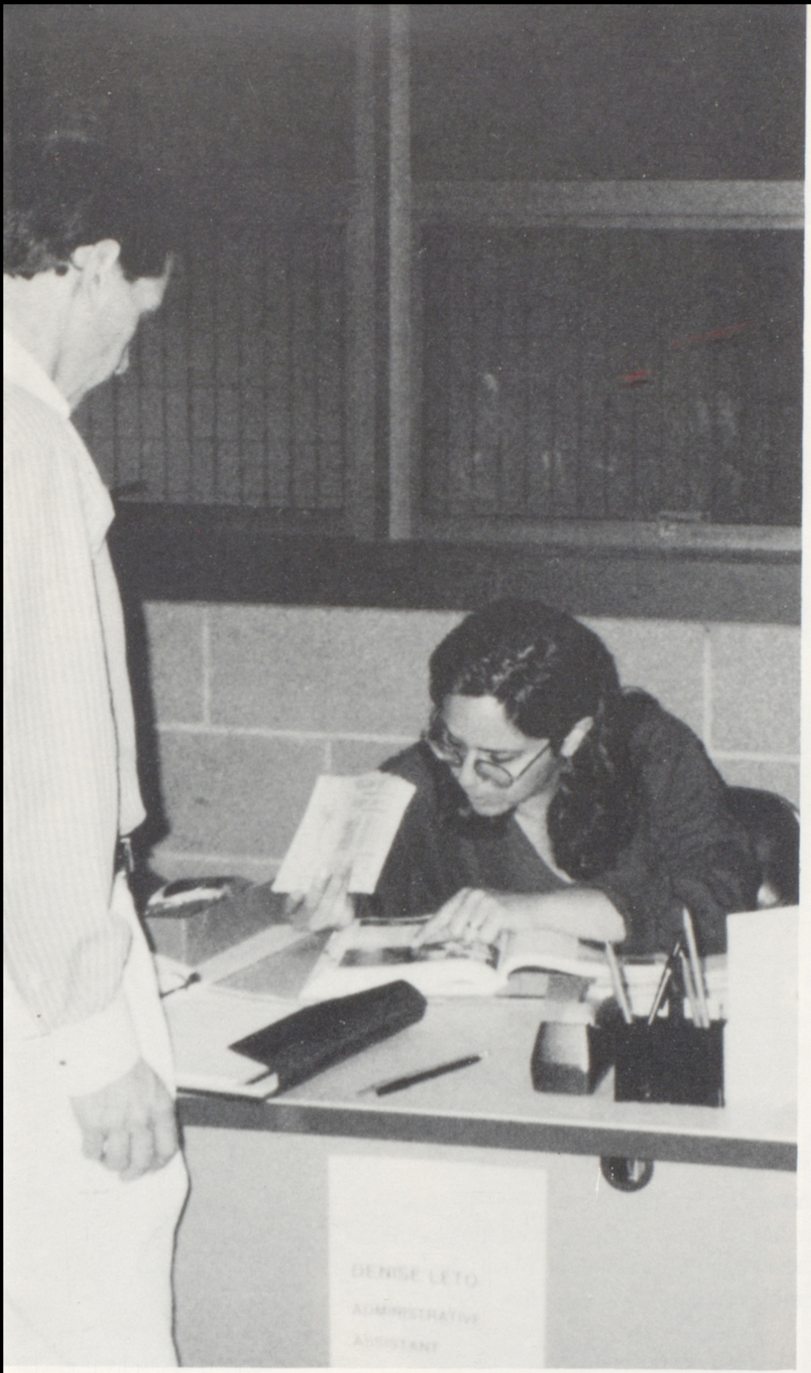
Privacy is the key. A convenient and private entrance from outside the school leads directly into the Health Center. This designe element is important and is used assist in maintaining confidentiality within the Health Center.

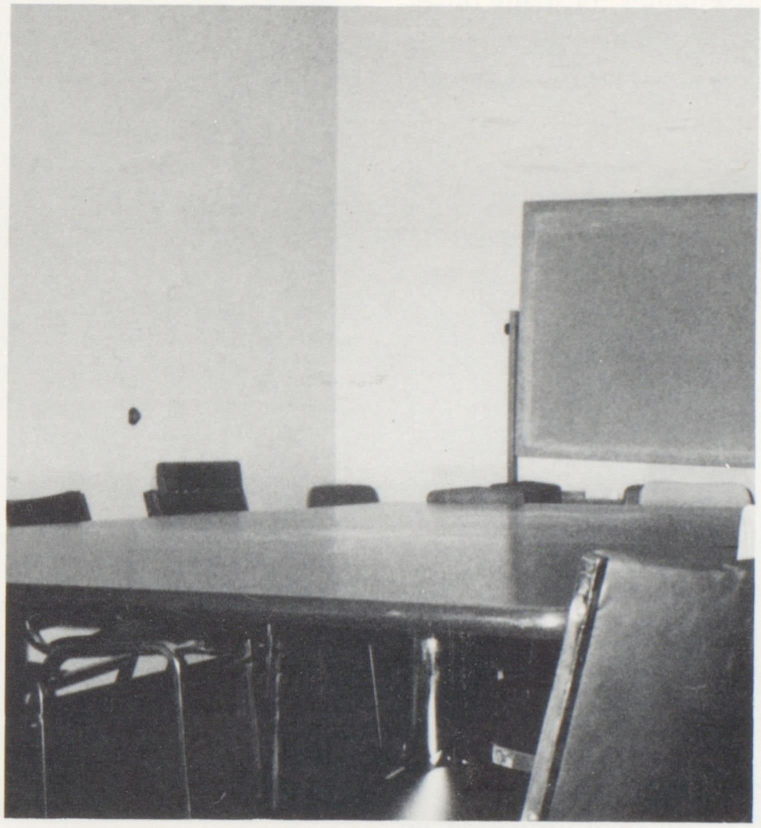


"The Couch," in the lobby of the Health Center, is a very comfortable way to wait for an appointment. Students will have to make appointments to use the services provided.

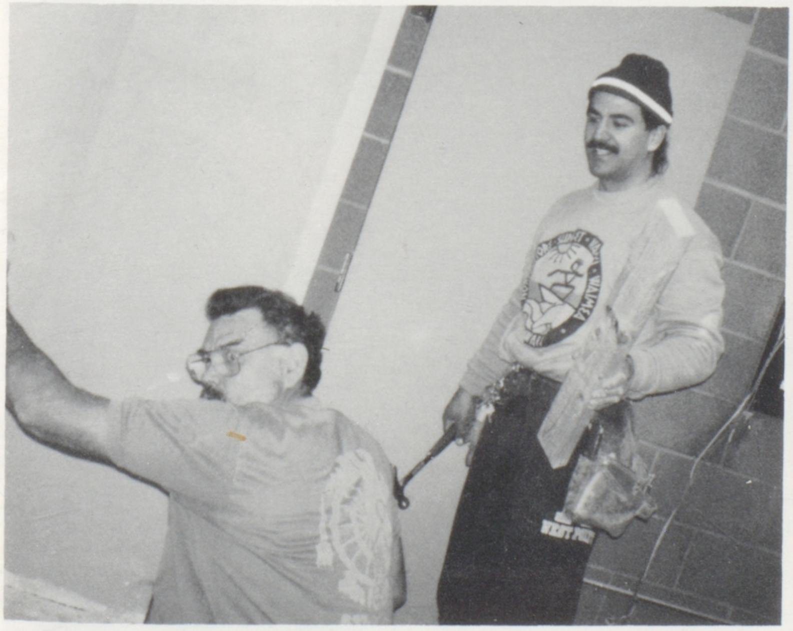


Getting ready. Program Director David Seiken and Administrative Assistant Denise Leto discuss the scheduled opening April 5th.

A place to meet. This room will be used for group counseling sessions, issue meetings, and by school personnel, but only if reserved.



Under construction. The Health Center is located in the former administrative wing of the newer building. Remodeling began in November.



Building walls. The Health Center was designed and built on campus as a part of the joint project between Alameda county, the city and the school district. Each group providing money, services and personnel.

Assembling in Unity

Spirit, cultural diversity, interesting speakers, and a lot of fun, these are all of the things that can be found at an AHS assembly. There are assemblies for many different occasions such as Homecoming, Unity Week, and many others.

This year, the assemblies were slightly different from previous years, they stressed more spirit and togetherness. "The goal this year was to keep the assemblies more student based. We didn't want to get a lot of people from the outside to come in," says Student Government advisor Joy Bramlette.

All students enjoy going to these assemblies. Not only because they get out of class, but also because they are fun and full of information on current events and problems. "I like the assemblies, everyone has a lot of spirit. Overall they're pretty successful," commented junior, Anna Haberstroh.

No matter what the occasion, students liked the assemblies. They gave everyone the chance to have fun and be with their friends, participate in different activities, and let their spirit show!

Prom Faire

March 11th brought limousines and formal wear to campus. All part of a new tradition developed by the ROP Marketing and Merchandising classes.

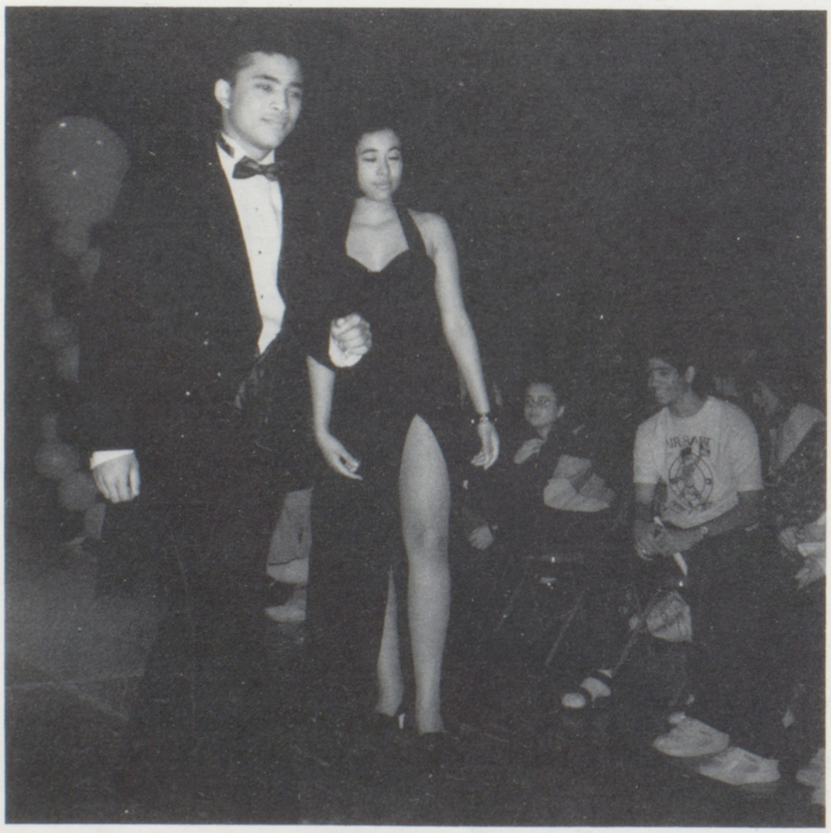
The first annual Prom Faire was held on March 11, from 6 - 9 P.M. in the gym and on the adjoining parking area. This event brought together all the needs associated with preparing for a prom. Represented were hair stylists, florists, limousine services, tuxedo rental companies and dress designers.

Another innovative project was designed and presented by Ms. Andrews' classes, the 'formal exchange'. The concept was simple yet dynamic... students who own used dresses could bring them and exchange them or buy a used dress for 20 - 50 dollars. "The concept is to make the best uses of our financial resources," said Liz Baca.

Each student in attendance left the faire with a catalogue filled with prom resources. These catalogues will also be distributed to all students buying prom bids.

These ROP classes meet on the Alameda High campus, but students from Encinal and Island also take the course here. The Prom Faire was a great success and was enjoyed by all in attendance.

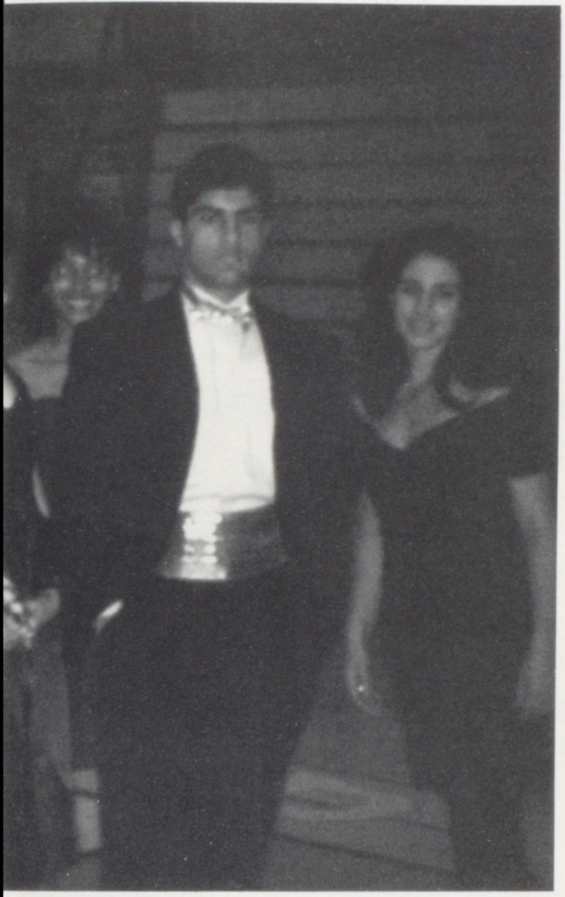
The AHS contigent included Elizabeth Baca, Amy Marshall, Andrea Wilcock, Maricell Azucena, Jackie Fernandez, Will Hassen, Shana



Tie & tails, James Rachogan modeled a very sophisticated look. All three Alameda high schools were involved in the Prom Faire.

On the runway, Susan Lai believes that the 'formal exchange' will prove beneficial and make it possible for more students to attend the proms.

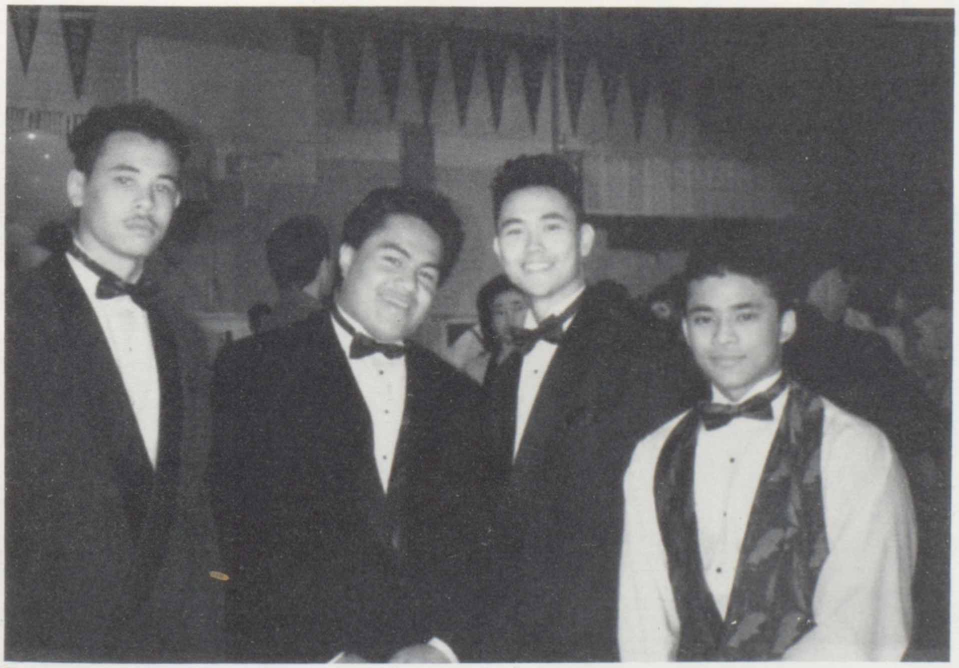
An Unique Opportunity...



Tippett, Usa Chaitlal, Amanda Jones, Joveena Prince, and Nassim Sarrazadeh.

Celebration time. Elizabeth Baca was ready to celebrate the hard work it took to put together and carry out the faire. The success of the '93 Prom Faire should make it a tradition.

It was fun. Camille Dennie participated as a model . Some girls wore dresses they owned.



Prom ready. Dewayne Deguzman, Paulo Sunia, Angelo Alano, and James Rachogan got involved in modeling for the tuxedo rental companies represented at the faire. Students learned to shop around for the best deals and to select what style would look best on them.

One last photo, Liz Baca, Brandi Wayne, and Coral Rolfe were proud to be part of the Prom Faire. Brandi had fun wearing a tuxedo, they are more comfortable than a formal.

Fads n Fashions

Fads and fashions for the 1992-93 school year varied among different age groups and different clicks. Student strutted different styles and different ways of dressing. Style changes were evident throughout the year.

A fashion statement that caused unrest and faculty concern included clothing items that carried symbols of illegal substances, cigarettes, negative racial symbols and an other inappropriate designs. As a result a new school rule prohibits students from wearing any type of clothing that promotes any illegal substance or is offensive to anyone on campus. This difinently killed certain fads but others remained

All students have thier own dress code, for example... some prefer baggie jeans others like their jeans tight. "You can sometimes tell what kind of group or click a person belongs to by the type of clothing they wear. Cause of fashions, students keep to their own groups, I myself dress a little like everyone so I'm friends with everyone." said Jacob Brown. For the 1992-93 school year the different fads and fashions left a lasting impression on students and teachers. By William Lyle

Good old cotton and denim. No matter what era it may be, shorts, shirts, and jeans are always in, but the style of wearing them may vary.

The choice of a new generation, not the soda, the baggie jeans! Baggie jeans were famous during the '93 school year.

Kelly Holmes, Ryan Harris, Nathalie Overfield, and Tyrell Patrick sport different outfits to show the different fashions students wear during the year.

LASTING IMPR

Being a senior makes you realize that you don't have another year. It's time to reflect on your past and to look forward to your future. It's one more chance to live it up. Because in reality it's the ending of a special time. It's a time to celebrate and create moments. In four years our class has made memories and formed a sense of unity that will follow us forever. High school is a lifestyle, it's a time of uncertainty for everyone. Now that it's over we are filled with new feelings; fear, anxiety, excitment, and exhileration for the future. Now is the time for a beginning of a new life.

Thanks For The Memories

Every class needs a class sponsor for support and advice. This year's senior class of 1993 is lucky enough to have two fine sponsors, Mrs. Cunningham and Ms. Mann. Although they are new sponsors to the Class of '93 this year, the seniors know that their help is essential for a successful year filled with many fun activities. The class of 1993 extends their thanks to these women and appreciates their efforts.

The seniors also thank all those other people who helped out with many of their projects. This is a very choice group of people including teachers, staff and parents who care enough to dedicate their time in support of our class. We could not have accomplished anything without people like them. Thank you one and all!

SENIORS
CLASS OF 1993

When hearts are young, and life is gay, it's not so hard to go away; but as the years divide our ways, and thoughts turn back to high school days; a treasure then, this book of scenes, when we were young- just in our teens.

But, why waste sighs or solemn thought — a time machine can soon be bought; we'll turn a dial or use a key, the modern 'open sesame,' and back among our pals we'll be — the class of nineteen ninety-three.

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

As the Seniors walked onto the Monte Carlo they realized for the first time that this was the beginning of the end of an era in their lives. This was the last time that the class would be together until they graduated, and that would be the last time.

The food was served quickly after they arrived on the boat. There was plenty of pasta, bread, salad, and sodas for all. Everyone quieted down as they announced Senior best, and before they knew it the D.J. pumped up the music and the class of 1993 let it all go.

The banquet was attended by 168 Seniors. Complaints were few, it was an enjoyable evening, truly a night to remember.

Behind you... Kelly Anderson, Ivana Kirola, and Kim DeWeese wait for their turn in the buffet line. The pasta and dessert was enjoyed by everyone.

Look over here... Table 3 is filled with enthusiasm and they are gladto be aboard the Monte Carlo for their first Senior class activity together.

The gangs all here... and really looking forward to an exciting evening. Lia Bullock, Marisa Fieros, Lisa Schmitz, Natalie Mariani, Jeaninne

Celebrate good times...the guys all get together to take one last memorable picture. Long time friends Kent Franke, Bret Bustos, Mmmm Grub... :as soon as dinner was served no one hesitated to hurry to line up and fill their plates. Joe Weirather, Mari Baquero, and our German exchande student Silke - Jamnina Brandt enjoyed the buffet.

Don't look so suprised! Andy Bordalo and Jessica Black stop dancing for a moment to take a picture.

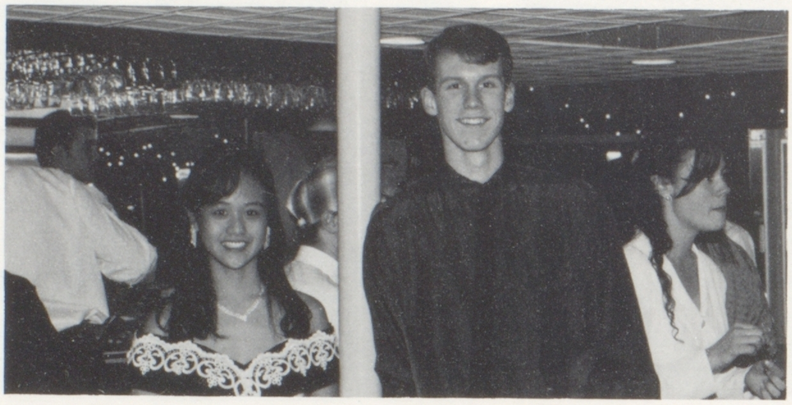
Glamour Girls...enjoed their cruise under the Bay Bridge and the beautiful San Francisco views.

Hey, Hey, Hey! Marta Westernoff and Kent Franke stop to take a picture before leaving a long evening on the Monte Carlo boat where they celebrated their Senior banquet.

Enjoying the evening... Lisa Schmitz and Ryan Flock celebrate their many years of friendship.

"Are we having fun yet?" by the end of the night Cathie Clark and Eleanor Maass answered... YES!

AN EVENING OF MEMORIES



Proud of their accomplishment , President and Vice-President Elizabeth Lin and Dave Suess take time out.

"Wanna dance?" Emily Lundberg, Nina Skyles, and Shannon Walters spent most of the night dancing, like most of the seniors did.

Cheers! Lia Bullock and Mike Morrison celebrate one of their las tsenior activities together cherishing every moment.

When is our turn? Many of the seniors patiently waited for dinner to be served.

Hey that's my roll! At the banquet salad, rolls, and a variety of three pastas were served.

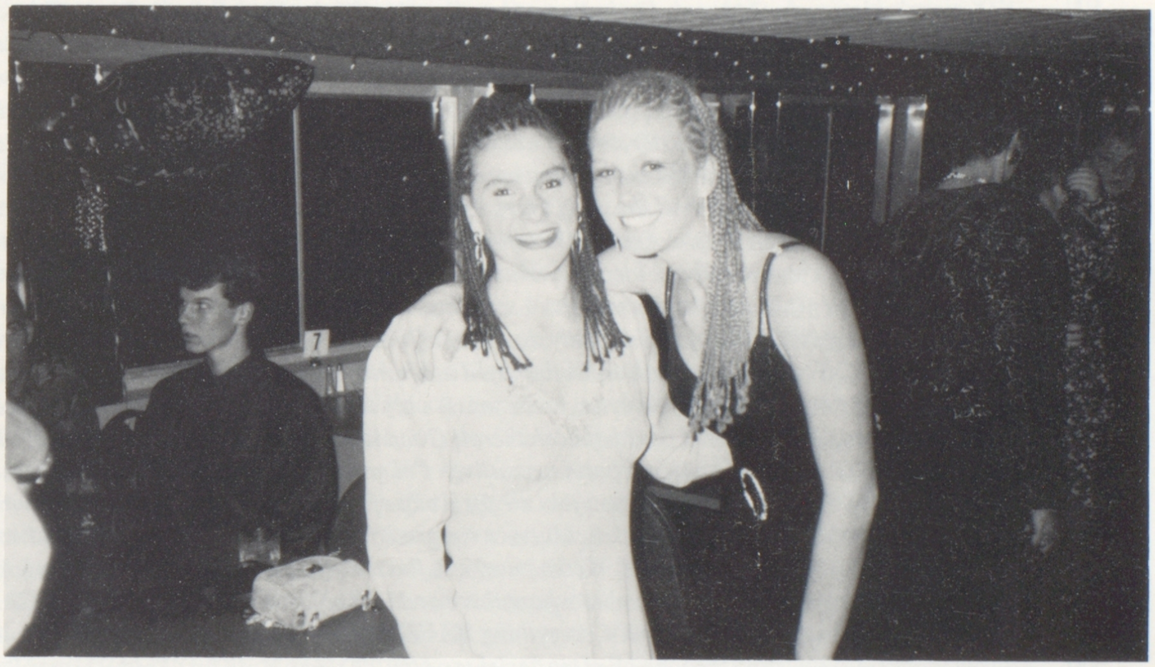
Groovin' the night away. Dancing was a main attraction for everyone at the banquet. T.V. screens were set-up with music videos playing.

Holly DeCelle, Allen Boltz, Aaron Filipelli, and Aaron Saali.

Check us out! Marisa Fieros and Ricky Tabor stop and take a picture for the camers.

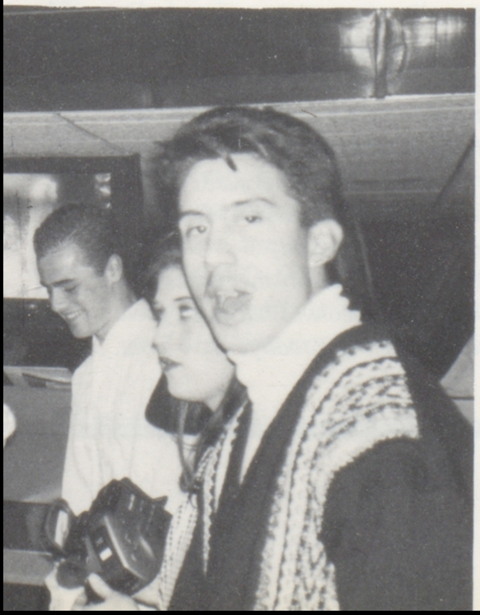
"Who got what?" Senior Bests were a conversation topic for Fred Baptist and Jovan Harrison.

Damon Gee, Vicente Castillo, Joe Weirather, Franf Redle, and Joe Courtright.



"Don't you like our hair?" Jamee LeMoine and Cybil Gilbertson went with their unique style with braids in their hair.

Tammie Chambless, Chris Psara, Brandi Wayne, and Mario Smith.



Waiting.. Raymond Yan, Jason Woo, Marie Gandara, Mike Wilson, Silva Gunawan, Justin Woo, William Chu.

Relaxing... Nina Skyles, Courtney Harper, Cynthia Huang, Michele Liang, and Emily Lundberg.

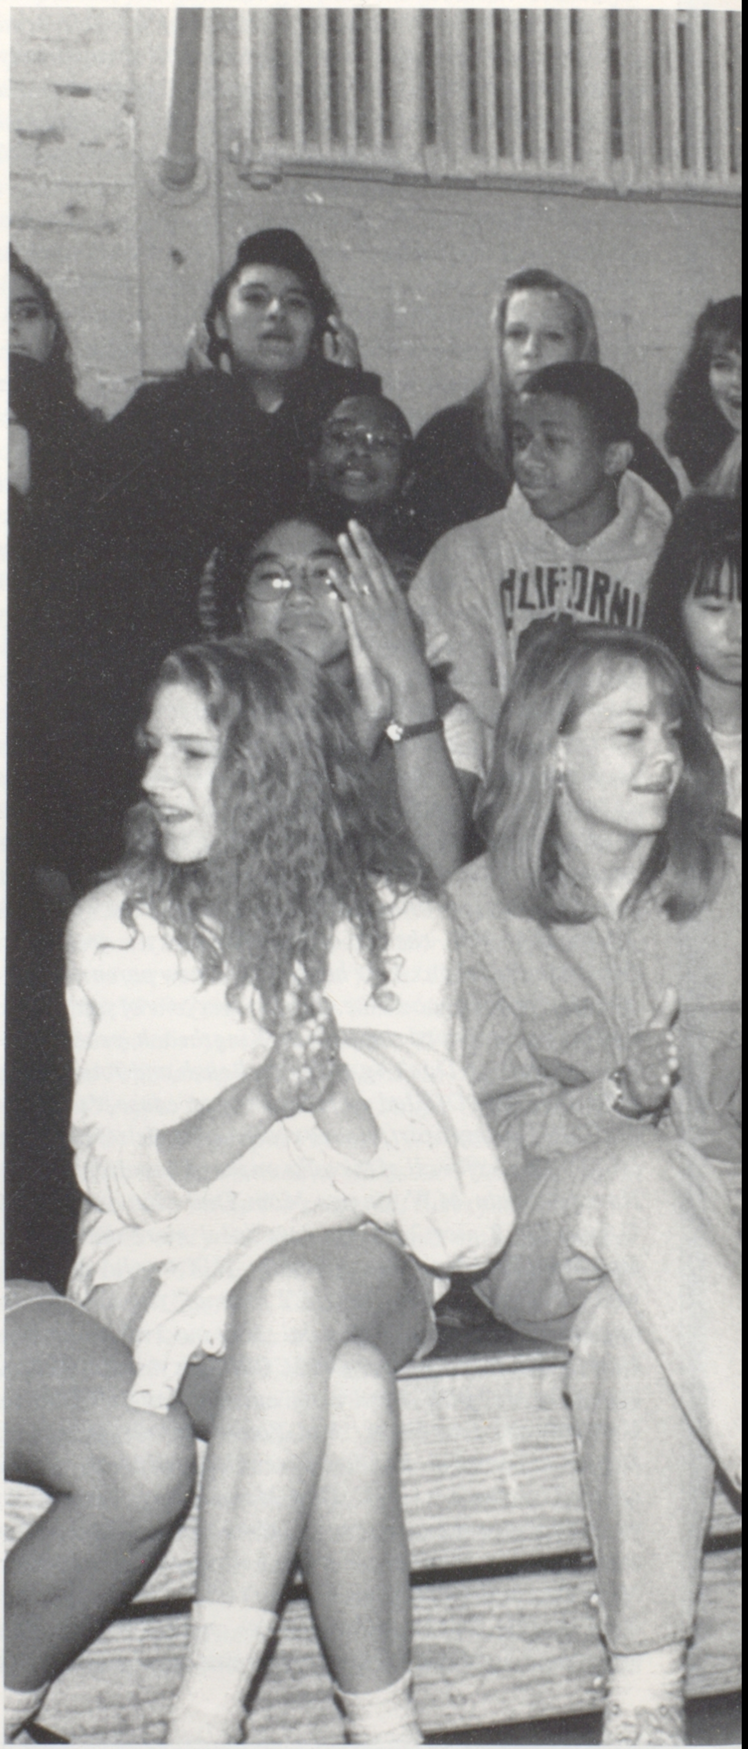
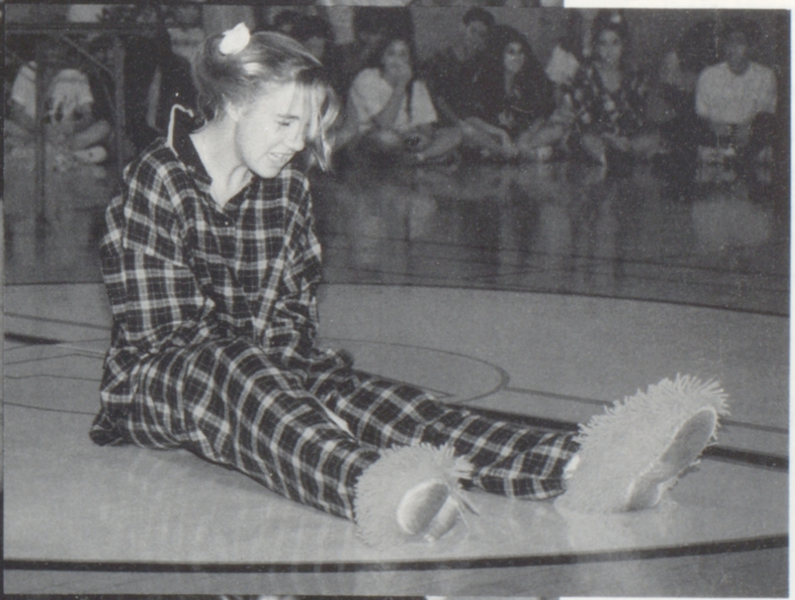
FIRST IMPR

An obvious part of the AHS lifestyle is it's diversity in its student body. There are many different groups of people and cultures within the school that help create an atmosphere of joy. Many individuals contributed their knowledge and beliefs, and this support creates the intense understanding and acceptance of all races and cultures at Alameda High. We are proud of our unity and work hard to enhance and preserve it.



RESSIONS

Sunny Places, Shady People - Seniors, Marisa Fieros, Sasha Cullen, and Jeannine Falletti take a break on the lawns of "The Circle" Lunch was just long enough to take a nap before heading off to fifth period.



Cry Baby, Cry - Sabrina Leslie exemplifies the epitome of a high school student having a hard day. It's not easy to get up in the morning and face another day of classes and lectures, and most would love to stay in their PJ's, as Sabrina did.

A Gagle of Hornets - Sprawling across the lush green lawns, the student body found comfort in the late September sun. The favorite spot? The circle served the purpose well, it was the ideal naptime, lunchtime, so you can relax location.

The Junior class of 1994 is known for great accomplishments at Alameda High School. They have shown incredible pride and spirit in building two first place floats for the Homecomming parade and presenting excellent skits during Spirit Week. These achievements were made not only by the students of the class but with the support of the facultysponsors, Mr. McCracken and Ms. Bramlette.

Mr. McCracken has sponsored the class since it's freshmen year and has seen the class develop over the years. He sees in the class "an abundance of energy and enthuisasm. I am really looking foward to their senior year."-Mr. McCracken

Ms. Bramlette has also supported the Juniors for three years and believes that "the Junior class is superb!" The class always finds her oppinion valuable in making critical decisions which effect the two hundred and ninty one people of '94.

"I hope that a lot of good times lie in the future for us!" said Matt Shargel, Junior Class President.

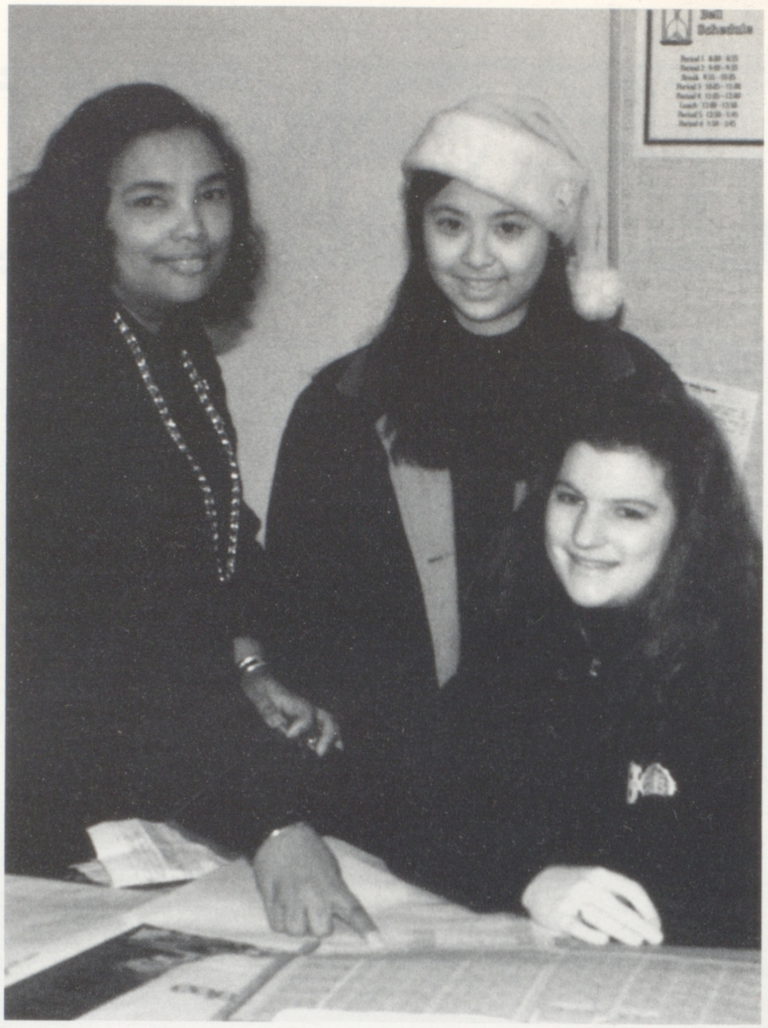
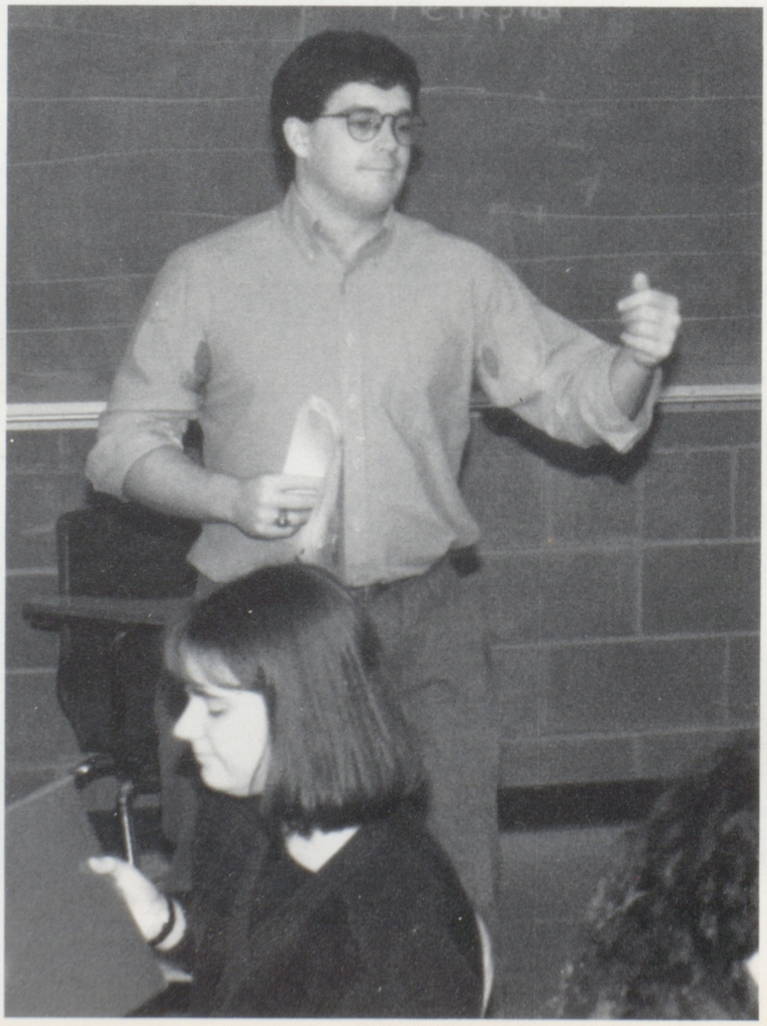
Doug Aoyama



A helping hand. Ms. Bramlette lends a hand wherever needed. Juniors T. Fung and J. Finberg get her assistance in yearbook class.

CAMERA, ACTION!

Togtherness and spirit were displayed by the many Junior participants during the Homecomming parade.



Words of advice from Mr. McCracken, a teacher and advisor to the Juniors. Class meetings were helled weekly in his room.

What to do this weekend? In between school, homework, jobs, and SATs, juniors barely have time to have fun. But when they do, they make the best out of their free time. Besides hanging out with friends and going out, juniors participated in extra-curricular activities. Lots of juniors help out their class. In their spare time, the juniors worked hard on Homecoming activities. All their hard work paid off as they got first place for the Homecoming float and tied for first place for the Homecoming skit.

Juniors Jane Kang and Bonnie Joy show their junior spirit as they walk down the street during the Homecoming parade. Many juniors helped the clubs that they were involved in. The juniors use a lot of their free time to participate in the fun activities for school.

Stress, pressure, tests, sound familiar, juniors? As the new school year began, the class of 1994 prepared for what is said to be the most stressful year of high school. As the year went on, many juniors realized how true this was.

Junior year has always been the most important year for college-bound students. Most juniors prepare for the SAT, reasearch colleges, and do a lot of homework. Junior Shana Tippett says, "This is the most stressful year because I have to worry more about grades and colleges."

No matter what classes they took, how they prepared, or what study habits they had, there was no escape out from "junior year stress."

Money doesn't grow on trees. Juniors are finding that phrase to be very true. With the economy now, adults need to make some cut backs and unfortunately for us, it means our allowances. Allowance, once a luxury, is now somehting you earn or don't have. This is the era for responsibility, independence, and budget mangement. The cost of living is too high to afford. Juniors haveto pay for S.A.T., Achievement, and A.P. tests, Junior Prom, and weekend activities. It's simply amazing how Juniors can fit a job into their acedemic schedules. "I work on the weekends and I don't have a life!" sighs Amelia Ng. "I work afterschool on Tuesdays and Thursday and do my homework after my job." says Ben Blaisdell. As for Juniors who don't have the time to spare, where does their money come from? "I used to have a job but I didn't like it too much, so now I ask my parents for money whenever I need it." exclaims Alexie Escondo. Elaine Chin works in the cafeteria during lunchtime.

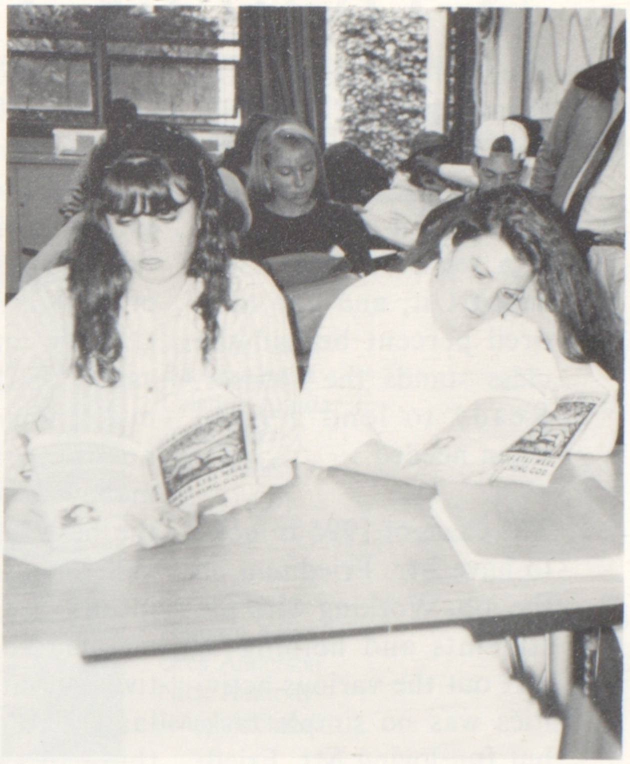
Working hard! Juniors work well together. Every year their floats get better.



Study, study! Sarah Throckmortan and Jennifer Finberg are taking their studies very seriously, as do most juniors.

Want to go to lunch! The circle is a great place to mmet people and have a great lunch.

Building the float was a hard task. The class of '94 took charge and won 1st place for the second year in a row.

Relaxing in the sun! Lindsey Litchfield and Tyrell Patrick had a great seat during the parade. They worked hard on making "jaws" look real.

Juniors "heard it through the grapevine" that they produce fabulous floats.

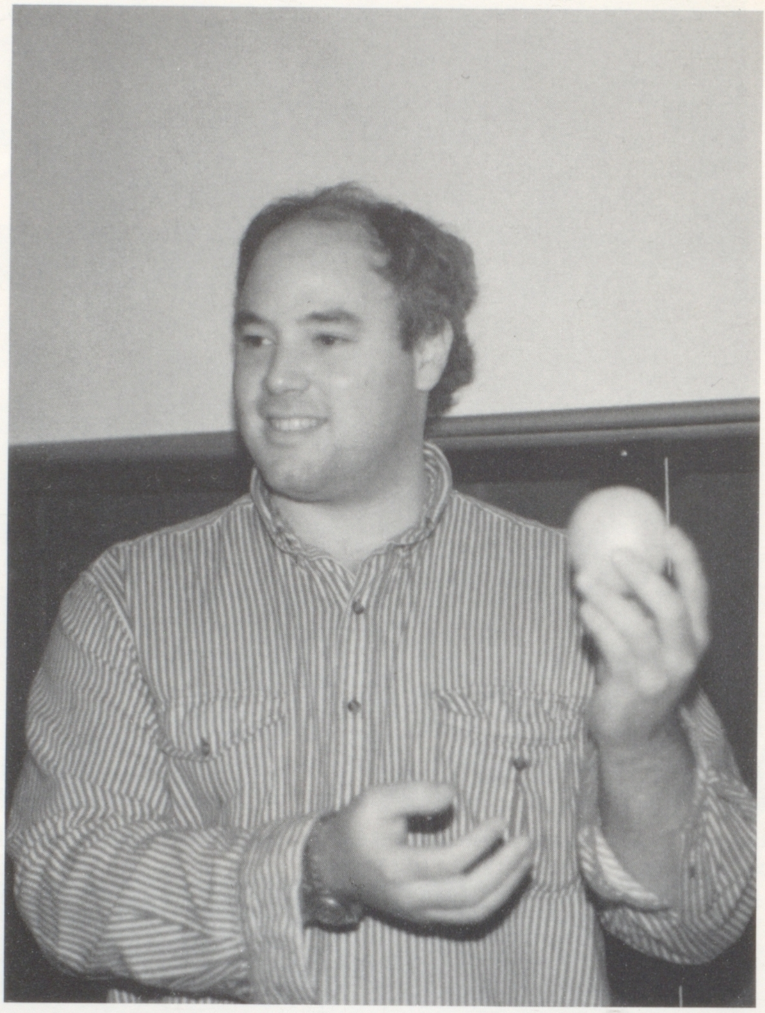
A Helping Hand

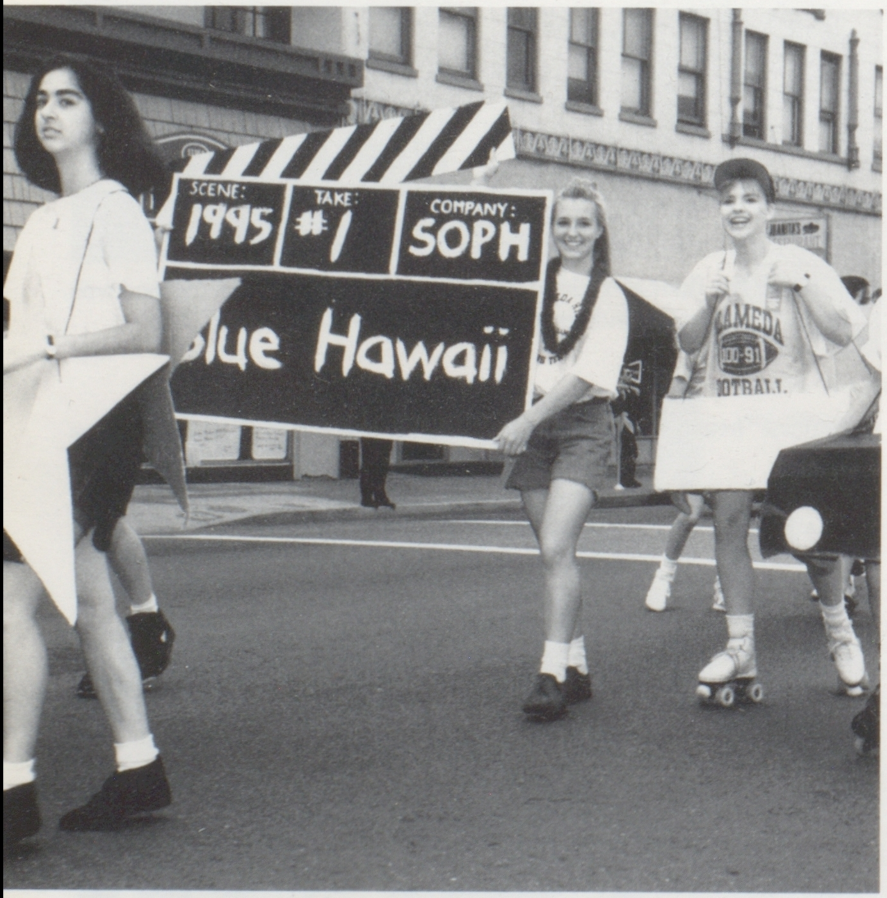
Float building and the WinterBall were the major activities for the Class of 1995. Behind each fundraiser and activity there is a team of people who support it, and one hundred percent behind the class stands the sponsor. Ready to lend a hand when needed.

The Class of 1995 is lucky to have Mr. Friedman on the job. Working with the students and helping to sort out the various activities was no simple task, but fun-loving Mr. Friedman said, "I love this class." The students appreciated having him around. With the great feeling of unity between students and sponsor, every activity was a lot more enjoyable.
The major sophomore activity is the WinterBall. "I like to give the kids the freedom to do whatever they want with an opinion here and there." responded Mr. Friedman, while giving advice on decorations. The Class of 1995 organized many other activities, most with the same goal in mind, to make money. Each class needs to raise enough money to support having the best senior year ever. When not actively making money for the class the members like to plan activities that will outdo the last. The class had one thing to say about their jolly, fun-loving sponsor, "We wouldn't want anyone else for the job."

By: Jacob Brown



This is an orange - Mr. Friedman enjoys a laugh with some of his sophomore class members. He was well liked for his sense of humor.



Finally, we're done - The float took lots of work, but with Mr. Friedman's help, it went by in a breeze for sophomores Erin Thompson and Monica Gilkey.

Quick, a kodak moment! - Always willing to help out with the sophomore class which he sponsored, Mr. Friedman made each activity one to remember.

SOPHOMORES LEARN...

What did you learn during your first year of high school that you are using to help you in your sophomore year?

"I had to learn time management in order to keep up with my studies."
- Gina Natali

"I learned that it helps to be organized to keep up with the work assigned."
- Allison Towle

"I realized that I actually had to do my homework, because there is a greater punishment if I don't."

The Winter Ball of 1992: Saving Forever For You

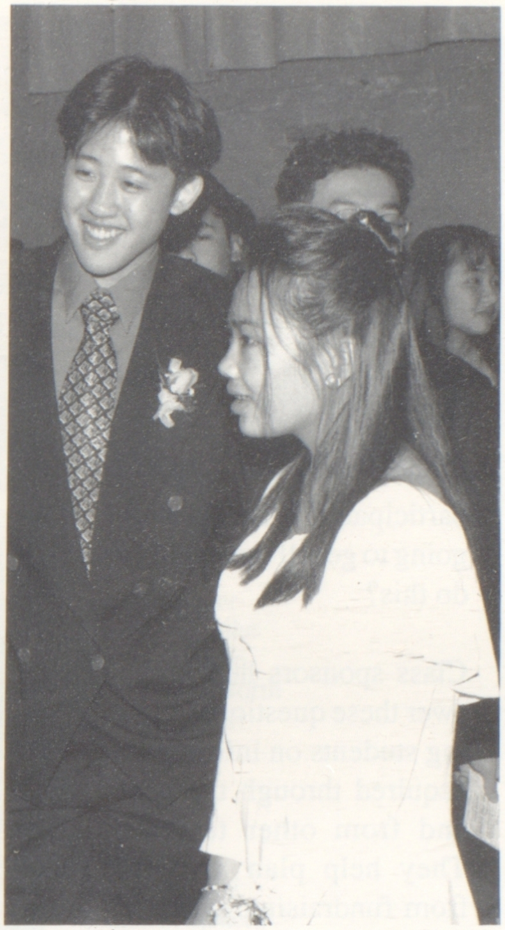
Music! Music all night. This is just one way to describe the Winter Ball of 1992. This magical evening, sponsored by the class of 1995, official began at 8:00 p.m. on December 11 and lasted until 11:00 p.m. Immediately walking through the dimly lit dance hall, many couples headed straight for the dance floor, while others socialized withtheir friends. Connie Flores, Clara Ricabal, and Steve Kim danced and looked at their other friends. Many couples and groups waited in line for more than 45 mins. to have their pictures taken by Garibaldi Studios. Students in line passed the time by listening to the music of the DJ, Divide and Conquer. Others socialize among themselves, while admiring tlhe sparkling emerald green and silver balloons.

As the night came to a close, the theme song, "Saving Forever For You," was heard throughout the dance floor. The Winter Ball of 1992 gave everyone a fond memory and a special feeling of warmth that would last forever. By: Amy Chan

The first time Freshman John Byon,Lynn Chiu,Usa Chaitial,and friends went to the Winter Ball.

Practicing their smiles,Renee Gray,Latrice Webb and Tanya Moen wait to take their pictures.

Hey friend! Over here! Groups of friends were a popular scene at thedance.



Ha- Ha! That's funny. Juniors Grant Lee and Cindy Chan takes a time out to relax and socialize.

Great Expectations

So many things to do yet so little time.Of course everybody looks great by Winter Ball night...BUT how did they prepare themselves?

His Side:the man usually carries the traditional responsibilities of making the dinner reservations, buying the corsage for his date and picking her up.The 90's man does "it last minute The day before I had to buy everything. I had to go home quickly to get ready after helping with the decorations and I didn't have a lot of time."Keith Chin "my date had his sister and some of her friends help him get ready and it too him two hours. "Nancy Tran

Her Side; The woman spends long hours to make themselves beautiful and to find the perfect dress. The 90's lady "shower, put-on make-up, dress, put on the accessories, and checked in mirror at all angles,posing in front of the mirror and seeing how I smile."Nancy Tran "I went to Mervyns in New Park mall and found a pair of black shoes in my size but the line was so long. Then I went back to Mervyns in South Shore, but they didn't have the shoes I wanted in my size but I got them anyways."Tina Ng

All that was done for just one night! But everyone agrees that it was worth all the effor and time. It was an unforgettable night for all who went.

Looking good Vanessa DelaCruz and her date smiles.Nimmer and Sharon Prez looks very poised.

Making Good Impressions

How are we going to plan for our Winter Ball? Where are we going to have our Junior Prom? The Senior Banquet, Picnic, and Ball? How will we get people to participate? Where are we going to get all the money to do this?

Class sponsors help to answer these questions, advising students on information acquired through the years and from other teachers. They help plan activities from fundraising to dances to homecoming. The Freshman Class is lucky enough to have two class sponsors, Polly Maccini and Nancy Casillas.

Freshman year typically is one dedicated to fundraising and basic planning. The Class of 1996 sold roses and candy in order to get enough money to hold a Winter Ball in their sophomore year. They helped the Class of 1995 this year with their Winter Ball to get some experience planning an activity.

Ms. Maccini is happy with her Freshmn Class, stating, "They are very energetic and can get a lot done." The class responds to their sponsors, saying, "They are outgoing and fun."

--By Ellie Maass

It's so far away- Freshmen Erin Sabitini, Julie Mathieson, Winnie Fung, and Lori Keiser learn about graduation requirements.

Love this job-Polly Maccini, Freshman class sponsor, happily takes on the responsibility during the class meeting.

NEW IMPRESSIONS

Has your first impression of AHS changed and how?

"Yes, I thought people would be mean and the homework would be hard. Now I think the people are nice and it is fun here."

-Marlena Carmona

"I thought a lot of people would go to all of the games, but hardly anyone goes."

-Rosalie Shomon

"Yes, I thought it was going to be really fun, but school would go by very slowly. Now I think it is all right, but it is going very fast."

-Aurora Rivas

"I was expecting a lot of homework and the work to be very hard. Now I think it is okay, bit I feel too yong to be in high school."

"You called?" replies Kim Vaughn as she turns for a quick snap shot. Kim was on her way to take the stats for the frosh boy b-ball team.

The Class of '96 is off to a remarkable start. These Freshmen have their act together. They have already surpassed other classes in raising money at the pizza feast. They also did acceptionally well with their rose sale.

This spirited class is filled with a group of excited, enthusiastic, and energetic teenagers. They came to Alameda High School filled with hopes and dreams that they hoped to accomplish. They are off to a good start because in the first semester they've made more money than any other freshmen class in the past 5 years.

Their Homecoming skit was well put together. You could see the effort and quality time they spent producing this skit. "I thought the skit was cute for us. The students who acted in it were no professional actors but they were good. My favorite actor was the person who portrayed Charlie Chaplin," reported freshman, Stacy Anderson.

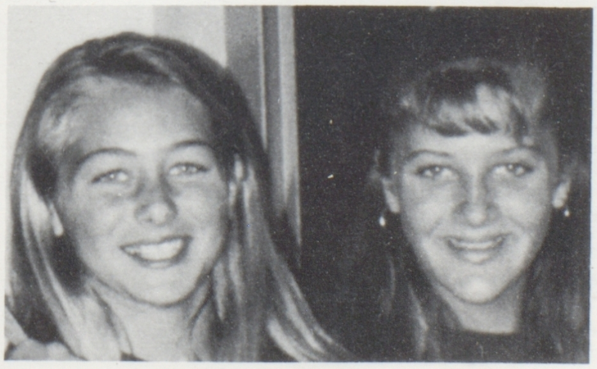
By: Bernadette Brown

"Want to dance?" Bibiche Hennessey get down to the funky music at the first dance. Most of the freshman attended the first school dance to see how Alameda parties!

Oh my Gosh!! Freshman Cora Sang and Bernice Chung talkto sophmores Quyen Nyugen and Anna Vivero at the 10 minute break about some unbelievable gossip. This was a usual routine for the students at the break.

Finger paints to paint brushes... Jasmine Hernandez paints a pumpkin in her art class. Art was an elctive that most freshman took instead of a foreign language.

Flash us those Freshman smiles! Libby Connolly and Emily Whalen smile as they are on their way to the freshman class meeting.



Smile you're on candid camera.... Mike Desai, Nimer Musehl and Dong Yi are taken by surprise at the Harvest Fair. For their first Harvest Fair they enjoy it and can't wait until next year.

Special Achievements

The A.H.S. Special Day Classes are located in rooms 101 and 733. The students not only do school work but, work on outside vocational skills. Learning athletic skills and having a good time is why most students participate in the community based Special Olympic programs.

Teachers and Instructional Assistants encourage students to rely on themselves rather than on always having to seek assistance from other people. This is the reason they stress teaching and the mastery of life skills.

The Special Day Class is filled with some of the most caring and giving people you will find. They deserve to be recognized for their achievements and skills. Their struggles for independence and respect make them a positive force on campus.

Administration

a great team working together for a positive environment

The 1992-93 school year brought two new members to our administrative staff. This administrative team understands the systems and the challenges facing both students and teachers.

Our new principal, Betty Ruark, has an excellent sense of commitment to carrying out activities and goals proposed by students. She is involved in everything that goes on around campus.

Our new vice principal , Jim Kentris, is in charge of student activities and has made a positive impression on all the students. His friendly attitude has made him easy to talk to and work with.

Ms. Roberds, the vice principal in charge of instruction, has a positive relationship with students. She believes that we need to keep our standards high and help all students work toward achieving them.

Mrs. Sherratt, our head counselor, uses her position to stay directly involved with students. She takes an active role in helping students prepare for and achieve their goals for the future.

This team is honestly concerned that all students attain success and happiness now and in the future. They strive to develop positive members of society. They not only give their wisdom, but they give us their heart.

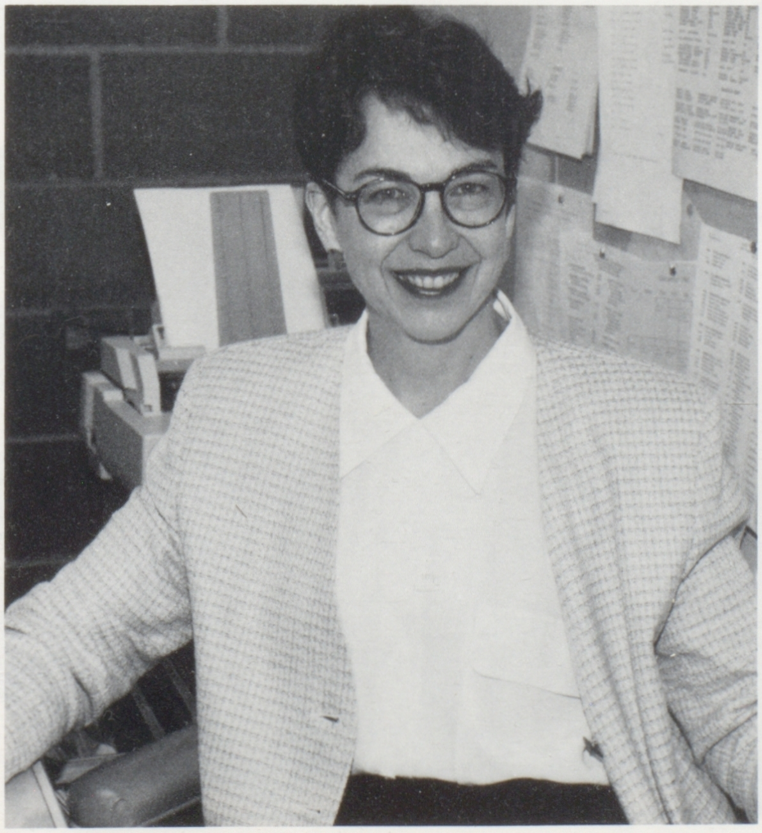
By: Anna Haberstroh

Wow! Check out those cool hats. Mr. Kentris and Mrs. Casillas show off their favorite day time look.

Betty Ruark, Principal, is proud that A.H.S. is a warm place to be. "We have a very positive faculty who get involved in positive ways." She is impressed by the positive decisions and versatility of the studentbody.

James Kentris, Administrative Vice Prinicipal, is impressed that " we are a close knit, spirited community where everyone is working toward a successful education for all students.

Carole Roberds, Instructional Vice Principal, knows that A.H.S. is a great school. "Students and faculty are extraordinary." Her impression is that sometimes we don't realize how special we are.



Working as a team! Mrs. Sherratt, Ms. Soria, and Mr. Bentz review ideas that will assist more students in being successful.

Margie Sherratt, Head Counselor, is impressed with the 20 or more different languages and cultures represented on campus. She is proud that we strive to include everyone while maintaining traditions from the past.

Togetherness is the key issue. Mrs. Ruark always maintains a smiling attitude. She works with both students and faculty to keep A.H.S. a positive place to be.

WE REMEMBER...

A Broken Heart

Ever since you passed away,
my thoughts have been so deep,
Straight from the mind and the heart,
wish forever I could sleep.

To be with you one last time
is something, a lot would say
The same I think will never be while you're gone, day after day.

So long I've known you and your face
Just to let you go forever.
to all who you were closest to,
Peace out" we know you said it.

What I write about comes straight from the heart,
only to you may this be true,
I'm to the point, in mass depression,
never more Right or Wrong.
I don't know what to do.

This poem is called a broken heart and that you'll always see no matter happens good or bad,
your spirit is always with me.

We love you forever Noell

The Last Season

It doesn't seem like they're gone.
Yea, I'll see them tomorrow.
I just want to crawl in a hole and come back and see Bee and
Wake up Mom in the morning.

This is my last and only poem.
I love you Mom and Bree.
This isn't slapping me in the face, but whipping my heart and soul faster than lightning.

I hold my heart to you both and
I know you are happy.
Some lonesome day I will be with you.
Because when the music is over,
Turn off the lights, turn off the lights.

DAMINGIS "94"

Mom- You are so close that I can feel you. What went wrong with our family? We did nothing except be free. I can't take it back now, but I'm sorry for disobeying, not doing the dishes, not sweeping or mopping. I'm sorry for yelling at you Bee - put those dishes away. I know you would say, okay, but I know some where in your room you'd be dancing in the mirror. It's too late now. What I do know is when you dissolve from life the pain is over. No more suffering and struggling to make it. It's okay Bee and Mommy, - you're free now... Love, Your Son and Brother - Domingo Lee Reynolds ●

Alameda's Naval Air Station (NAS-A) was placed on a list by Congress for possible closure. After an extensive review of the community and budget issues the possibility of it remaining open are bright.

UNITY WEEK

Monday, Hat Day, displayed sports caps, berets, sun visors, etc. Tuesday, Blue Ribbon Day, showed our pride in receiving a visitation for the award. Wednesday, Kris-Kross Day, allowed students to be creative. Thursday, Culture Day, allowed each student to take pride in their cultural heritage. Friday, Class Color Day, united classes in theme colors demonstrating spirit and unity. "It was the greatest week on campus," stated a majority of Hornets.

Asian- Pacific Islander Heritage Month

For the first time, the month of May was acknowledged as Asian Pacific Islander Month. Ethnic clubs held discussions and meetings about their cultural background to help each other express themselves and their culture.

MENTAL IMPR

At AHS, all students have high standards. They leave time to play, but they also know that if they say no to their studies, they say no to their future. Acheiving high standards and getting work done was made much more productive and enjoyable with programs such as afterschool tutoring and study nights. Not to say that Hornets don't relax and have fun, but students know the importance of knowledge, and they also know that they can achieve a fun filled academically successful life here.

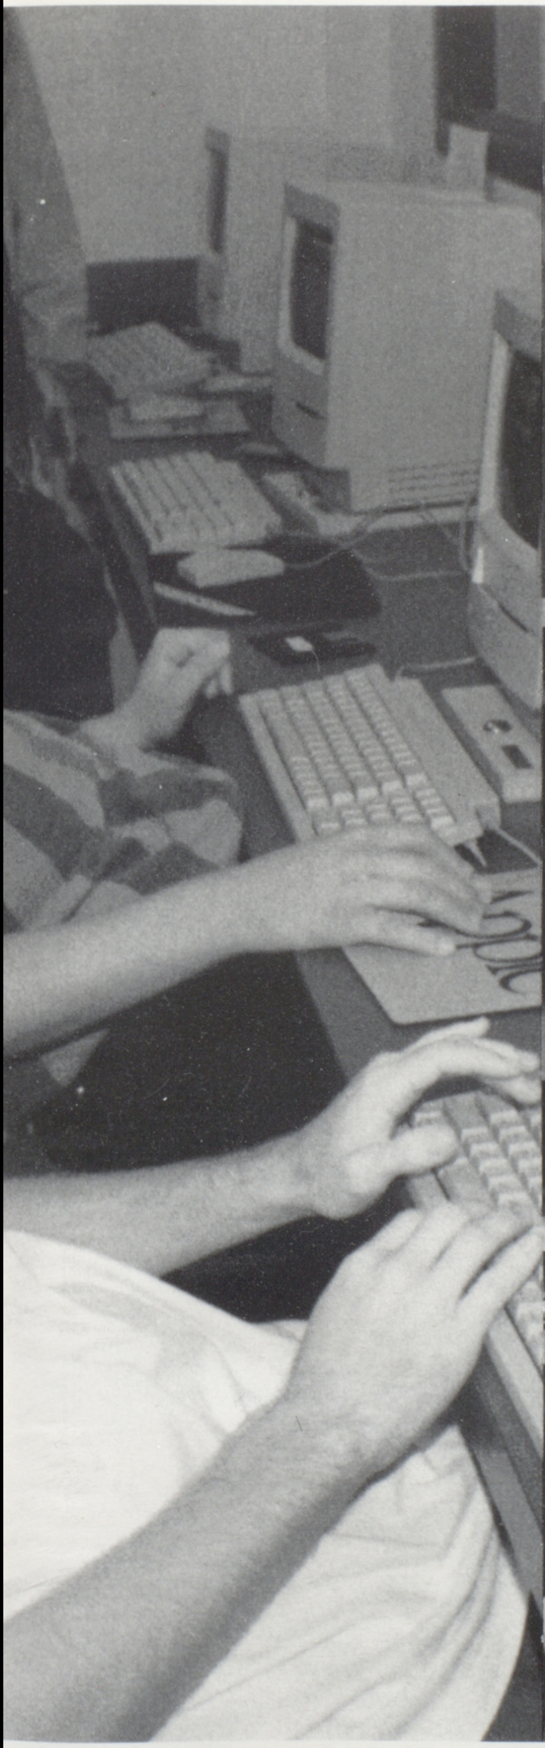
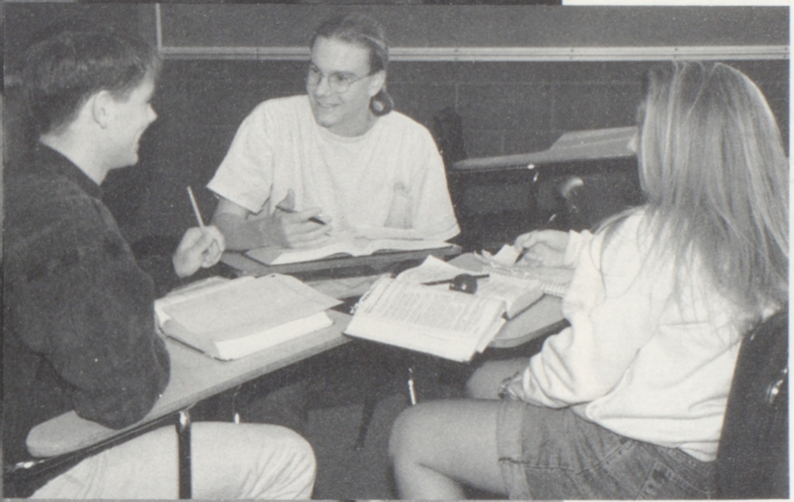
RESSIONS





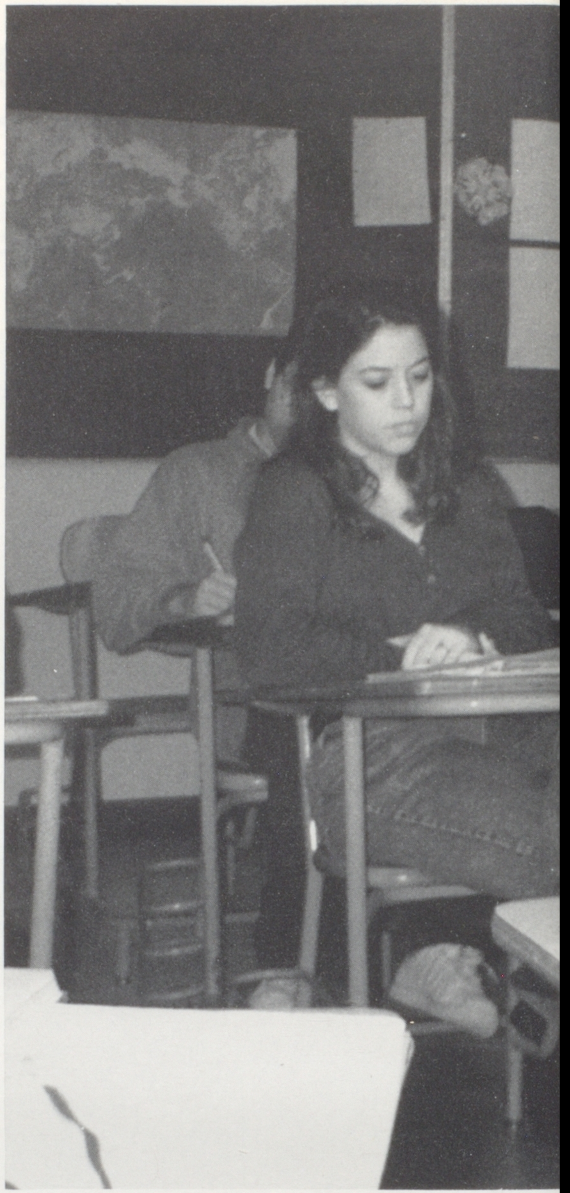
One and One Makes Three - Junior, Jon Harmon explains the basic priciples of geometry to fellow students, Christian Bowman and Sarah Burson. The math trio completed their taskes while in Mrs. Quan's third period Geometry class.

Watching the days go by - Jenny Wilson and Joy Sherratt listen intently to their teacher. Eventhough it got rough at times, students realized the importance of a full nights sleep to make it through the day. Sometimes this meant skipping a socail life, but that's what it takes.

Awake on the wild side - Aaron Scott, Joe Wierather, Sandra Lin, and Danielle Martin intently read Oedipus in their senior English class. Reading a Shakesphere work was reqiured for each year in high school.

Foreign Language

A New Experience



Hola! Coment ça va? These phrases are often heard throughout the foreign language department. Spanish and French classes are the two foreign languages offered to Alameda students. Most students take two years of either language, but many students continued on to 3,4, and even 5 years. "I went on to French 5 so I could study more independently the culture and literature of France," said Courtney Peverell one of the two French 5 students.

The foreign language classes not only stress the importance of the language, but culture is also incorporated into each class. Cooking is one of the ways that the students learn about culture. The classes cook traditional French and Spanish dishes - not only is it a good way to learn, but it's also fun to enjoy the delicious foods!

In April, ten French students and French teacher Ms. Diana Ellsworth are making a trip to France to understand the French culture even more. They will spend four days in Paris sightseeing. Then, they will go for eleven days to the coastal town of La Rochelle where each student will stay with a different family. It's a cultural experience that no one will ever forget!

Learning a new language can be very difficult, but with a fabulous foreign language department like the one at AHS, it's not only made easier and interesting, it's also fun!

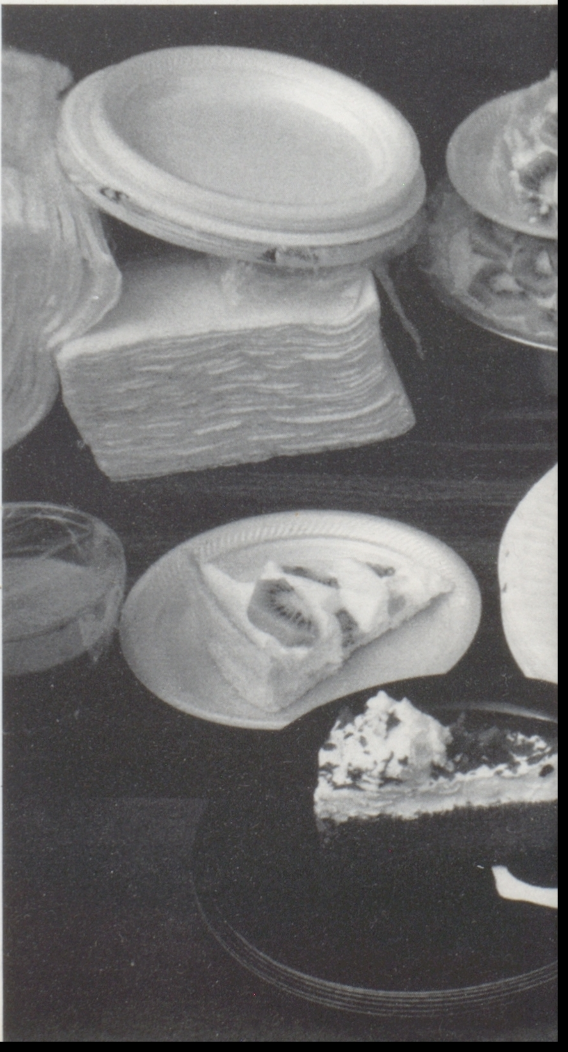
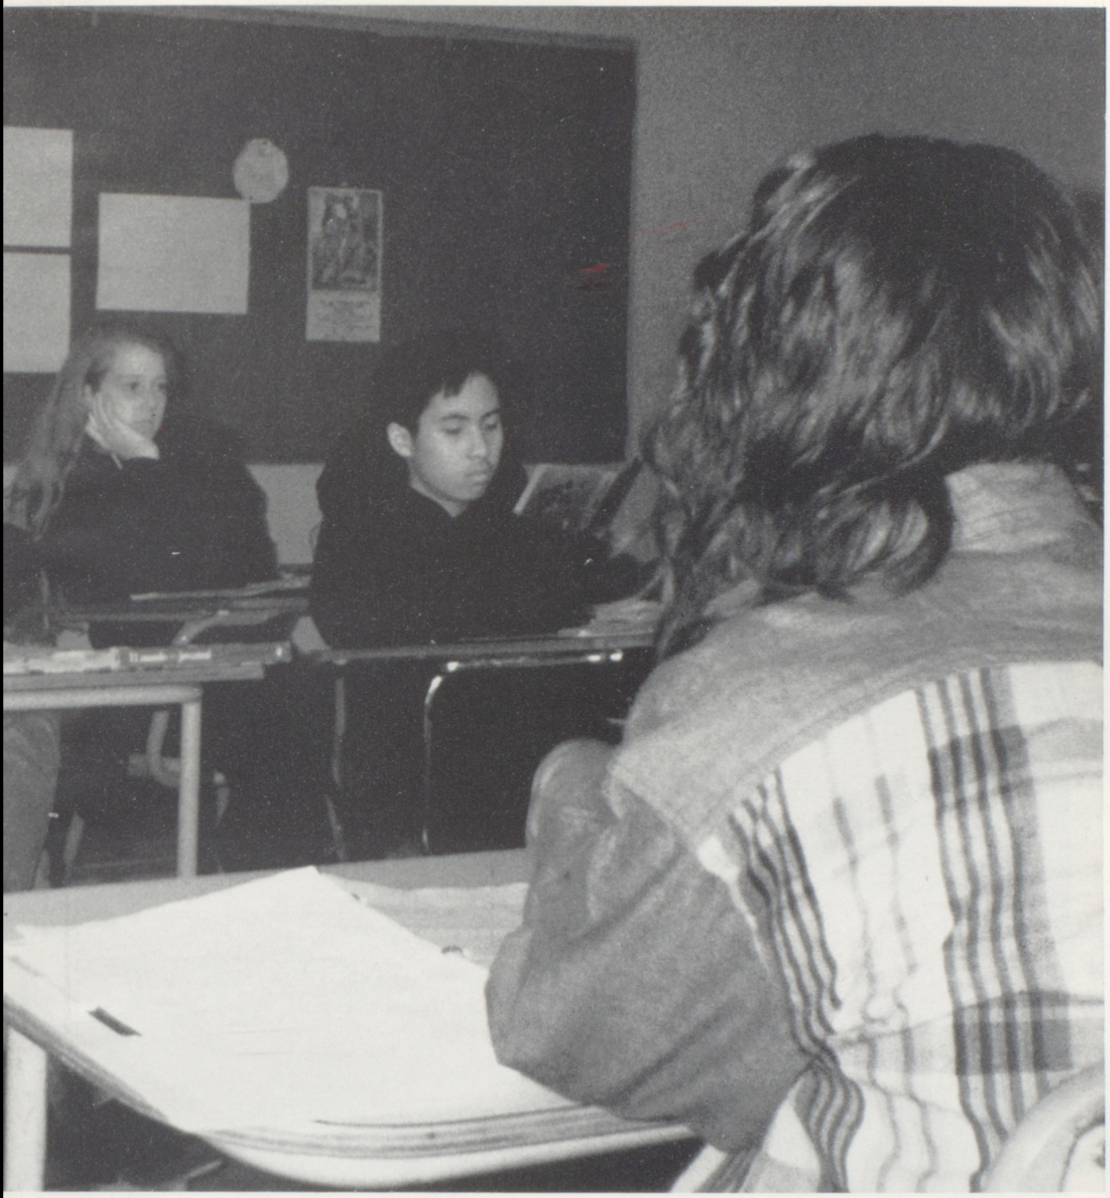
See this? Senora Barrios gets students interested by awarding extra credit for the right answer.

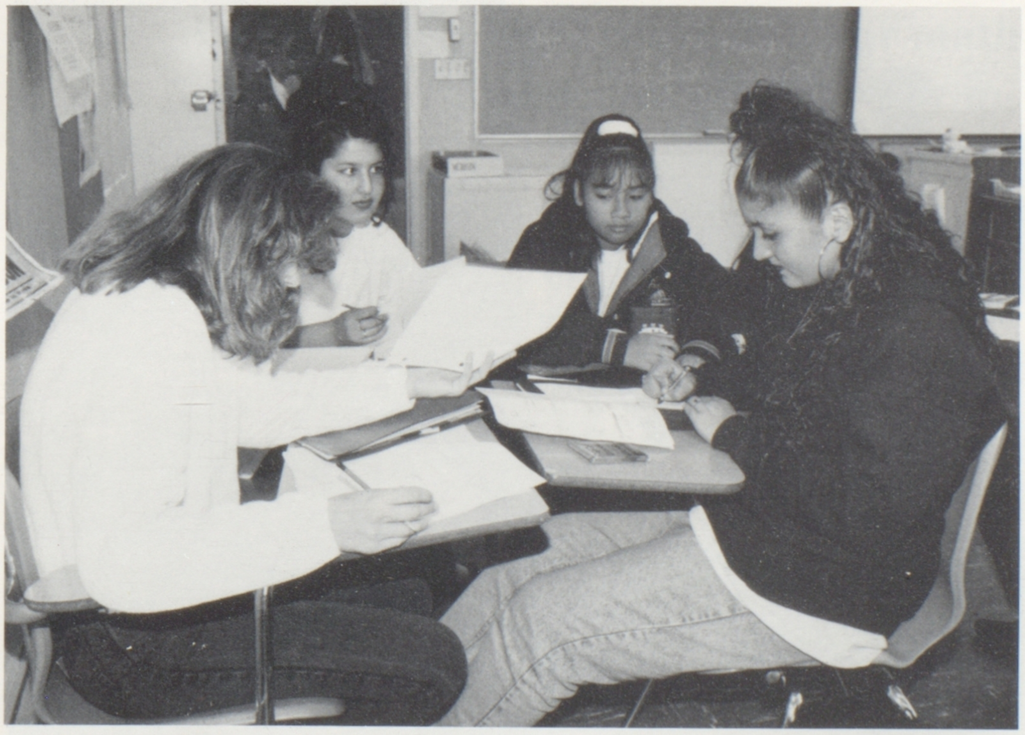
Call my number! Anna Ureta and Carla Nieto listen intently during a Spanish game of BINGO.





More homework?! Melanie Stanwood, Kelly Holt, and Keith Chin work very hard at their Spanish work.

What about this? Students study in groups and compare answers to some questions that they were assigned.

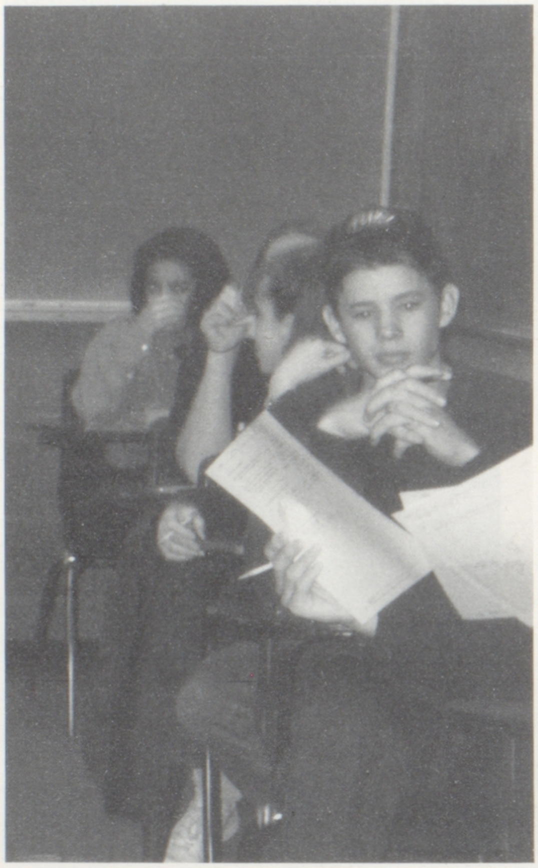


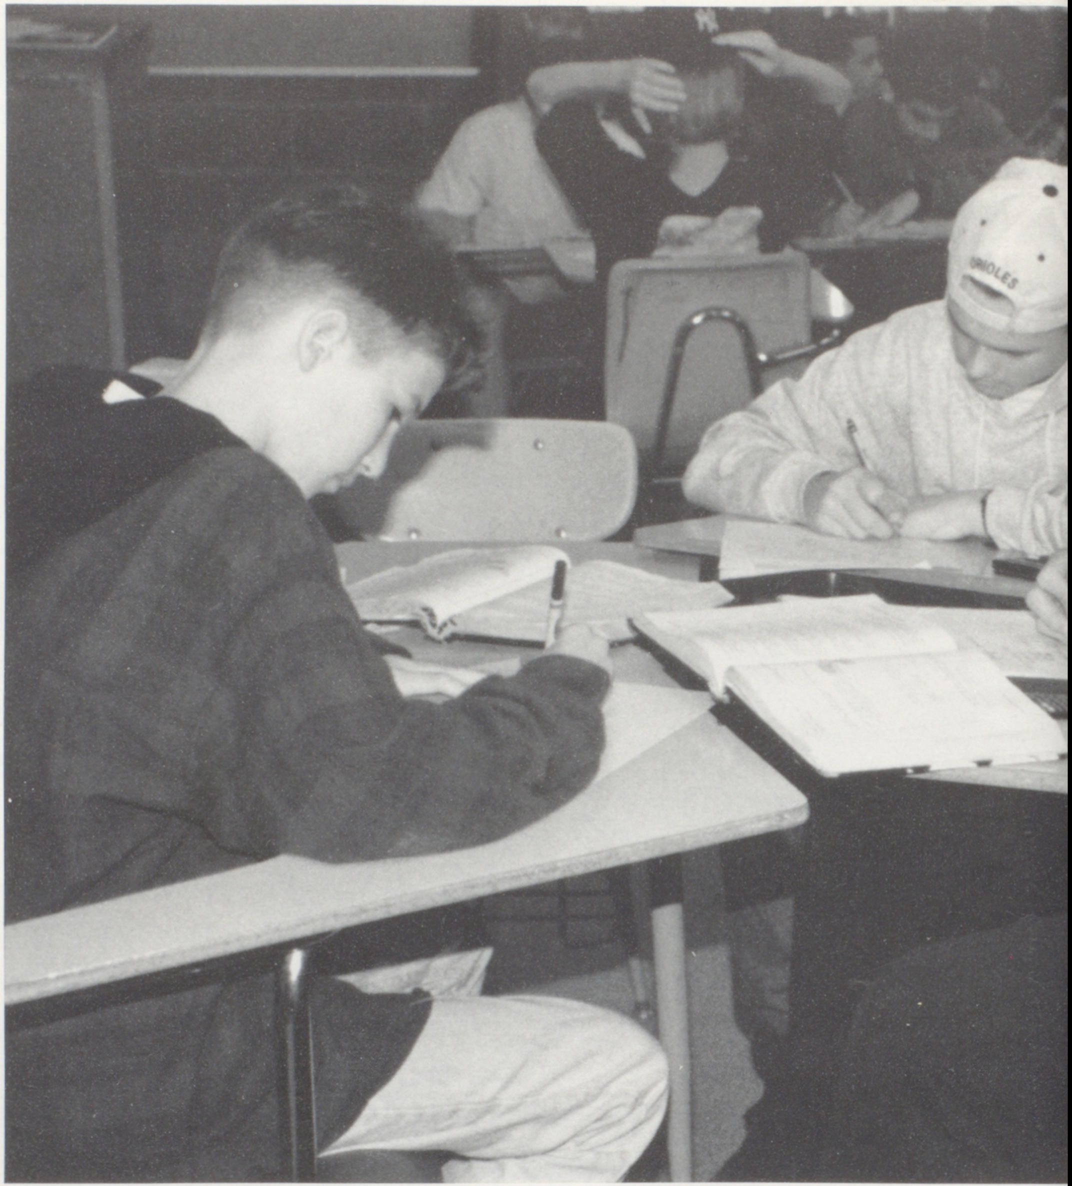
Come and get it!! The French classes took a day off to cook some traditional French food.

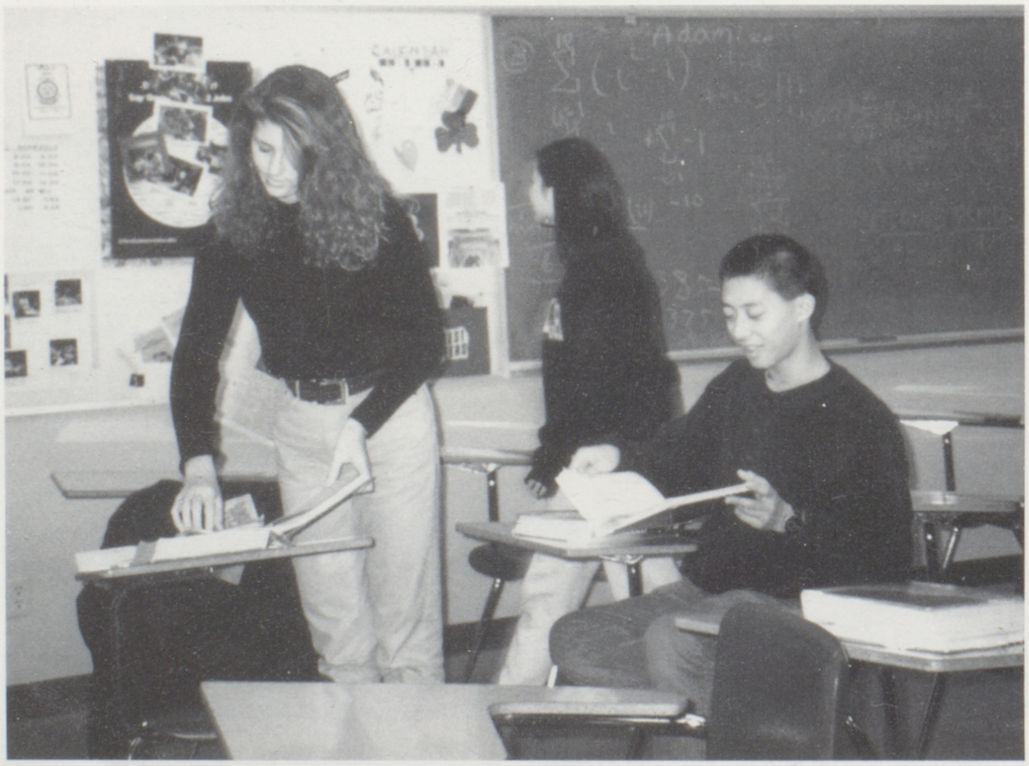
Are you sure? Veronica Plascencia, Danielle Brodit, Zohra Taymuree, and Meredith Lofthouse work together.

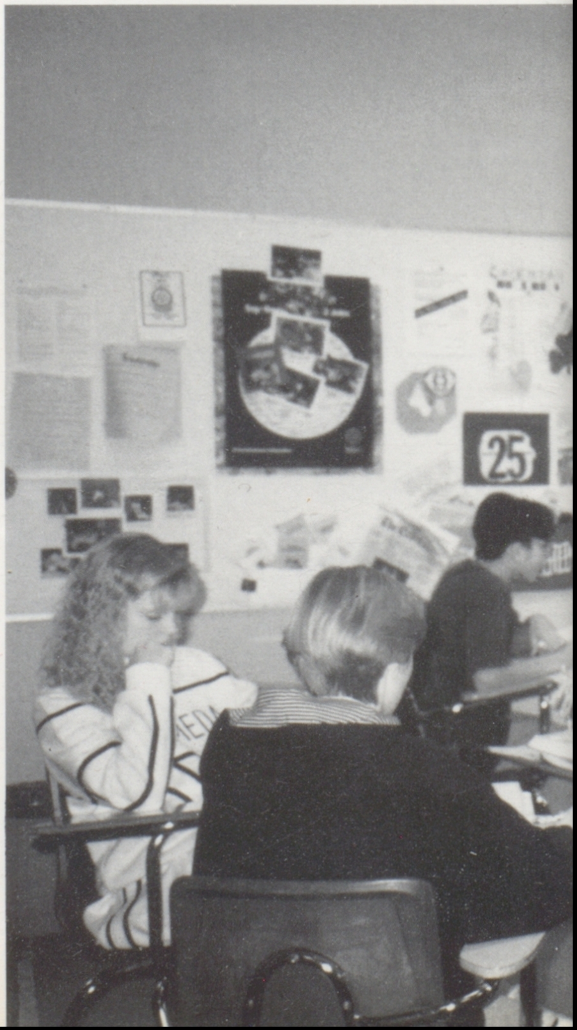
Three heads are better than one! Danny Wilson, Kyle Collins, and Troy Vincent works in a group, helping each other out.

Another test? Chris Stauder looks calm and prepared for the math test, as it is being passed out. What's his secret?



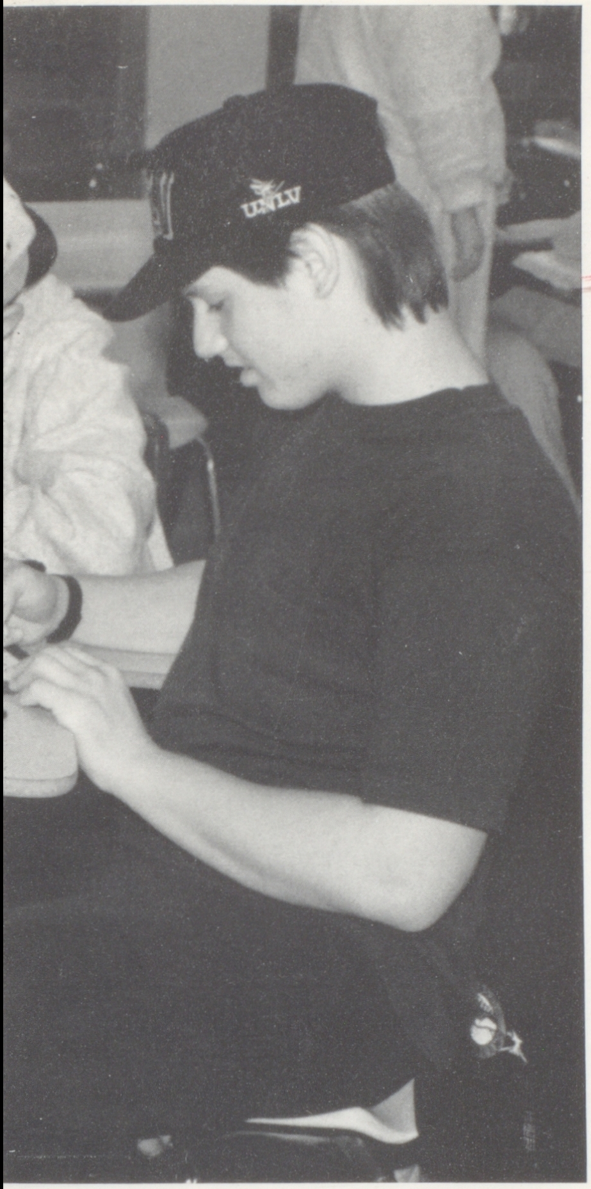






A sigh of relief came from Danielle Martin, Pauline Ng, and Takashi Kikuchi.

Fun in numbers..Students socializedwith friends while doing group work.



Mathematics In School

Things that make you go hmm... Math is one of those subjects that can really make someone think. There is so many theorems and equations to memorize and know.

Math, being one of the most strenuous classes in almost every student's schedule, requires a lot of concentration to grasp the many concepts and equations. Not only do math courses require some memorization, but logic is also needed to find solutions to problems and knowing how equations can be applied.

Math is used in our everyday lives. Not to mention, it is an essential part in many careers. In many fields, math courses are necessary to get a decent job. In fact, most jobs require some type of math skills. Half the SATs consists of mathematical applications.

This year Math B, advanced Algebra II, and Pre- Calculus was added to the long mathematics cirriculum. Math Skills, Algebra AB and CD, Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, Math Analysis, and Calculus classes are some of the original math classes offered at Alameda High School.

Some math classes are trying out new programs in the computer lab to help them learn new materials. Group work is more emphasized in many classes, so it is possible for students to learn from and help their peers. Math tutoring is offered on Wednesdays during Study Nights. Even though math is a tough subject, "I love math because Mr.Friedman makes the subject interesting," exclaims Will Lyle.

By: Amy Chan, Tannie Fung, and Lind Chin

"I think that our math department is very innovative and up to date. They use modern technology to help us learn."
Doug Aoyama, Junior

Working hard... Judy Saelee concentrates on her tricky math problems.

EXPLOSIONS

OF THE MIND

What class gives students the opportunity to shoot potatoes across the classroom, and blow up marshmellow bunnies? When does a students get the chance to disect a frog's brain, or go camping to Point Reyes? It's all part of the science curriculum at AHS.

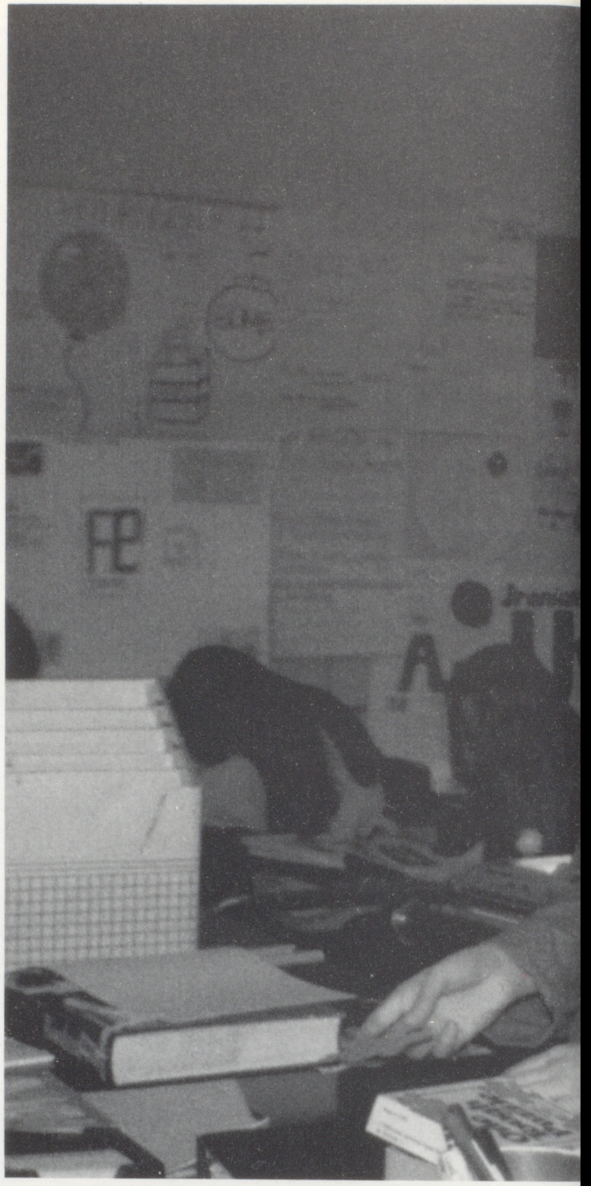
The Biology classes, taught by Mr. Boomer, Mr. Carpenter, and Mr. Fredgren have the pleasant task of dissection. Frogs, crawfish, rats, and many other animals are sliced open to show students the differences and similarities in species.

Chemistry is a whole different experience. Under the instruction of either Mr. Richards or Mr. Bentz, students in the chemisrty classes create their own periodic tables, craft rockets, make slime and silly putty, not to mention ice cream. Chemistry is a very hands-on class. It is one of the most popular of the science classes.

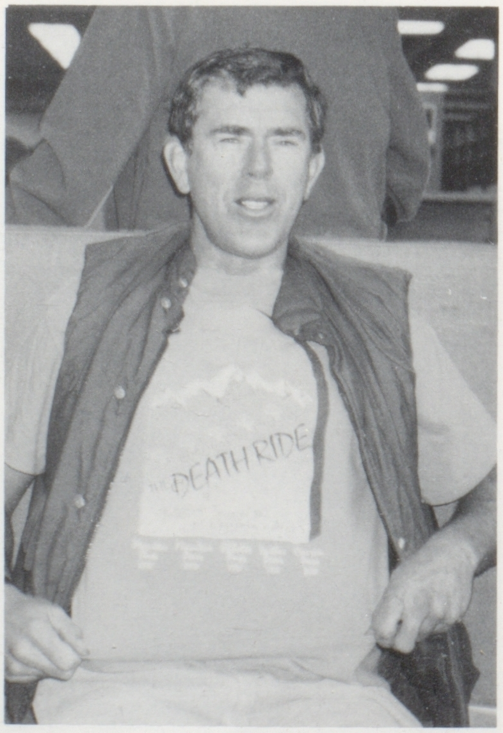
A.P. and regular Physics classes are taught by "Doc" Paden. The students enjoythe class even though it is known to be very difficult. "Physics is a lot of fun, and I've learned many new things, my favorite thing was learning about the moon." explained Senior Ellie Maass.

Adavanced Placement Biology students are given the chance to attend a High School Science Symposium at the Lawrence Hall of Science, and those who attended found it to be quite rewarding. The AHS team prepared a skit demonstration on DNA replication pros and cons. "The symposium was fun to prepare for, and once my nerves settled down I enjoyed watching the creative presentations put on by other schools." said Pauline Ng.

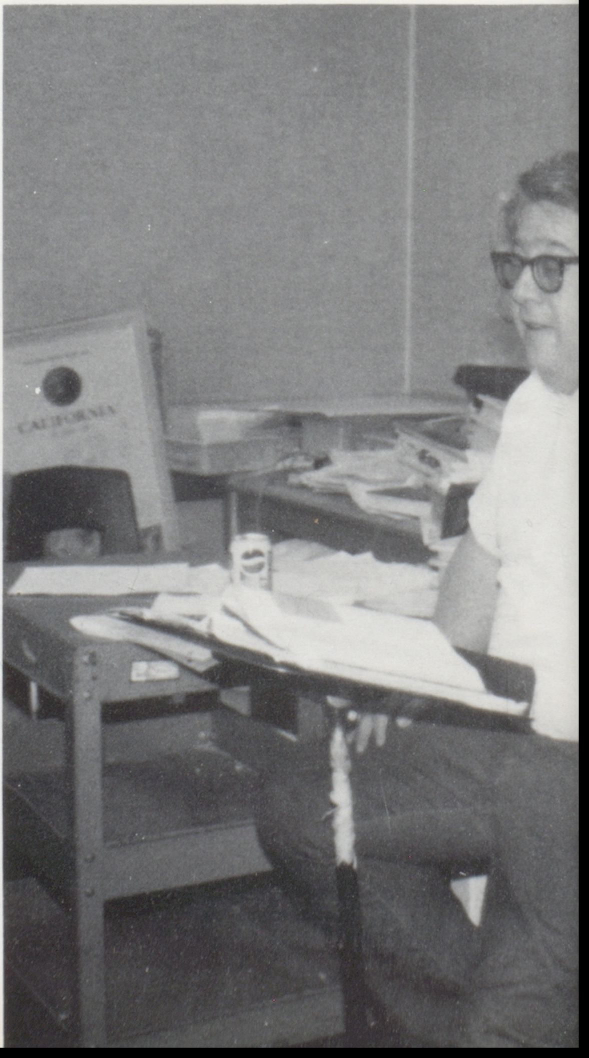
--By Cathie Clark



Chemistry is my life! - Mr. Bentz was well liked for his imaginative teaching styles.

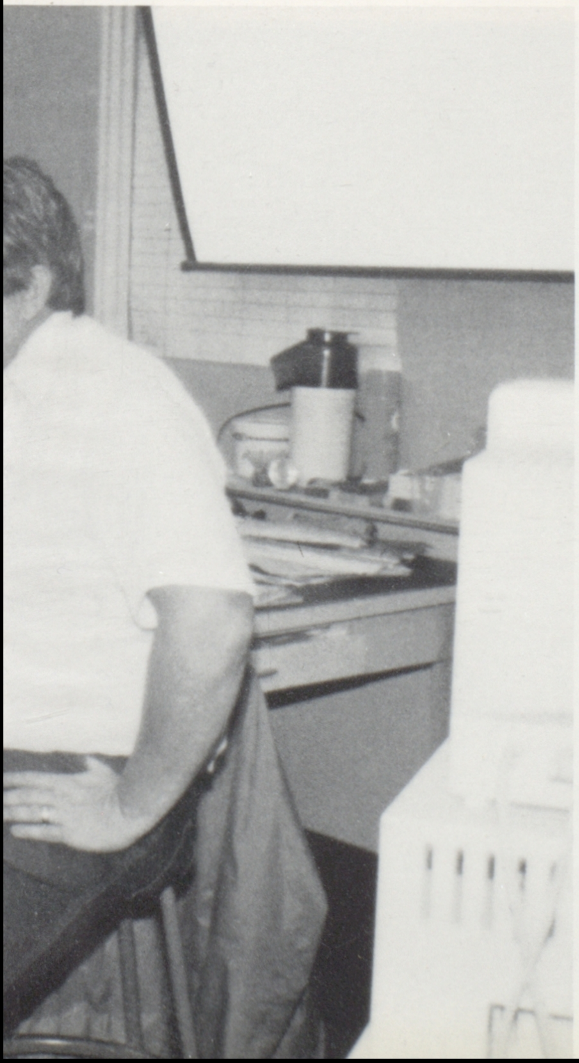


I can ride a two wheeler!- Mr. Richards shows all during teacher t-shirt day.



Maybe it will be easier if I close my eyes - Jennie Gamboa tries to solve a mind puzzle in chemistry.

These boots are masde for walkin' - "Doc" Paden teaches Physics, she's very active in the school.

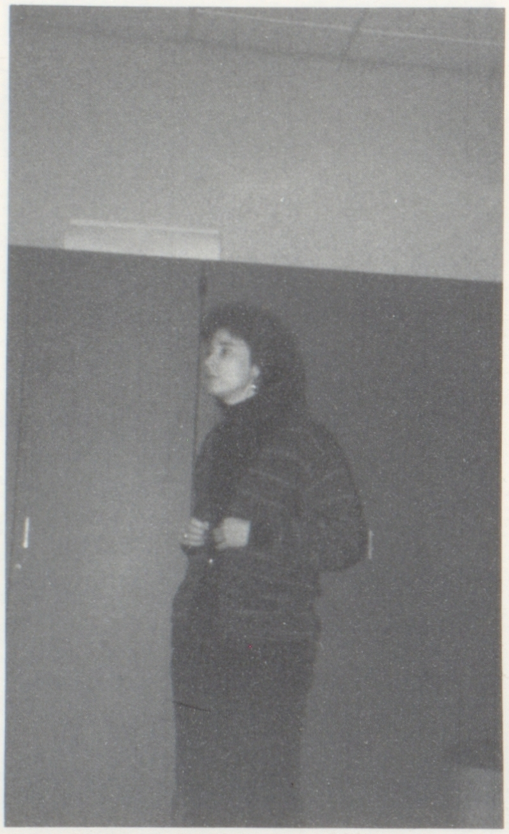


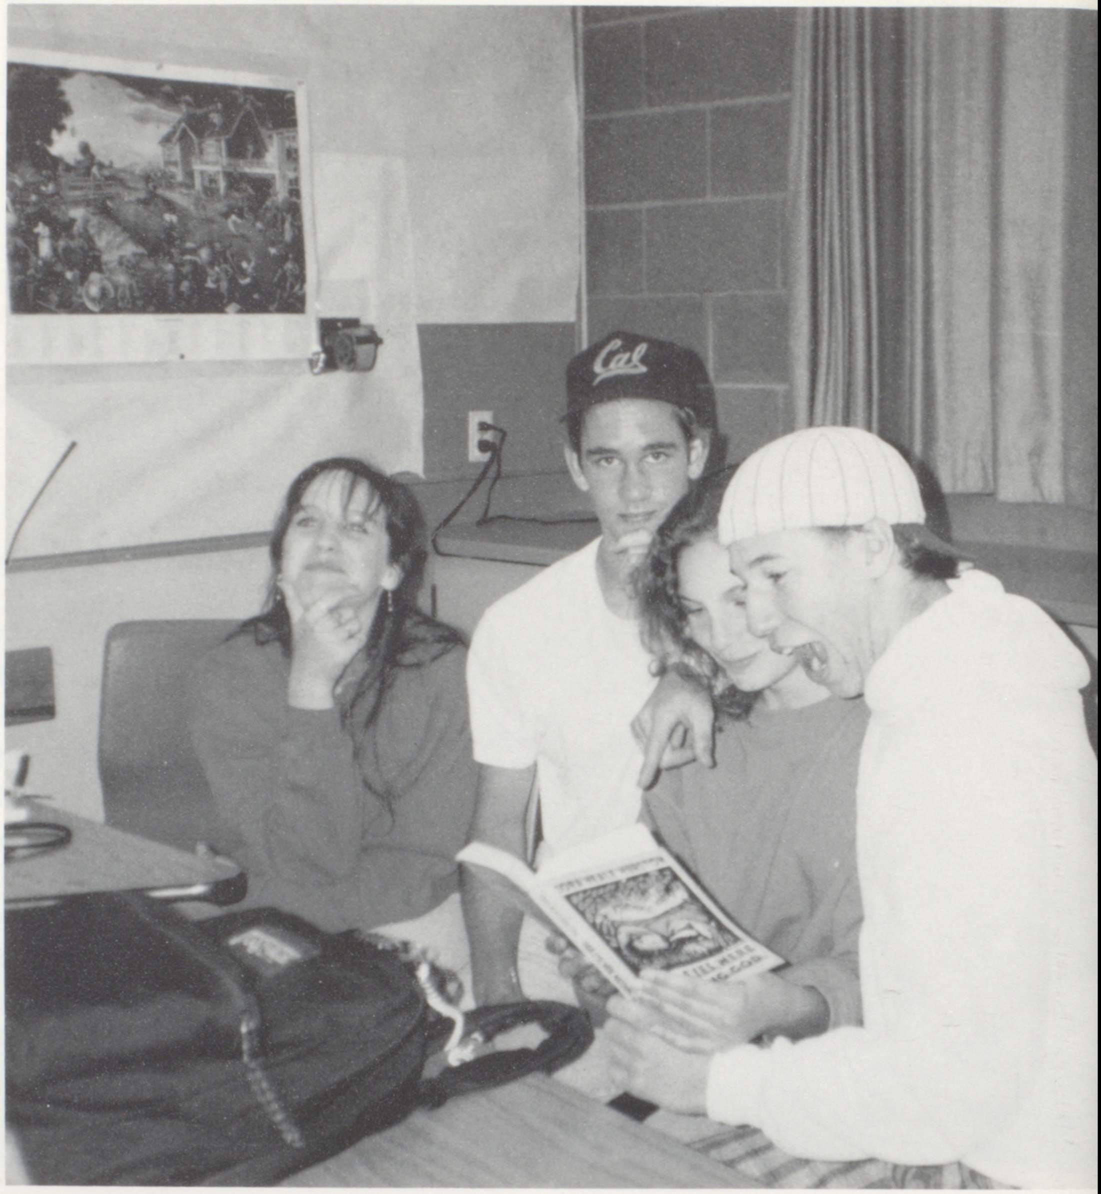
Fruit flies don't bite - Mr. Boomer teachesbiology to most sophomores and juniors.

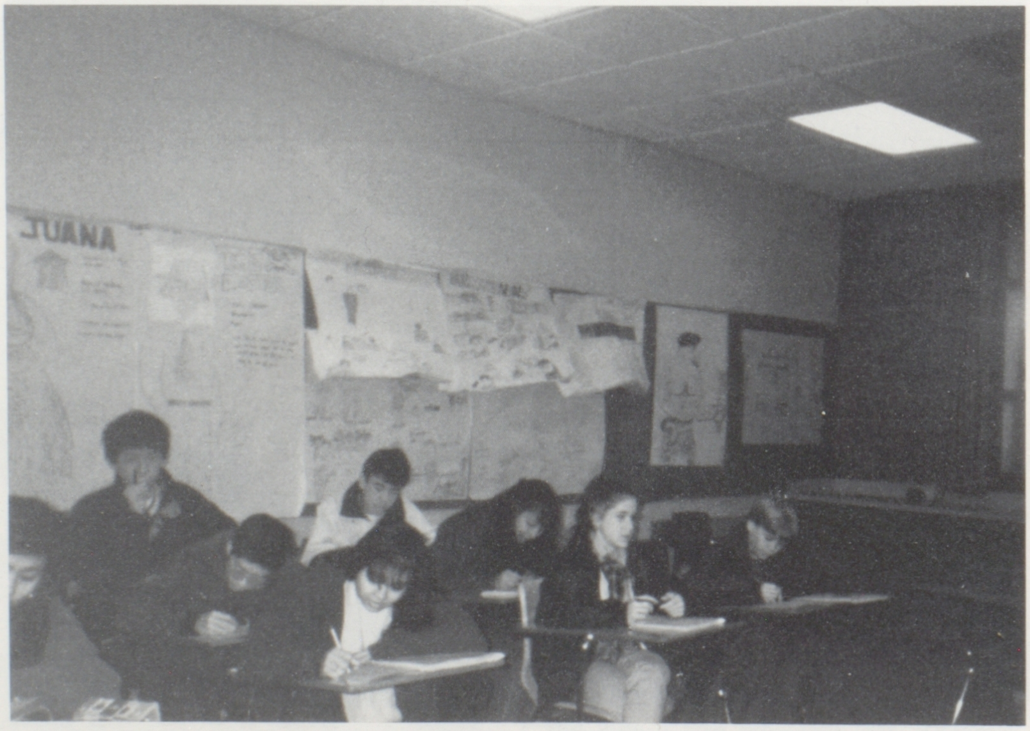
Locate the endoplasmic reticulum, Mr. Richards gives senior Nina Skyles, some pointers on identification.

The lovers, the dreamer, and me . . . Eric Mabee, Athena Ruggiero, Nick Brunette and Kristin Smith reading Their Eyes Were Watching God in Mrs. Brown's English class. Talking about the book is a great way to share ideas.

At the end of the day . . . Mrs. Carroll explains to her class the importance of literature. Making reading fun is a way to keep the students enthused about English. Using graphics and oral presentations are two common ways of doing.

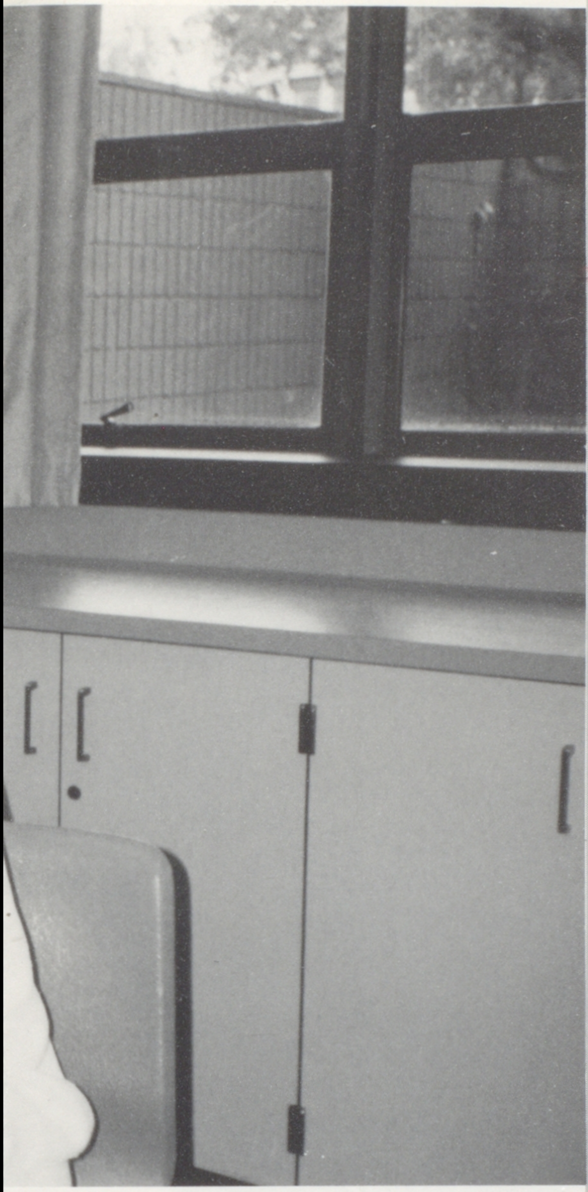






Another essay?!?! The Freshmen classes get used to the pressures and standards of the Alameda High English department. Developing these skills early on will help throughout the remainder of their years at school.

Attention! Mrs. Hand's English class is called to attention as the bell rings. Although sometimes hard, paying attention to the teacher is the quickest way to success, especially in English.



IMPRESSIVE
Lessons

Sophocles! Hawthorne! Lee! Steinbeck! Sound familiar? These are a few of the authors that were read this year. While the Seniors read Oedipus, the Juniors struggle with The Scarlet Letter, the Sophomores study To Kill A Mockingbird, and The Pearl is read by the Freshmen. These classic works of literature along with plays, poetry, myths, and our special teachers make up our English department.

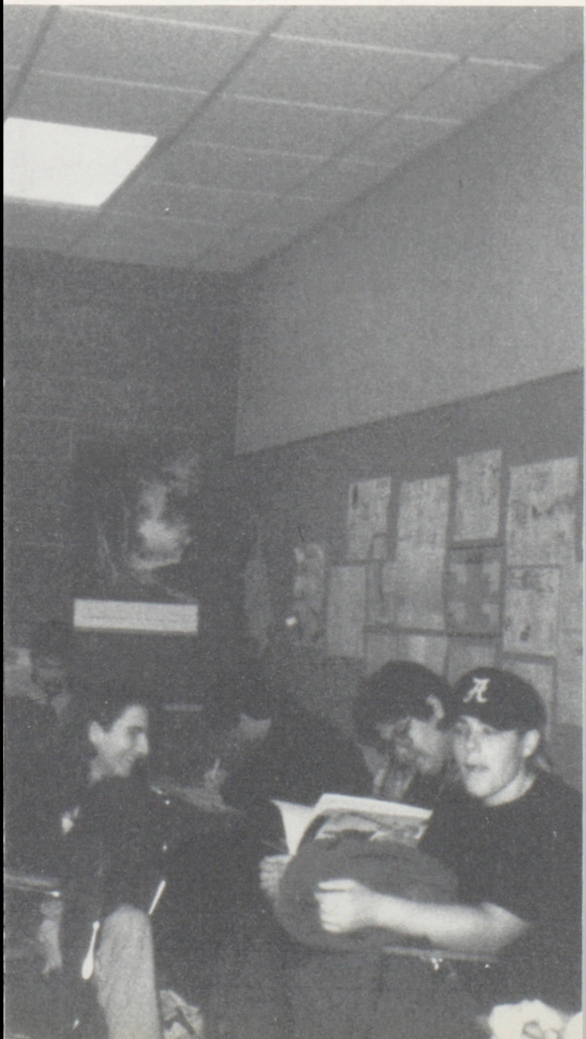
To develop the concepts of the books, teachers often assign graphic presentations. These presentations help develop the idea of these books. One such example is a Mandala: taking a person and using symbols to show their "sun" side or the outer self, and the "shadow" side, the inner self. Many teachers also assign groups to do graphics that correspond with the book they are reading. most graphic presentaions use symbols to interprete the meanings of characters and/or plot line. Graphic presentations are only a part of the linguistic development of a book, films are also used, To Kill A Mockingbird, Charley, and Macbeth are some of the films English teachers show. The movies, along with complimenting the book, develop debate topics. Many teachers assign in class debates which usually cover headline issues important in the lives of teens. "In class debates are a fun and informative way of expressing ourselves and our view points."Junior Amelia Ng.

Good writing and an understanding of literature are skills that can take you far in life. Our English teachers are trying to help us, like the books we read, leave a lasting impression.

By:Lisa Hansen, Alison Cross

"My best experience in English was during Sophomore year and we read and reworked Medea into a modern script and then we produced it in video format."

Senior Ellie Maass



Groupify?? Getting into groups to share ideas and to do work is one of the techniques that teachers use. Teachers often assign work this way to get students used to the idea of sharing their thoughts.

This is English?? A relaxed atmosphere is essential to a functioning classroom. Jasmine Atchison, Anthony Yan, and Homera Amiri listen attentively to their teacher, while comfortable in the back of the room.

...And A Lot More

Focus on classes that have you "doing" every minute. Classes like Child Development, Auto Shop, Retail Mechanding, and T.V. Media. These are Regional Ocupational Program (R.O.P.)classes.

Child Development: watching the kids on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Helping them learn. How about Auto Shop? Working on cars. getting your hands full of grease, oil and other stuff. Can't forget Retail Merchandising. Learning how to be prepared for a job. T.V. Media: learning production skills, how to direct, to use a camara, and edit film.

R.O.P. might be a fun class to be in. Maybe it helped you learn skills you need for a future job. "To me, Fashion Merchandising are three classes that are truly beneficial to students. We get a chance to compete against other schools with their knowledge of the subjects. It's a great experience. I feel it will get me ready for "The Real World."

Careers with Children offers an unique opportunity, "I picked the class because I love kids! It gives me a chance to work better with them. The kinds of things we do with them are play games, teach them things, and walk around the school with them. The hardest thing we have to do is to try to calm them down when they cry or get hyper." Commented by Adriana Lopez.

Training in the Auto Shop is really hands on . Ted Mentch believes "It is a good class for people who know nothing about cars. For the people who do, well that's a different story."Auto mechanics is a very complex subject. There are million parts in a car. Knowing how they work is the entire content of Auto shop. Learning by doing is the main focus of all R.O.P. courses.

By: Adella Medina and Aaron Filipelli

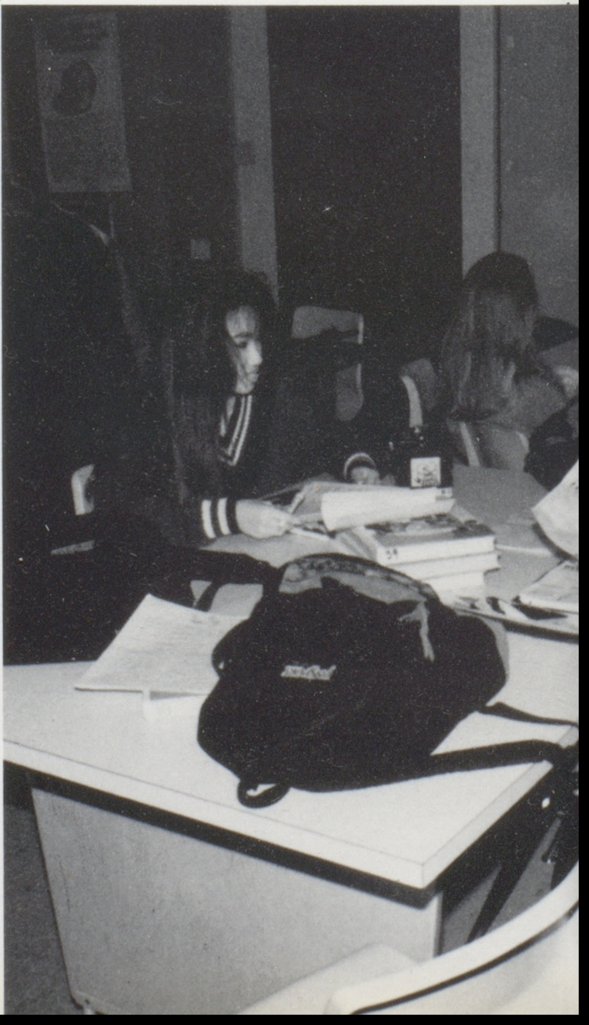
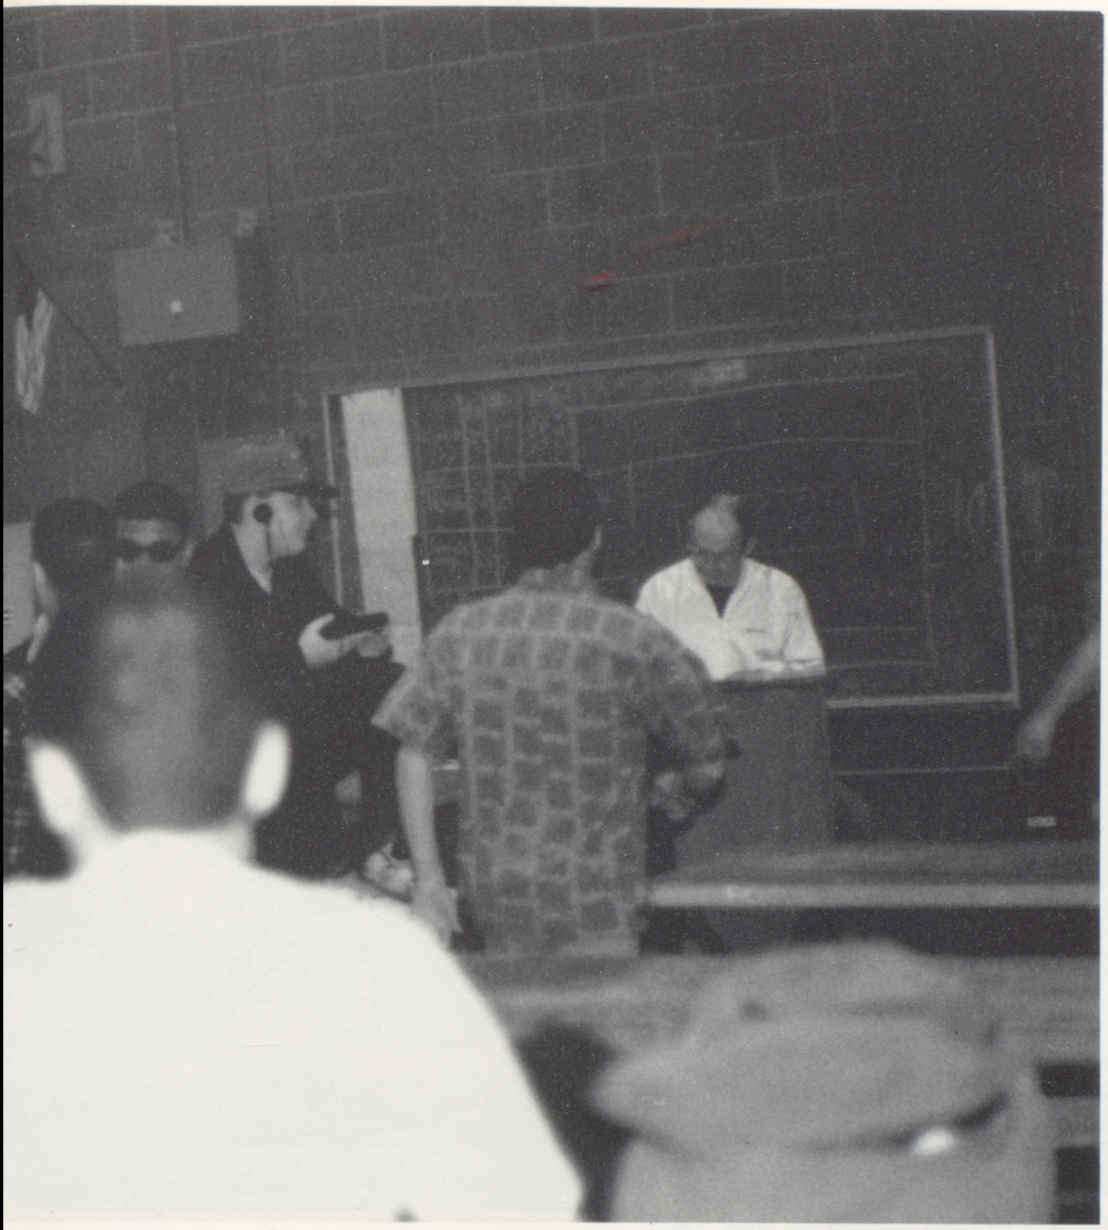
Where's the key.. In Auto Shop students work with computers to assess certain problems in the car. Jason Parnham types up records of what he's done to his Chevorlet.

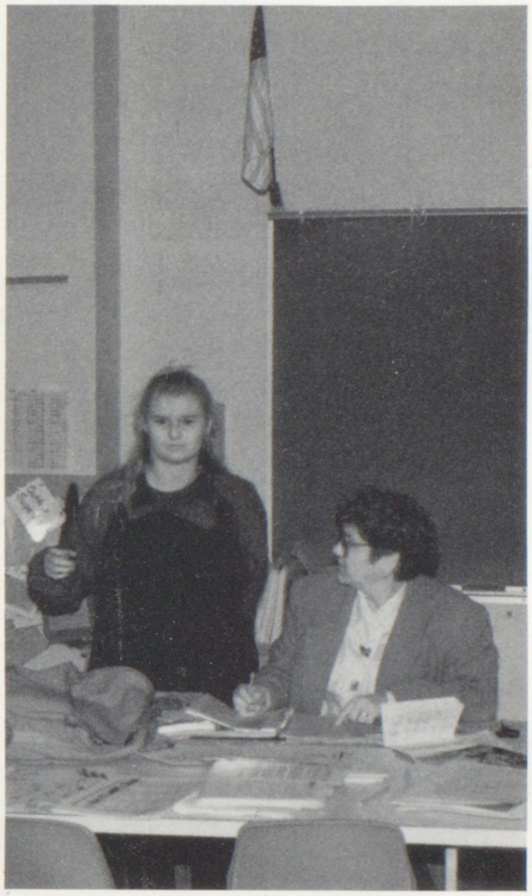
I'm smiling.. In Retail Merchadising students impress employers by dressing up in suits. Vicente Castillo is all sported up for his new job interview.





Shh.. I'm doing roll.. During Auto Shop students have discussion about auto engines prior to working on them.

Your grade is.. Child Development teacher Mrs. Wong tells Agniezka Borkowska what her quarter and final grades are. Agniezka enjoys her class.

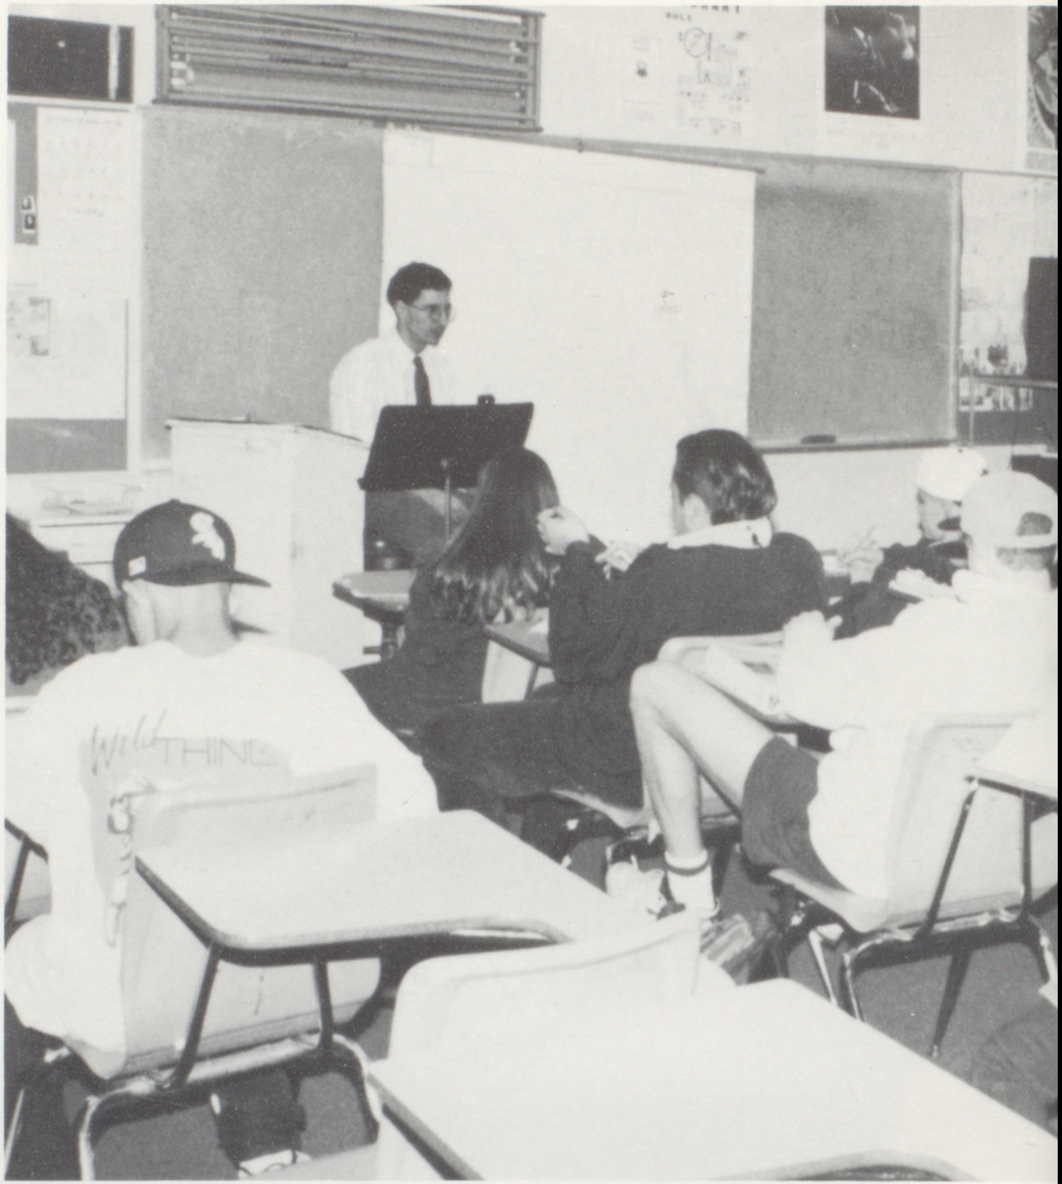


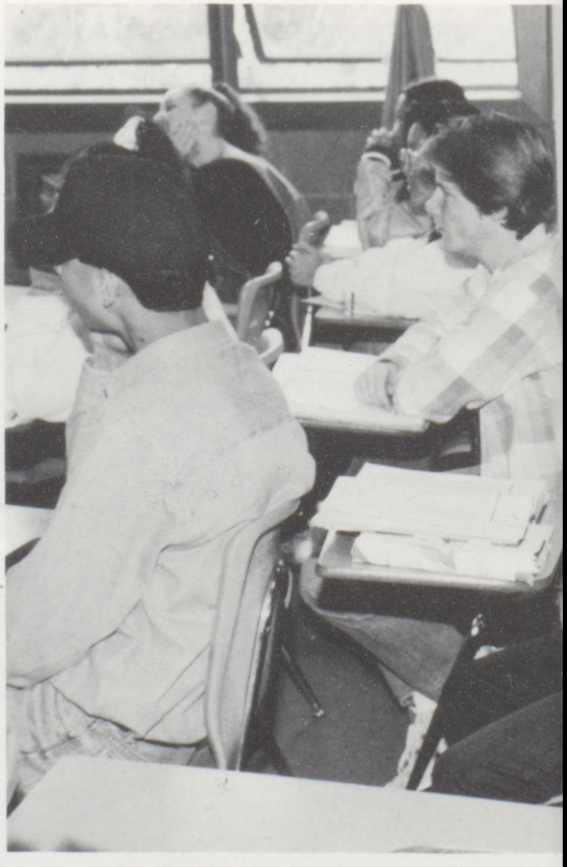
Is that so ? In the Child Development class Roderick Tan, Sandy Seto and Jennifer Mina work as a team to design inside activities for the little kids.

Perfect colors! Jasmine Breedlove, Angel Valle, Rebekkah Allen and Coral Rolfe are all involved in designing and marketing tie-dyed shirts during Fashion Merchandising class.

What do you think about this? Mr. Kaplan tries to discuss and clearify any historic events that the class is interested in.

Ready to write ! An important must for history classes is taking good notes. There are so many dates and facts to remember.





I'm making history! Angela Pesta is locked forever in time on this yearbook page. We shall always remember her smile.

Please sit in an upright position. Good posture helps keep students attentive during long lectures and presentations.

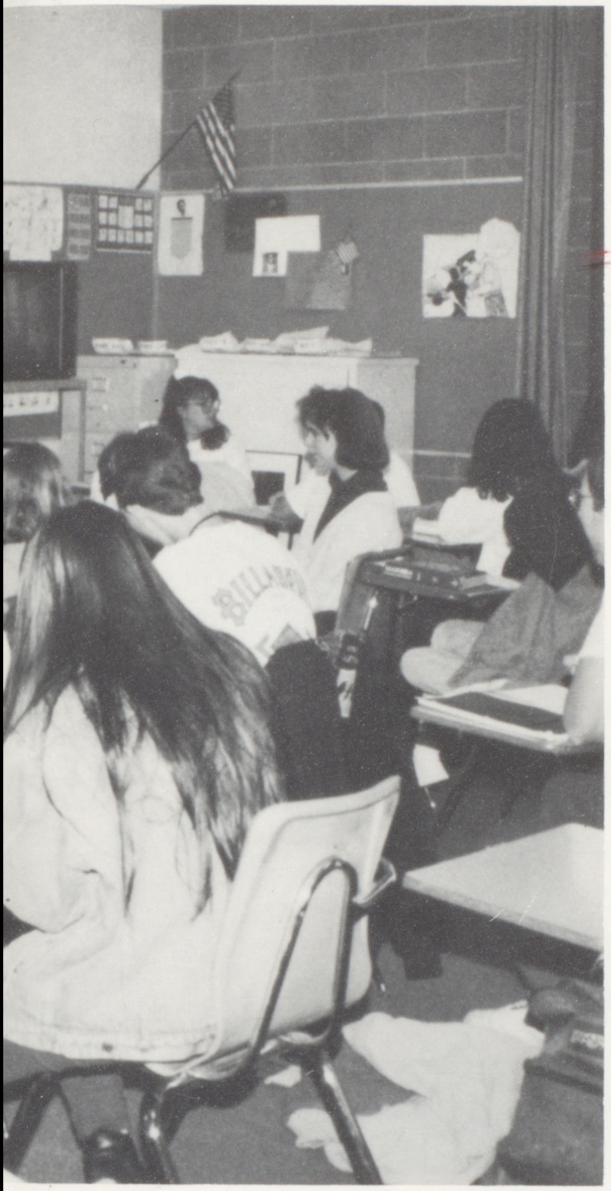
Going Back Into History

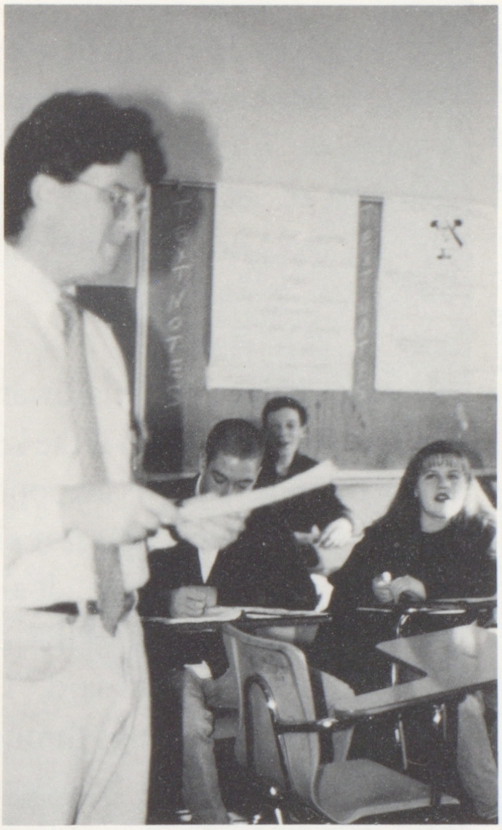
What year did Christopher Columbus come to America? What is popular sovernighty? How does scarcity effect our econmy? All of these questions can be answered by taking the required classes in Social Science.

"Our U.S. History class is pretty easy especially with our new student teacher. Mr.Ghilchrist came in and took Mr. Mogge's place as a student teacher." said Rob Rutter.

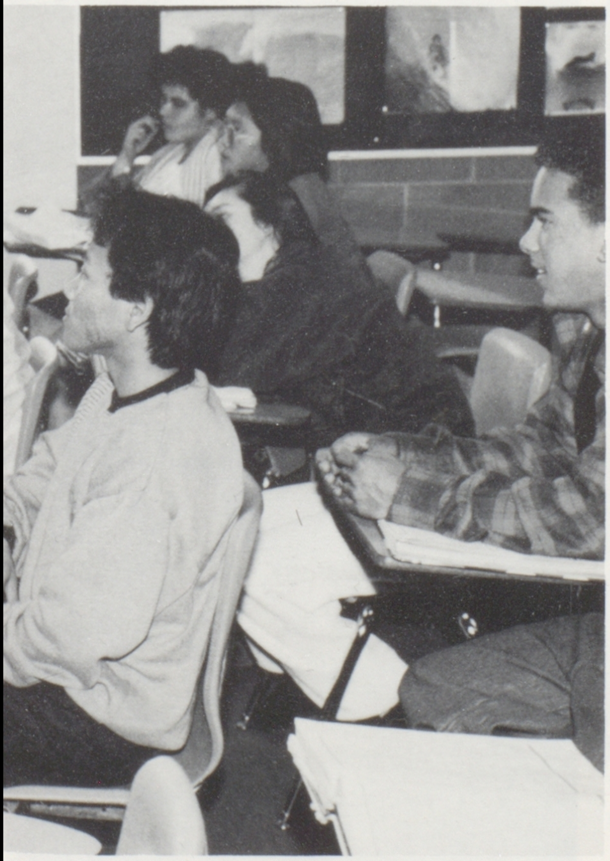
"Ms. Mann has made government/ economy very interesting to me. She is a fun teacher and makes the class worth coming to. She also is young and is on the level most of the seniors at Alameda High." said Brandi Wayne. Having teachers that make learning fun , help to make learning a little easier.

By: Susan Eastwood

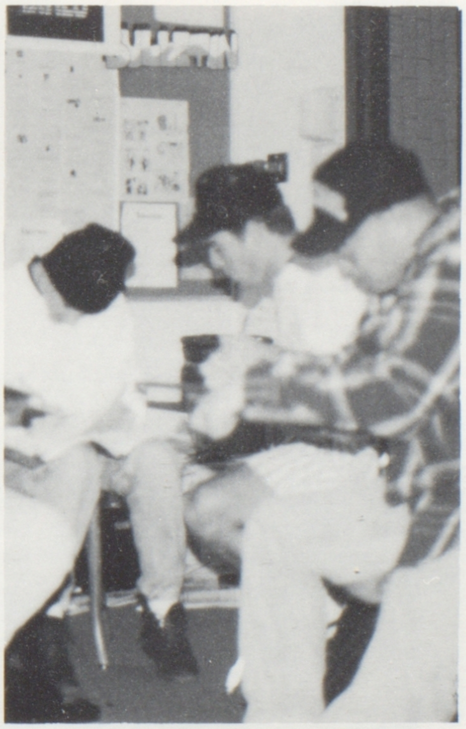




Oh, I know the answer... Jenny Wilson tries to remember it.It's just on the tip of her tongue.



More tests to make... for Ms. Mann the government/economy teacher teaches the seniors in a fun exciting new way. Along with Mr.Kaplan they take the word "work" to new horizons.



Test time! Adam Garfinkle and Charlton Lee concentrates on their history test.Who's that with the open binder?

Business

The Sky Is The Limit

The businessmen and women of the future are being taught right here on campus. With courses like Keyboarding, Computers One and Two, and Accounting, students are learning the foundations necessary to advance to the next step in business procedures.

For anyone interested in business, these basic courses are a necessity towards pursuing a career in the field.

For many students, the rewards of these classes are great. "I'm learning a lot of things that I feel I'll definitely be able to use later on in life," said Senior Josh Ooyman.

Ms. Madison has been teaching the Accounting class for over five years now. She stresses the importance of learning the basics before taking a college course in business.

The departmental focus is towards the future. Preparation is the key. Taking courses now is an opportunity to learn if business is really an area that interests you. It also gives you good basicskills for life. Senior Ryan Lum said, "I'm learning so many things through this class. I definitely feel confident in moving on."

By: Michael Parker

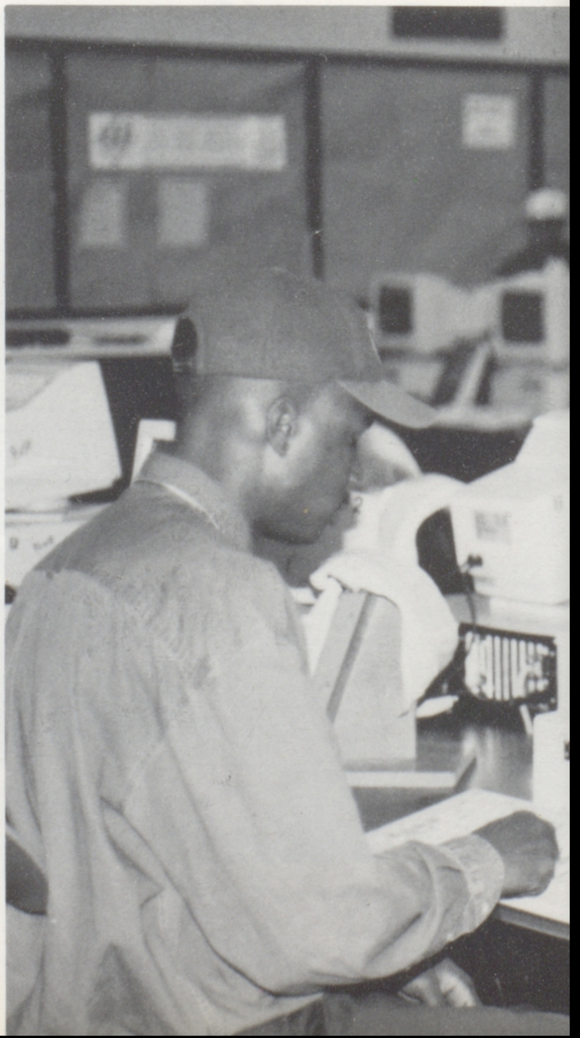
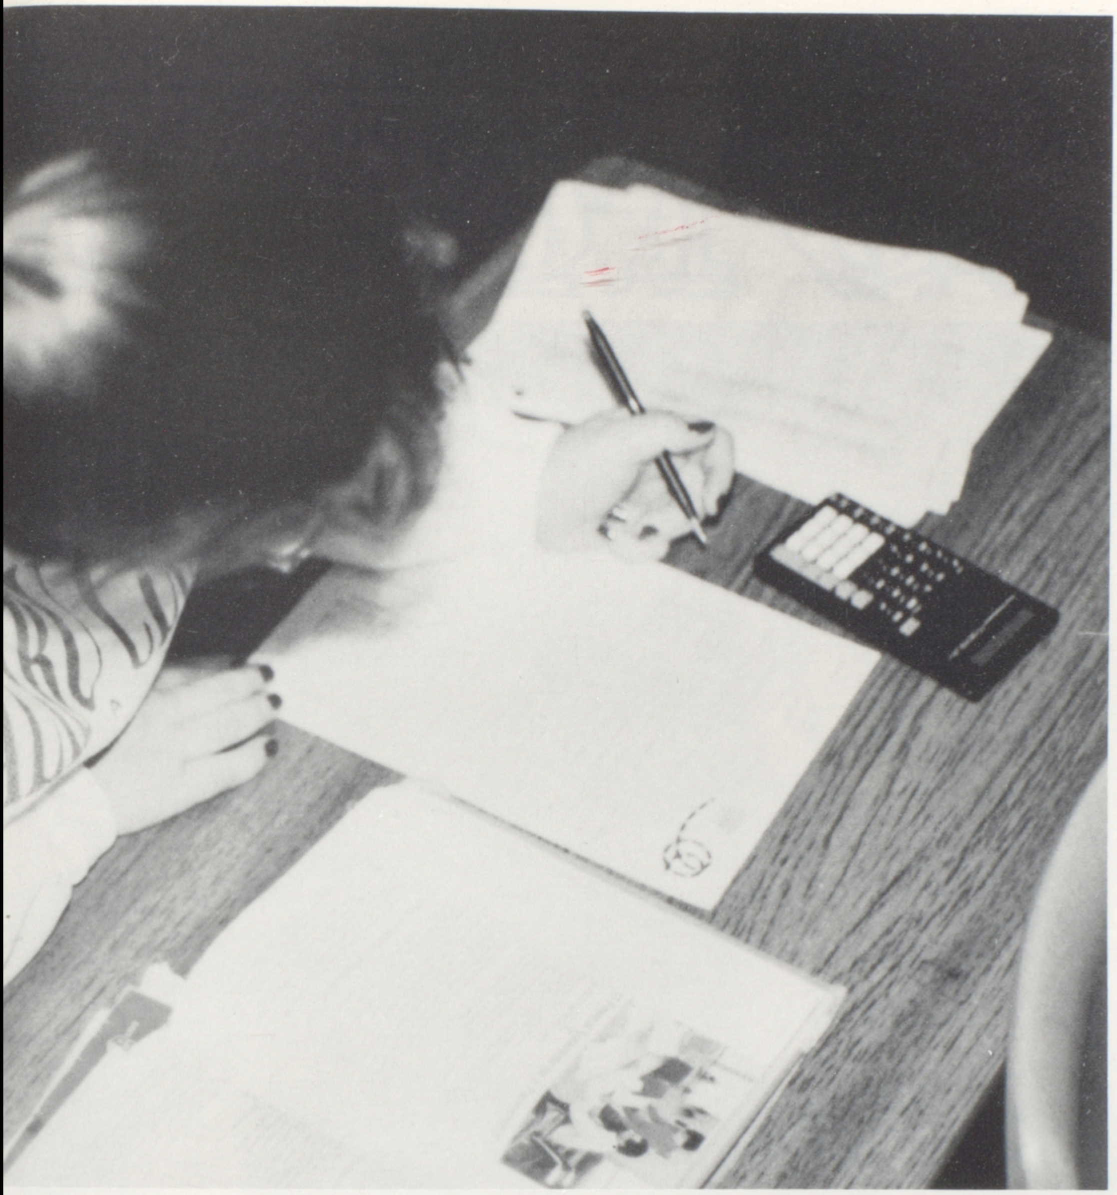
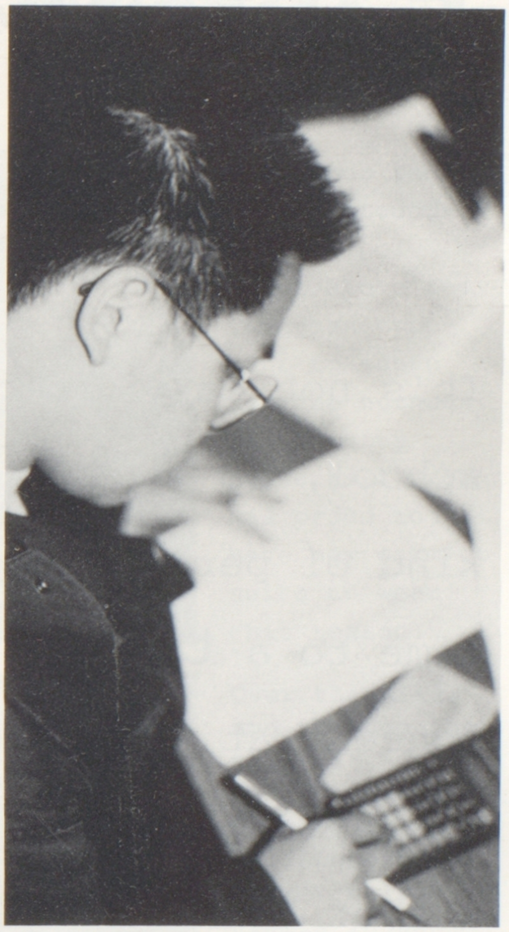
Work, work, work. Mr. Cooper concentrates on some paperwork while supervising his Computer One class.

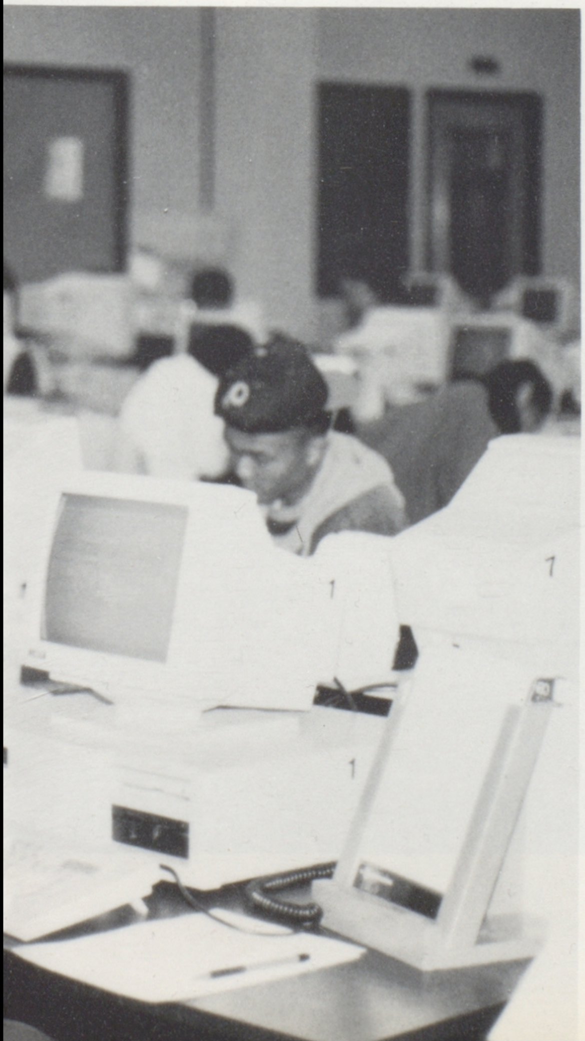


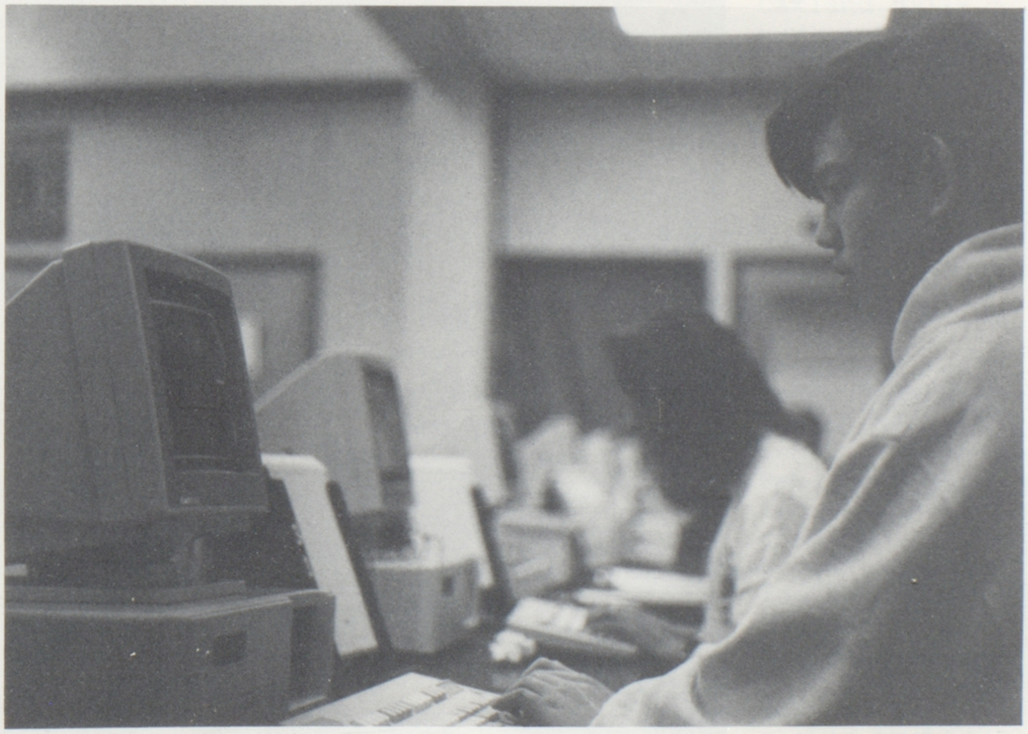


Future MBA??? Hope Norris prepares to work on IRS tax forms after studying the textbook and reviewing worksheets.

Verifying accounting totals, Ryan Lum enters endless numbers on his calculator. Developing skills and accuracy are very important.







Learning technological sciences gives Senior Obedee Williams expanded choices after graduation.

Staring intently, Jeremy Meier works on his assignment for his computer class. There are three separate classes for computers.

> "This Varsity team was an exceptional group of young men, who made coaching a lot of fun. The players learned valuable lessons, not only in football, but in life - especially what it takes to succeed."
> Coach Hennessee

Rain, mud, or a dry dusty field didn't stop the our Varsity Football Team from doing well. They faced a few obstacles. The varsity team managed to over come them as more challenges were added to their list of goals.

Everyday the players spent their afternoons practicing. During the last few weeks of summer they worked on team drills. Many had to cancel their other obligations to focus on the team. Throughout the spring and summer many players work out with weights to improve their strength and stamina. Practices resulted in aching muscles, but all who participated knew it was worth it by the last game of the season. Expectations were high and players struggled to play well.

According to Joachim Luis, "this season was a bumpy ride throughout, not knowing who was healthy and who was not. We missed a few key opportunities, but when we played like the team we are, we got things accomplished and had fun doing it."

After the Kennedy game, Coach Murray made a dramatic decision, dropping players who weren't working up to potential and moving up four JV players to Varsity status. This action shook up the players. Everyone made a renewed comittmentd to be the best .

With a total number of thirty-two players the varsity team ended their 1992 season with a record of 5-5.

Fighting Hornets

"The J.V.'s worked really hard this year and all of it paid off. A few of the J.V. players even made it up to the Varsity and made big contributions to the varsity team." stated Varsity Co-Captain Andy Bordalo.

During the 1992 football season, the A.H.S. Junior Varsity Football team flourished under the guidance of coaches Steve Yamasaki, Reed McCracken and Sam Yun. The J.V. team had a record of 4-3 in the East Shore Athletic League and a 5-4-1 record overall.

When asked what made the 1992 football season so great, Sophomore Errico Bachicha responded "It was a lot of hard work and unity among the entire team, both on and off the field." The J.V. football team was like a well oiled piece of machinery, with each person working towards a final product, a win.

The J.V. team found out that endless hours of practice was just one of the many necessities to make this years team stand out from previous teams. Coach McCracken said that "this season was a building year, we've spent more time on the field practicing than the varsity team has." He also explained that the team spent more time conditioning than ever before.

The team overcame many hardtimes during the season, especially when many of the leaders of the team were moved up to varsity. But through all of the hardships that the team faced, they all came together All of their hard work was put to the test every week when they played the other tough and competitive teams in the E.S.A.L.

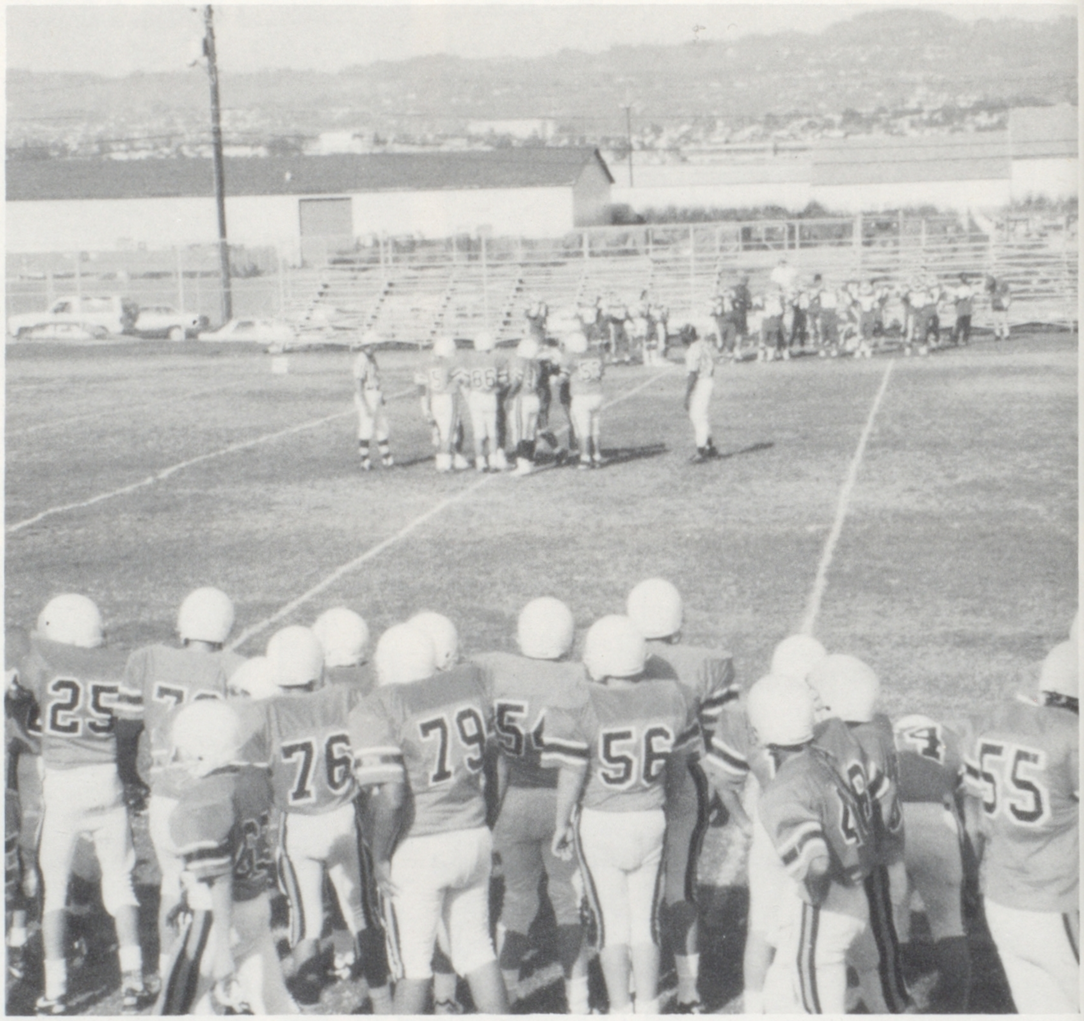
Freshmen Optimism

After long hours of hard work, practice, and many games, the fall football season was finally over. The freshman football team of 1992 didn' t come out with a super team record, but came out with their coach's optimism for the future. His reasons for such optimism were the most amount of boys showing up for tryouts in ten years and the improvements he saw through the season. "They are a great bunch of boys," said coach Jim Gilchrist. "They will have a good future."

With this great bunch of fighting Hornets, next year's football program looks like it will be a winner. "It was really fun playing football this year and I'm glad I did it. I could see the team's improvement along with my own. I can't wait to do it again next season," said John Byon.

by-- Ellie Maass



Let's start the game- Members RyanWong, Danny Ortega, and John Byon patiently await the start of their Encinal game, while midfield.

Lineup!- During practice, the Frosh team lines up as though they were to play their game. Practice was very important as the coach watched progress.

Go team go- Freshman team members Luis Puicon, Ben Reed and Tim Mahoney watch the O'Dowd game from the sidelines.

Hike! The Hornets are lined up and ready to play a tough game against our rivals across the island, Encinal High School Jets.

Fight for the ball- Freshmen tumble and fall as they battle for possesion of the football against Piedmont High School.

Up And Over

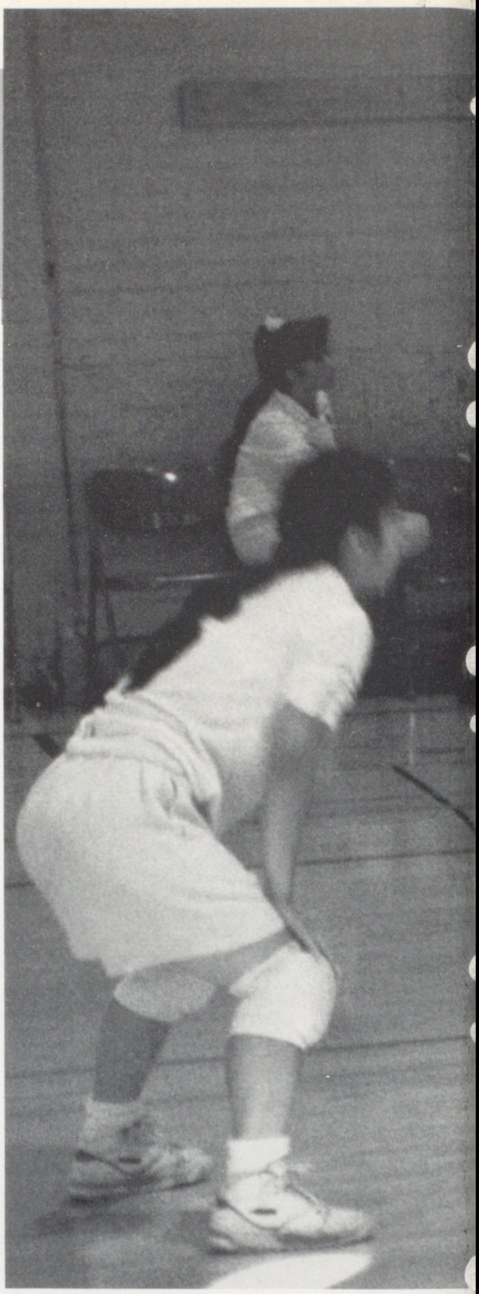
Sprawled out across the gymnasium floor, she desperately extended her fist to make contact with the ball. Sliding across the cold court she gets it just in time to return it over the net. What an incredible save!

The women's Varsity Volleyball team played intensely this year and finished the season ahead of their previous record. Working together with a new coach, Cheryl Davidson, they improved their game and level of competition. These Hornets fought hard and never gave up, even when they were down at match point.

"In the three years that I've played Volleyball here at Alameda, I think that this season has been the most challenging and, at the same time, the most fun." said Junior Nhung Tran. The team improved their playing and communication skills. They found it very important to "talk it up" and call the ball to avoid confusion. With this strategy they team worked well together.

Strategy was also an important key taught by Coach Davidson tothe team. Four to five days a week, the team worked on conditioning, offensive and defensive strategies, and serving techniques. "Initially I thought that another new coach would not be very beneficial to our team, but we soon realized how knowledgeable she was. She knew the game well and kept us focused and on target." said Senior Sandra Linn.

By:
Doug Aoyama



Ready to return, Nhung Tran, Carrie Mooningham, and Sandra Linn take their defensive stances. Coach Davidson emphasized the importance of strategy.

Let's play ball, Alyssa Dubois, Jani Brandt, Jenni Gamboa, and Christina Marlan get psyched for their game.

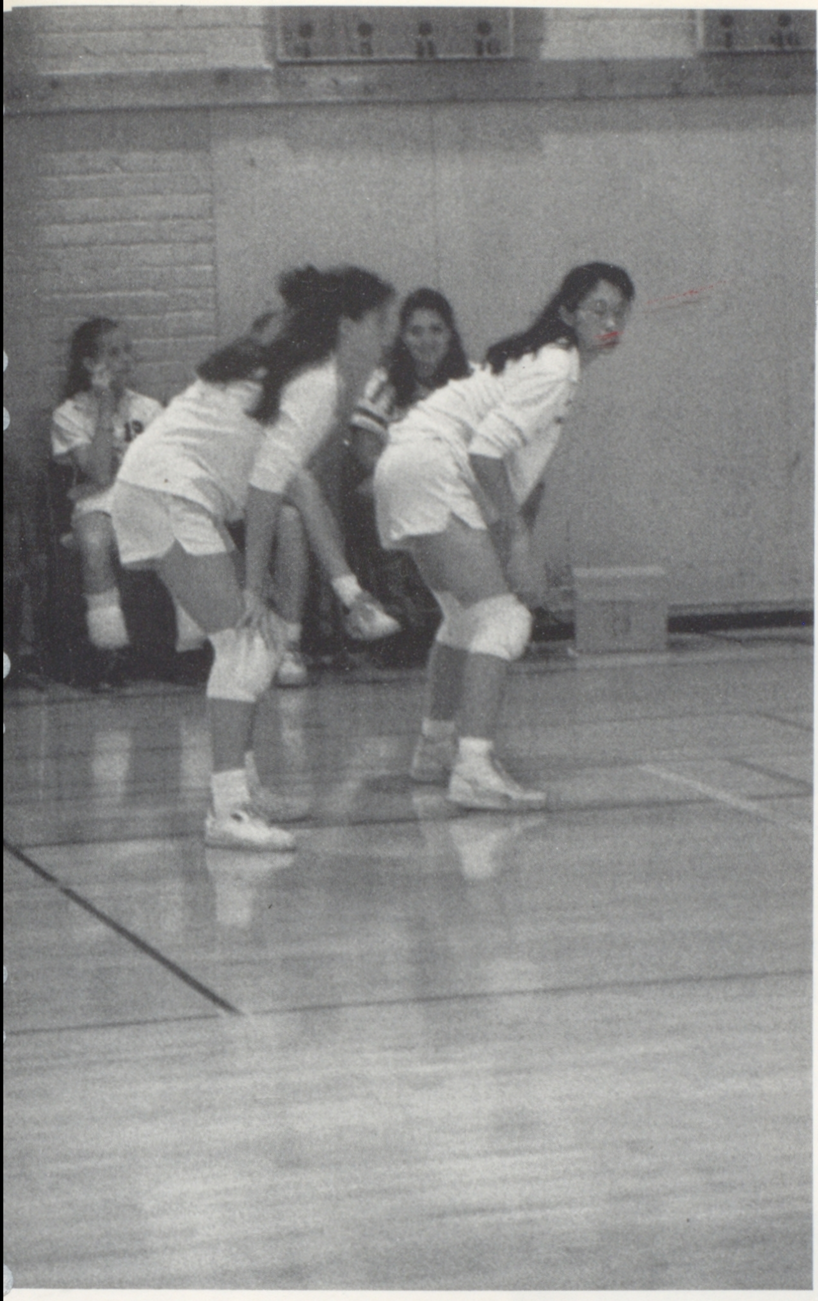
"The team worked very hard to get to where we are now. It took hard work, determination, and incredible team work."

- Teresa Medina



Bump, set, spike. Sandra Linn bumps the ball to her teammate Jani Brandt who sets the team up for a powerful spike. This was one strategy used by the team.

Huddle!! Working together was the key to success, just as the varsity team members do. They quickly discuss a few strategies in between games.

Ready for another game? Sandra Linn, Jenni Gamboa, and Angie Pedia take a brake between playing time.

"Raise your hands if your sure!" As Elaine Chin practices her spikes, team members look on. Practices were held often and were an advantage to the team.

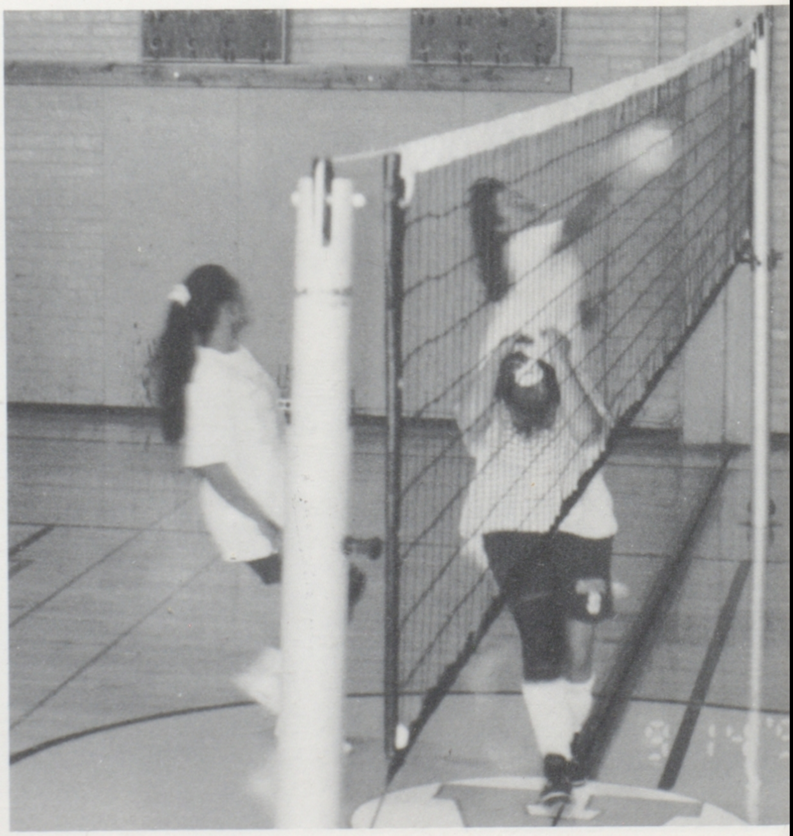
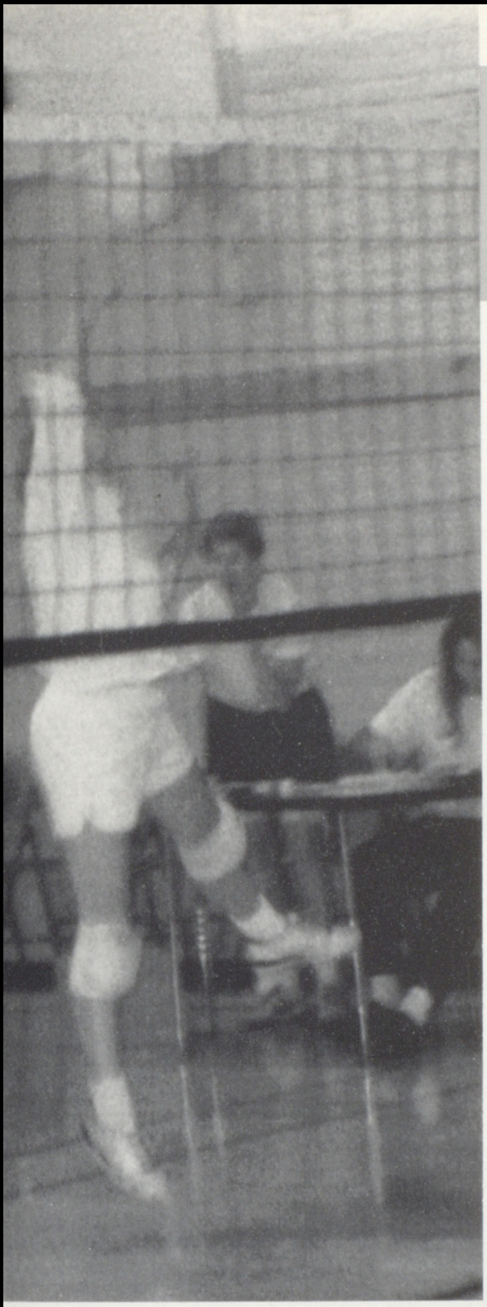
"Come get your tickets!" As Ms. Porter, Brian Wong and Mike Noonan come to watch the game, they help out at the door.





Setting It In Motion

Bump, Set, Spike. Mastering this combination our Junior varsity volleyball team pulled through with a fair season.

There were a lot of changes for the girls volleyball team: new players, a new coach, and a new attitude towards victory.

Having to adapt to a new coach would be difficult, but everyone was prepared. Coach Roxaynne brought with her a very positive attitude about coaching. Volleyball was a sport that required great physical skill, and strength. Just like any other sport, volleyball was very strenuous. Four to five times a week after school the team worked on perfecting its skills.

"I really had a good time, even though it was my first year. I think it was a great experience!" -Ruthie Pontemayor.

Although the year wasn't the best of years they worked together efficiently. "I really has a good time, even though it was my first year. I think it was a great experience." -Ruthie Pontemayor. This was the feeling of the new players on the team. Despite the disappointing season, the team has a bright future, considering there will be many returning players.

"Spiking it" makes for exciting action during volleyball games. A member of the hornet team prepares to spike the ball, making it extremely difficult for the opposing team to score.

"Watch your head!" As Alyssia Dubois heads for cover a J.V. member blocks the serve as Ruthie Pontemayor prepares to back her up.

"We worked really hard with each other and learned a lot from our new coach along with having a fun season."
- Elaine Chin

Shooting For Success

Teamwork, teamwork, teamwork, the shout heard across the gym during varsity games.

Afterschool practices is where teamwork began, perfecting the teams strong points and improving their weak points. Drills involving shooting, passing, dribbling, and rebounding were conducted as well as freethrow practices and communication techniques. The main strategy was diciplined teamwork. With help from the coaches, the boys began to function as a family. Each member within the team learned not only to help, but to understand each other.

Dave Suess commented, "Our coaches got the most of our team. We perserved through many hard times to accomplish as mush as possible. The seniors on our team contributed a great deal and should be proud of themselves and the team as their high school basketball career ends."

Having a powerful offense and playing tight defense are the key elements in thier victories, it was also important that the team members remained calm under pressure. "You have to have confidence and play smart, then you'll be able to handle the pressure. For example, the Encinal game, was a real close game, we had to stall the ball to wind the clock down and keep Encinal from scoring. I felt we did a good job under pressure." said by Varsity player, Casey Mooningham.

As the season drew to an end, the crowds grew to support their team's continuing acheivement. The fans showed appreciation to all the players, by screaming their praises. "As I walked into the gym, I felt the excitment and the supportive spirit. Feeling it made me jump up and say, Go Hornets!!" said Freshman supporter, Shannon Lindberg.

Swatting the ball, Dave Suess, the Hornets center, hits the ball into a teammates hands. This 6-foot 6-inch senior was the Hornets lead rebounder and he averaged 15 points a game. Dave is known as Mr. Reliable, he can always be depended on to finish what he starts and he is always willing to help his fellow teammates.

Practice makes perfect! Domingo Reynolds practices his freethrows before the game to perfect his shot. Domingo is one of the four Juniors on the Varsity Team. The Hornets felt nice and fresh as the shot around in their new warm-ups. Domingo lettered in both basketball and in football this year.

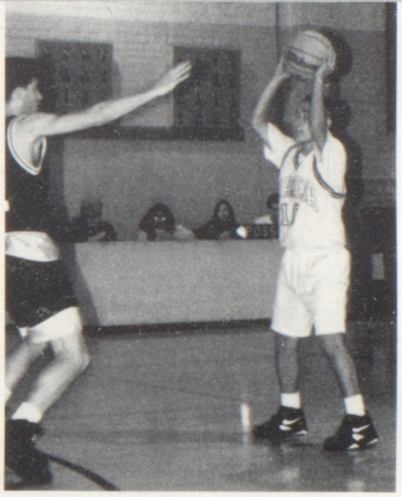
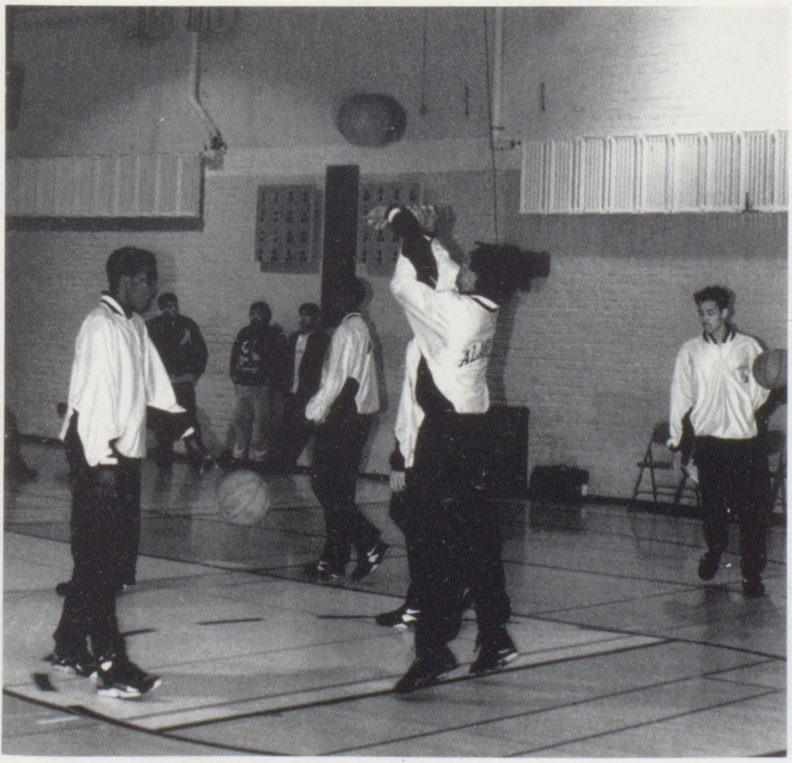
Can't Touch This. Ricco Nicholas protects the ball , as he looks to pass. Ricco often got the last shot up to help the Hornets on the road to victory.





Patience, Poise, Dicipline, Determination....heard often from Coach Felix Douglas, helped the team get ready and prepare for the game, and to inspire the players to play to the best of their ability.

Warm it up. SeniorDewayne Deguzman shoots his lay-up as he gets fired up for the game against BishopO'Dowd. The Hornets usually ran out to music to get them pumped up for the game.

Back To Mack

Charging towards his goal, he flies past the defense, the opponents race down after him trying to prevent his score, he takes two more steps, he jumps and lets the ball roll off his fingertips, directly into the net, the crowd screams as the buzzer sounds-another victory for the Hornets.

"We've been working really hard practicing and the Encinal game proved to us that we've got what it takes to win. Practicing with the Varsity team taught us a lot and improved our game" stated Greg Anderson.

The Boy's J.V. basketball team was one with much experience. Though experience is a positive aspect, it didn't mean that games came easy. But with the right attitude and the active use of their energy, the team members were able to accomplish what they wanted.

Freshmen.

-----Just beginning-----

As a result of having a bad start in the preseason, the Freshmen basketball players were eager to improve their weak points.

Practicing everyday, team members became close friends as well as improved athletes, which in turn brought out team unity and spirit. "I think that we became a more improved and aggressive team because we learned from our mistakes. We had a good coach that helped us to play as a team," commented by Dennis Ainsworth.

Each Freshman built their strength and found their place on the team. Their combined depth contributed to the season wins. The team was coached by Ron Williams, who in his second season as a Hornets coach was pleased to return. Coach Williams worked with these young men and made them all work hard. When asked about the coach, David Diggs responded, "Coach Williams is the funniest, easiest, and nicest coach at Alameda High. He was an inspirational coach and he got us to play to our full potential." As a result of good coaching, the team learned not to whimper because of their losses, but rather took them as incentive to work harder with an aggressive attitude.

The 1992-93 season was a challenge to the Freshmen. They suffered through several losses but rolled in with a couple of wins. The team struggled with inconsistency throughout the preseason, but eventually they came together into a fine team. No matter what their record was, the frosh agreed that their season was filled with enjoyment. "The Freshman team did a fine job despite having a rough season in a competitive league," said JV basketball player Maurice Turner.

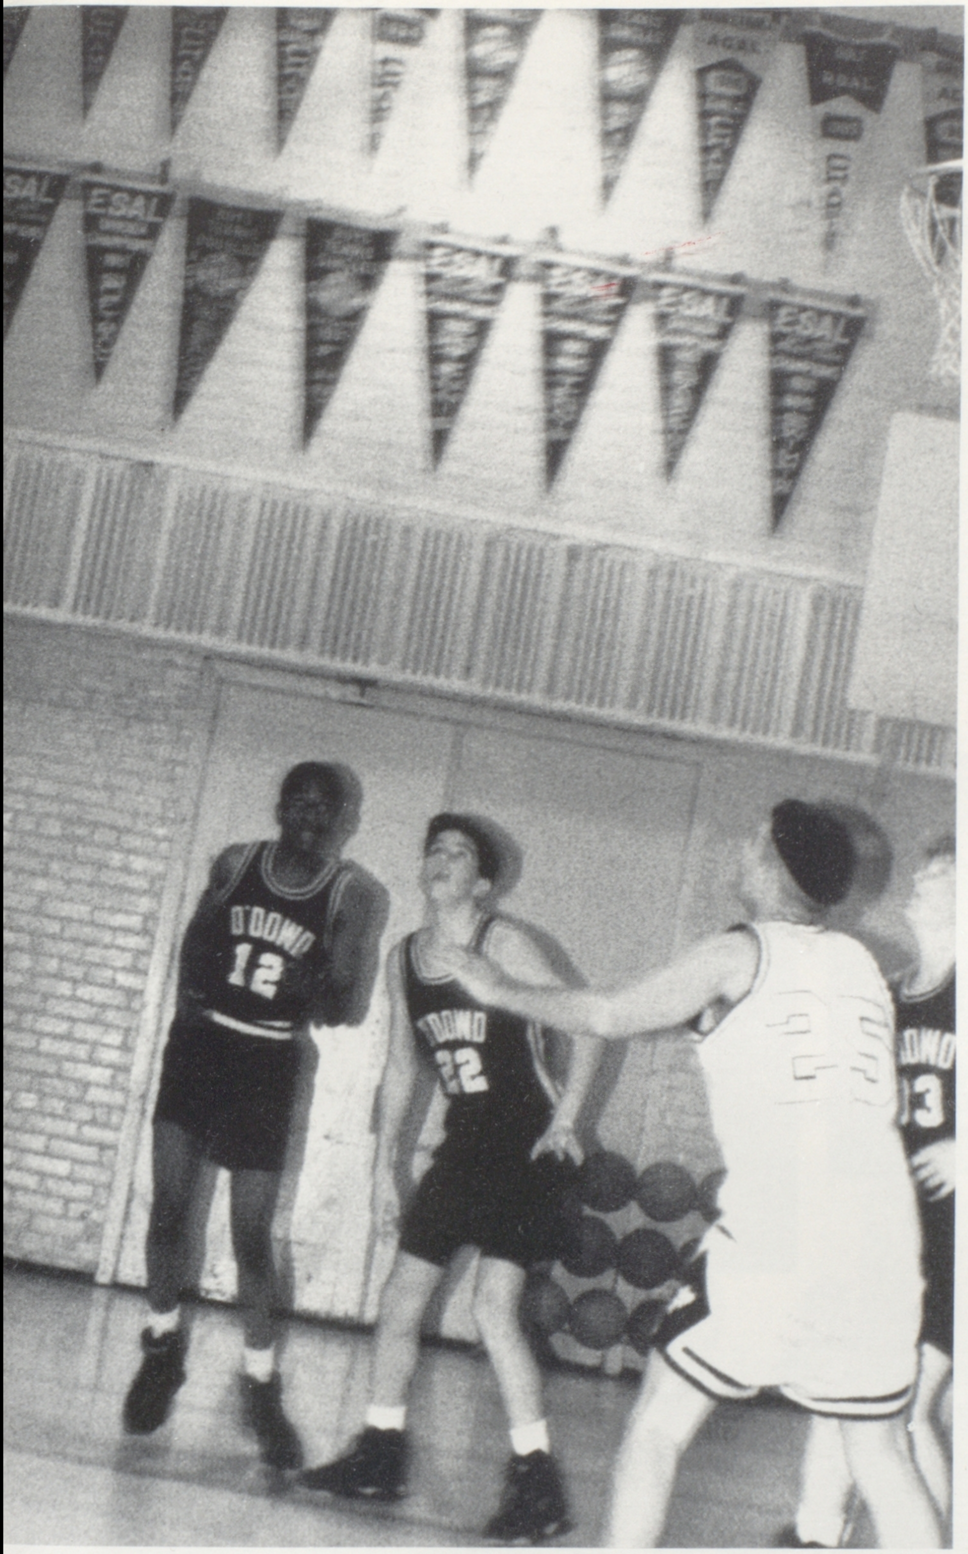
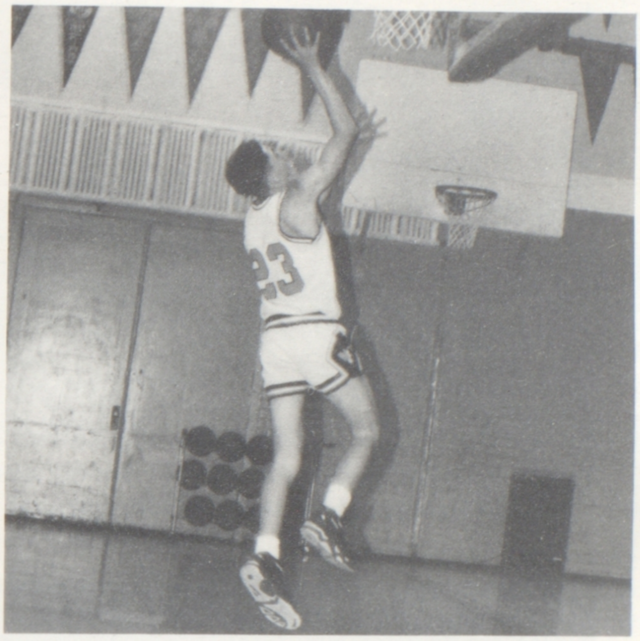
Relax, Focus, Concentrate......These are the things that Mike Gandara had to do in able to make to bucket. He has to relax , focus on the hoop and concentrate on game, not the crowd.

Get the rebound..David Diggs, Ryan Speer and Mike Gandara look to see where the ball is going to go so they can put it back in for another two points.



In your face....With confidence, Ben Reed says this to an opponent as he makes his freethrow. Ben is the tallest on the team, he played center and jumped to pull down the rebounds.



This is easy......Mike Gandara steals the ball from the opponent and dribbles down the court for an easy lay-up. This was a usual routine for Mike. He often stole the ball and left the opponent to eat his dust.

CHARGE! Andrea Thieme goes up in a crowd of Holy Names' Monarchs to make the basket and receive a foul.

Trap her ! Jamee LeMoine and Mari Chinn trap Encinal and steal the ball. Amy Germino is in the back court cutting off the lob pass.

HIGH HOPES FOR HOOPS

Building a tradition. This was the new theme for the Lady Hornets. This new tradition was to be built on getting rid of an old reputation of losing and was accomplished by making goals.

"First we started by making goals for the season, then we made goals before each game and gave them to our coach, finally we started making goals daily," said Senior Jamee LeMoine.

Our major goal was to come together as one unit instead individuals and to play with more intensity than the past seasons. This was a result of Coach Brad Thomas, asking the team what they wanted to accomplish this year as far as playoffs.

Losing only four Seniors last year, they gained five Seniors this year. This season was to provide the biggest challenge ever. The girls had to prove to crosstown rivals St. Joe's and Encinal the they couldn't keep up with the running game Alameda threw out there for them. Though the Lady Hornets are not always winners on the court, they are winners in what they have hoped to to accomplish, starting a new tradition of pride and determination. THe most shocking win was over Albany 100-31.

Swish!

The crowd waits anxiously as she prepares herself for the foul shot. She dribbles a few times and shoots. SWISH! Its in! The pressure of making this shot is all too familiar for the Lady Hornet J.V. BasketBall team. It's tough being an athlete but these ladies make it look easy.

They practice every day after school sharpening their skills, and relying on teamwork to pull them through during the games. "This is my second year and I think we need more work on defense, but the team is like a close family. I also think that we will be a better team next year," says Sophmore Heather Demerest who is Co-captian of the team.

Their coach Dan Salsbury keeps the spirits up and has the girls playing their best. "This is my first year and I think that the team works together very well and my playing has improved because of Coach Salsbury's help," says Chen Lang the other Co. Captian.

They don't get much coverage but they shouldn't go unoticed. This team works as hard as any team on campus, and they always give top performances.

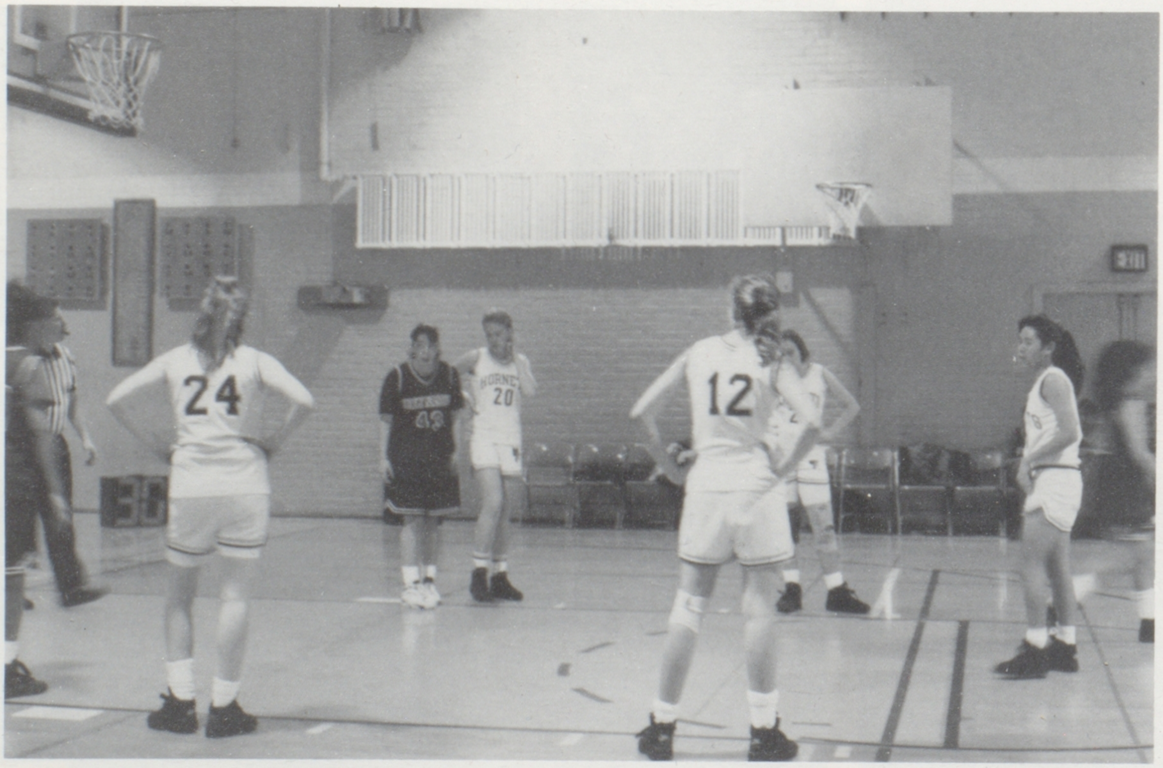
I've got it! Members of the AHS JV girl's basketball team try to steal the ball from a Holy Names opponent. Using teamwork and pressure strategies helped.

Go Hornets! The crowd watches the AHS Women's JV Basketball game against Holy Names. Parents were very interested in their children's games.



Just one more point! Co-captain Chen Lang waits and prepares for her foul shot.

"I think we have good teamwork. Coach Salsbury is very enthusiastic and has really helped us."

Gotta get that point! Freshman Chen Lang dribbles down the court for yet another point for the Hornets.

We did it! The Junior Varsity Basketball team celebrates after their victory over Holy Names. The final score was 36 - 32. The team was very proud of this win. Coach Salabury was pleased with the defensive game.

Is someone open?! Freshman Jamie Yi looks for a teammate to pass the ball to. This was a hard task since most teammates were usually guarded.

BACK TO BACK

For the second year in a row, the Water Polo team placed first at the East Shore Athletic League meet. To top it off, they went on to place 9th at North Coast.

The dominantly senior Varsity team is strong, and filled with experienced players. Ryan Flock, Patrick Foster, and Jon Olson were honored as All- American Team Members and also recieved North Coast honors. This was the second consecutive year that Flock and Foster received the title of All American.

Ryan Flock, Senior member on the team had much to say about his waterpolo lifestyle, "My four years of water polo have improved my way of taking on school and other important tasks. It's made me achieve my highest goals, and I love hitting people in the water."

Robert Rodd, the team's coach, works the team hard, but there is an intense feeling of togetherness inside the team. Nicknames are abundant, and Rodd is aware of his members grades at all times. It is important that grades are kept up, and if they drop the student has a responsibility to the team to bring them up. The rough optional early morning workouts and the required afternoon regime are key factors in the team's success. The team members who attend the workouts are willing to sacrifice part of their life to acieve their best so they can go on to represent the school with pride.

Since the Varsity team consists of many graduating seniors, next year the team will be young and ready for Rodd to mold into ESAL championship material once again.

Hardwork and perserverence paid off this year, and brought the team "back to back!"

"Phew at last the final hill" this thought ran through many of the 1992 Cross Country runners. They ran a terrific season.

"Our goal this year was to make it to the Meet of Champions as a team, and we succeeded!" states coach Brian Lodge. The past few years only individuals qualified for this meet which comes after North Coast Sectionals. This year the whole team qualified. "I peaked at the Meet of Champions, it was a great way to end my senior year running." Chris Palmer says.

The Cross Country girl's team finished with a bang. They accomplished a great deal ending the year with a 3rd place at North Coast Sectionals and 8th at the Meet of Champions. "...the girls team this year was the best Alameba High has ever had.." Coach Brian Lodge exclaimed.

The Hornets ran their home meets at Joaquin Miller in the oakland hills."I'm really happy with the way this year turned out and I think we've set the course for A.H.S. runners for the next couple of years." says Katie Fulleton, team captain. Coach Brian Lodge was very proud of his teams. "We satrted earlier and worked extremely hard this yesr, and it paid off!"

Staring coldly and intensely, she tosses the ball to begin her serve. Palms are sweaty and the air is thick with tension. Will this one be good? Smack in the corner of the box. Perfect. It's returned with perfect skill. The rally continues. Who will miss? Back and forth, up and down -swipff, swipff. Finally, a point is scored.

This scene was played out at every match by the tennis team. This year, "on the ball" has meant over the net. The Varsity and JV teams have been on the ball. After the pre-season matches were finished coach Dave Fairfields visions of success for his team were realized. "We played four of the strongest teams and we beat them really bad." With hard work and perserverence the Lady Hornets were undefeated throughout the league. Not only was the Varsity team one of the best but, the JV also pulled through. During the league JV managed the beat other schools Varsity teams and was 2nd best in the league. Amy Peterson and Marta Westernoff went on to play North Coast and placed second in the finals.

This season was a piece of cake, "our team was so indepth that our J.V.'s beat most of our varsity competetors!"- Natalie Mariani

Striving For Success

'15-Love rang through the court as the player prepared to receive the serve from the opponet across the court. Pop. As the ball sizzled over the net and bounced off the clay he dove to save the ball. The small sphere lobbed over the net, the opponet smacked the ball short over the net and the player received it smashing it back perfectly. The ball landed on the back of the court and bounced out.

These knds of plays were what the mens tennis team practised every day against each other until it became second nature to them. The team has a wealth of youthful talent returning and hopes to continue the winning tradition that the Hornets tennis team has become known for.

With an exceptional team and an experienced coach it promised to be a victorious season. It took a unique team to excel at tennis as the sport combined both speed and agility.

SPLASH!

I Need A Snickers Break! The Mens Swim Team takes a much nedded break after a vigorous workout.

On a cool brisk winter morning at 6:00 a.m., when everybody in their right mind is still asleep, the Alameda High School Men's Varsity and J.V. swim teams leap head first into an icy pool, thus is the beginning of morning workout.

They begin with a few grueling laps to warm up, and then move to some kickboard exercises. At the end of this hour practice they head for the locker room and dress to begin their regular school day. At 3:30 p.m. the cycle begins once again.

Swimming is a difficult sport requiring both aerobic and muscle tone conditioning. It is a very competitive sport. You need to focus on working as an individual and as a team member. Individual excellence is only a part of the entire effort required for competitive swimming.

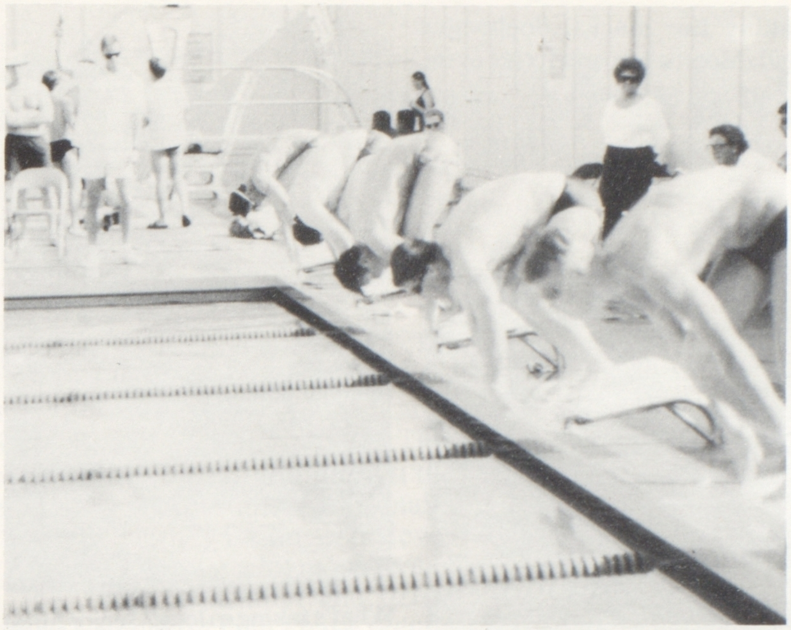
The entire team is looking forward to a very competitive season. Coach Rodd is excited about the new talent and the experience of the veteran swimmers. He believes a possible ESAL championship is in the making. For season coverage see mini-magazine.

Splish Splash! - As the men's Varsity swim team leads the meet, opposing team members from Logan look on in amazement.

Get set, GO! -As Junior, Jason Andrew flys off the block, he takes his time in making just the right dive to win the race against Logan High School. Jason was a veteran of the Hornet swim team.

Doggie Paddling works best! - Ryan Flock, Frank Redle, and Josh Roper, all senior members, take a break to fool around. All three were veteran members of Coach Rodd "Meow" club

Get your paddles! - Some of the members of the team take a break from the required afternoon practice. Robert Rodd also held morning workouts which he made mandatory for selected members.



On your marks - Patrick Foster gets ready to dive into the pool during the Alameda Alumni race

Only two more hours to go - Continuing on with their monotonus laps, team members warmed up for the real work, some days they swam up to 3,000 yards a day... and more.

Air! I need air! - Ryan Flock works hard to perfect his freestyle, Coach Rodd had set workouts for the team that always was sure to test their endurance.

Taking her marks, Sophomore Linda Monroe prepares for her event, the 50 yard freestyle.

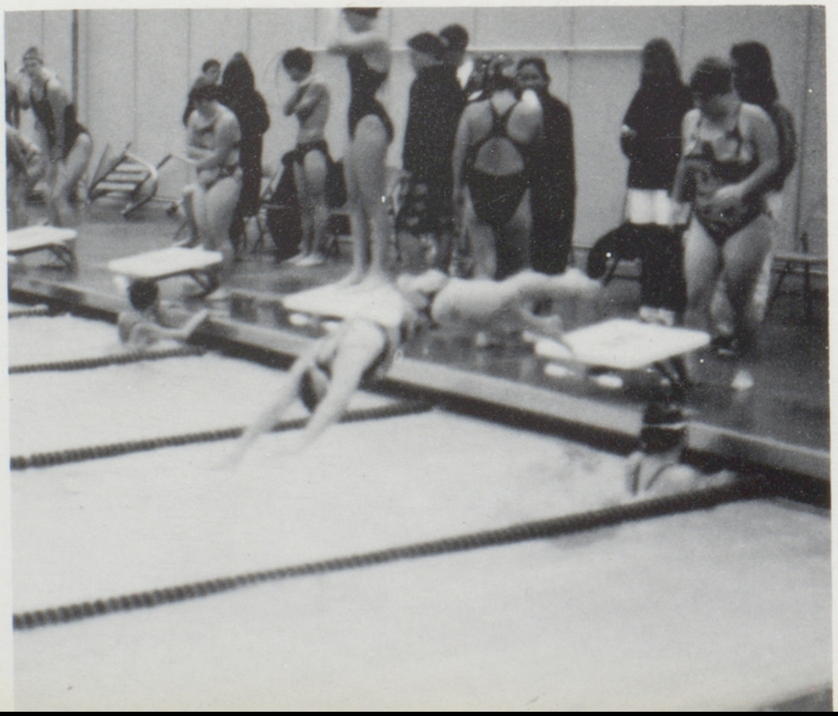
What's taking so long? Senior Angie Babjack waits for her event. Sometimes patience is needed.

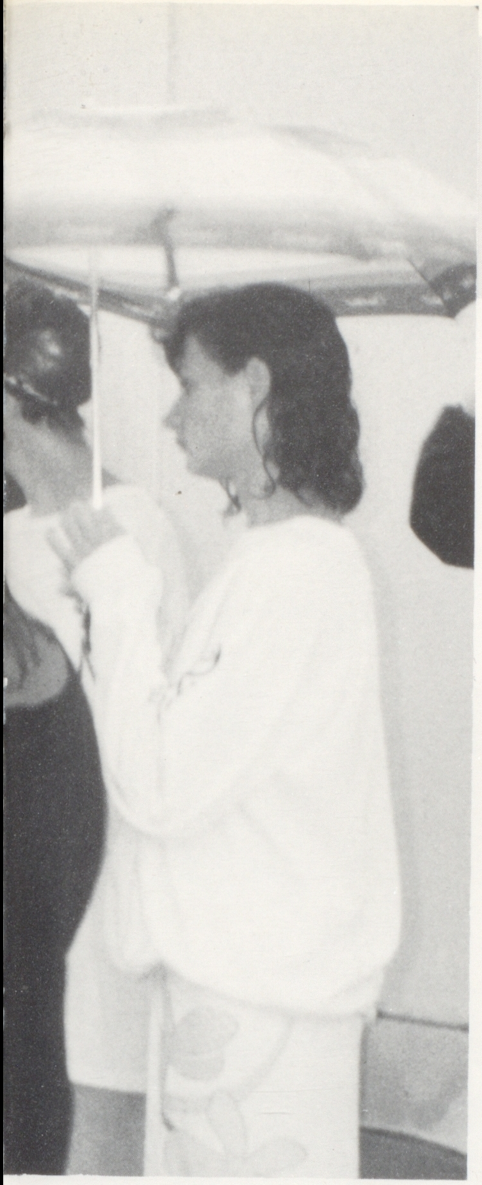
Gosh it's cold! Freshmen Amber Long, Stephanie Shoman, and Rosalie Shoman huddle with some freiends under an umbrella. Swimmers were always expected to swim, even in the rain.

Only three more laps to go! Junior Jackie Fernandez gives the camera a smile and a wave during practice. Practice was held everday after school and the girls are expected to attend all the time.

I can do it! A J.V. swimmer dives in attemting to win for her relay team. Teamwork and concentration is a key factor for a winning relay team. Effort is another thing swimmers need in meets.

I need air! Freshman Amber Long practices the Breastroke correctly. Practice is when the girls work hard to do everything right and also work on speed. The team has been working hard.





Swimmers Take Your Marks!

You are running to the blocks, your event is ready to start. You run faster but just as you get there you hear the sound of the gun. Bang! It's too late, you've missed your event. No! You scream. This is every swimmers nightmare.

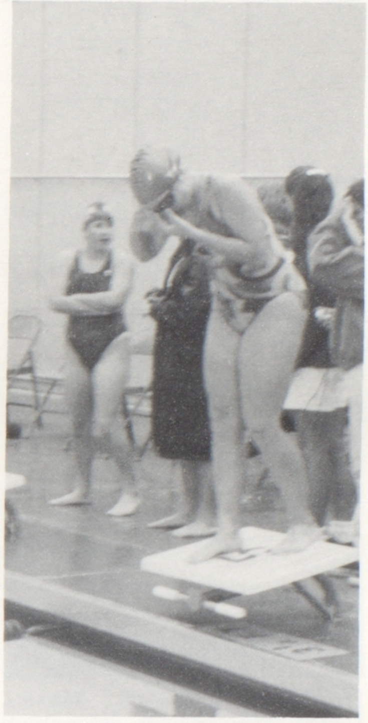
Every member of the Women's swim team has had this nightmare, but the reality has never occurred because they are trained to take responsibility for all their actions. This year the girls are showing a tremendous amount of raw talent. They practice everyday after school trying to become faster, "I think that we have a lot of new talent because of the first year swimmers. I also think that we are going to do very well and have a lot of fun." says Mary Curry, the swimming coach.

Co-Captain Senior Cybil Gilbertson believes "That we are going to do good because of the team's energy." This is Cybil's fourth year on the team. The other Co-Captain, Courtney Bellinger believes "There are a lot more people with dedication and determination than I have seen in my two years of swimming."

The Women's Swim Team is made up of 17 Freshmen, 9 Sophmores, 13 Juniors, and 8 Seniors. 18 of these girls are on Varsity and 29 on Junior Varsity.

The team's schedule is very challenging and every team member is looking forward to the meets. (See Mini-Magazine for season wrap up.)

By : Irene Landini

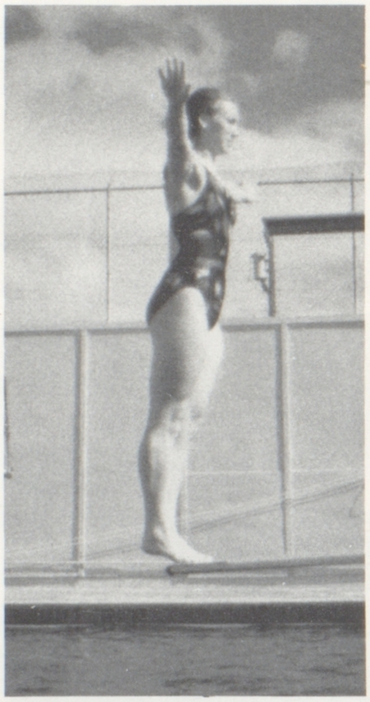


Wait, I'm not ready yet! Sophomore Darlene Pendergrass adjusts her goggles before she dives in.

Don't you wish you were here? Smiling at the camera happily are Cybil Gilbertson, Julie Matheison, and Courtney Bellinger. Spare time was a rare thing in swim meets.

And they're off! The A.H.S. girls are racing against Logan High School. It takes a great deal of effort to become a good swimmer.

BOMBS AWAY

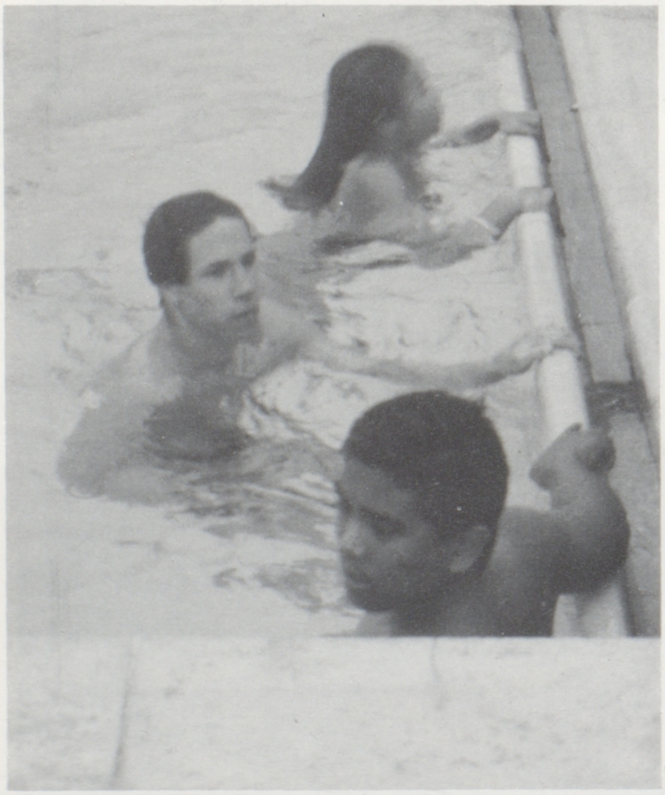


Don't Say A Word.. Monica Gilkey concentrates on making her dive as perfect as can be.Coach DelaRiva always pushes his team to their limit...and beyond.

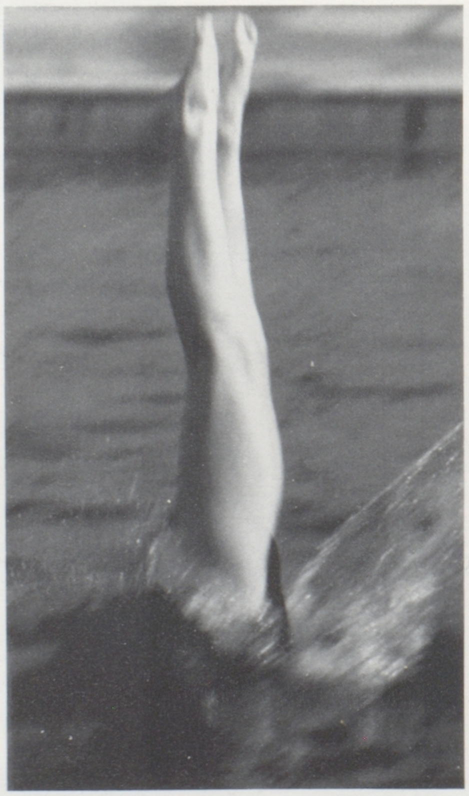
It's high time to take another look at the sport of diving. While diving may look like just another way to kick back and work on a great tan, it actually is a vigorous sport that combines skill, endurance, and dedication.

With the return of warm weather, also came the return of the aspiring band of divers. Although some were returning members of the team, the majority of the turn out were newcomers who were also ready and willing to accept the responsibility and take part in the acrobatic sport of diving.

To put the finishing touches on their diving strategies they have the help from a new coach, Greg DelaRiva, who happens to be an alumni diver " He is a fine coach and he knows how to teach us in a way in which we all can understand." said Sophomore Monica Gilkey who is new to diving this year.

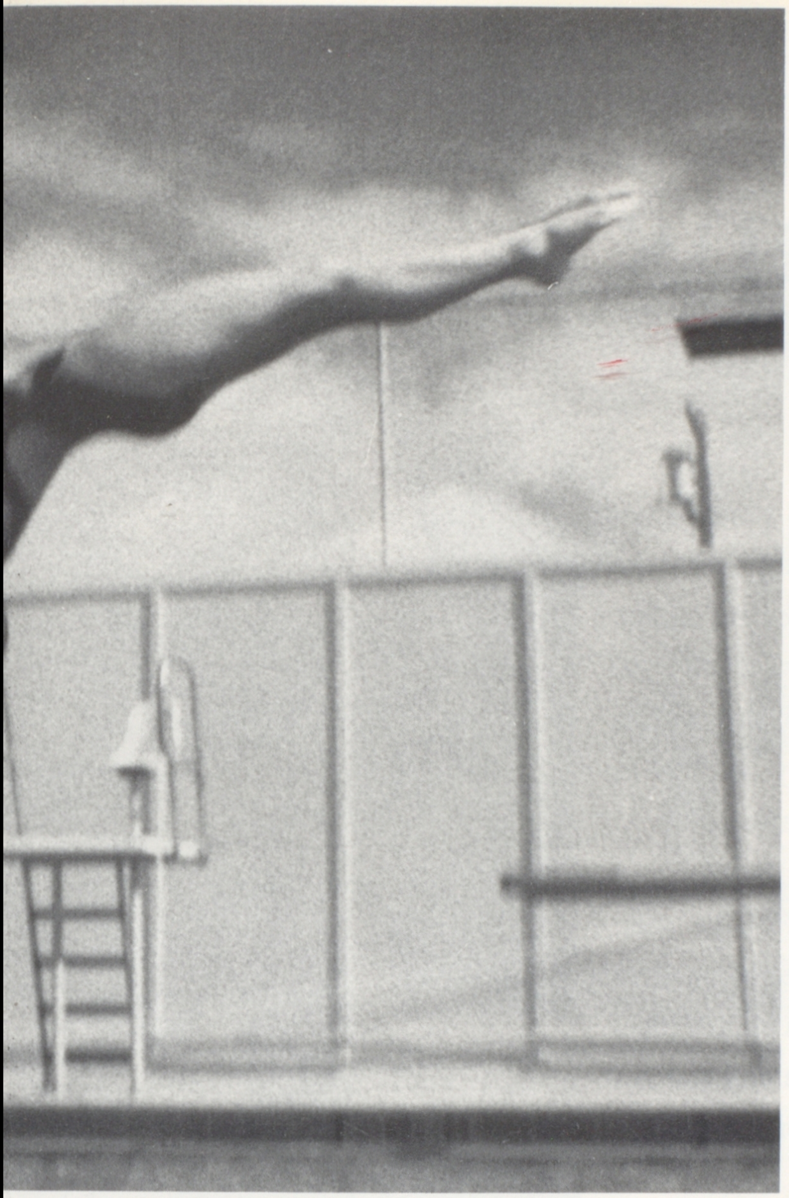


Get out of the water? I think not... Eric Mabee,Roxanne Lo and Andy Bordalo rest until their turn to dive. Though diving is a spring sport, Califorina days can be chilly. Relaxing in the warm pool is a nice way to sooth your musles and stay warm.



'96 Olympics here she comes! Sabrina Leslie enters the water with everything just right. Leslie has been diving for two years and is used to coming out on top.

"I Want To Fly Like An Eagle"... Dara Kaplan enters the water on a complicated dive but she makes it look so easy.

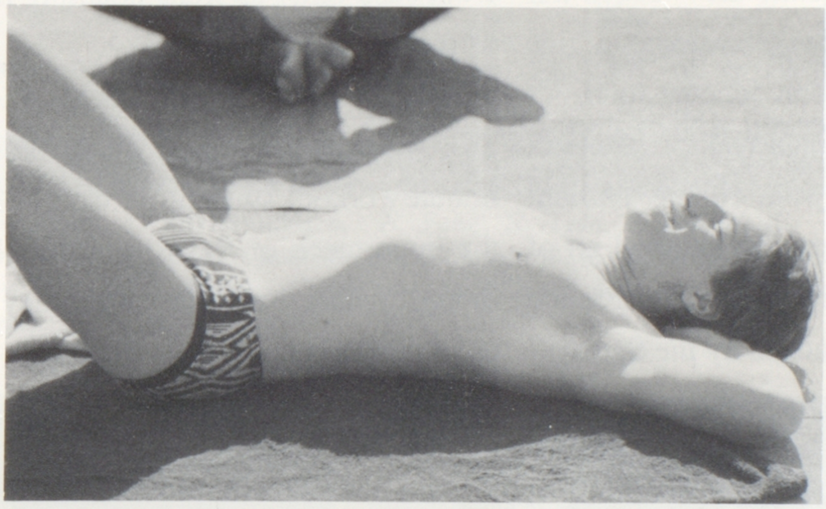


Soaring through the air, Sabrina Leslie completes another perfect dive. Leslie has competed at North Coast twice and has received top honors.

The 92-93 diving includes back row:Monica Gilkey, Dara Kaplan, Sabrina Leslie, Roxanne Lo, Tina Oaks, and Coach Greg DelaRiva. Botom row ,Jovan Harrison, Andy Bordalo, and Eric Mabee.

Highdiving Monica Gilkey knows that practice makes perfect. She certainly has been doing a lot of practicing.

Why oh why do I do this? Monica Gilkey.prepares for a complex dive off the high board.



Everybody needs a break... Eric Mabee works on his tan and concentrates on his next dive. Mabee has been in diving for two years and has received top honors.

That's good but next time.... Coach Greg DelaRiva gives a couple of pointers to his divers.

Back arched,feet together,don't belly flop...Eric Mabee thinks of all the do's and don'ts of perfecting a flawless dive.

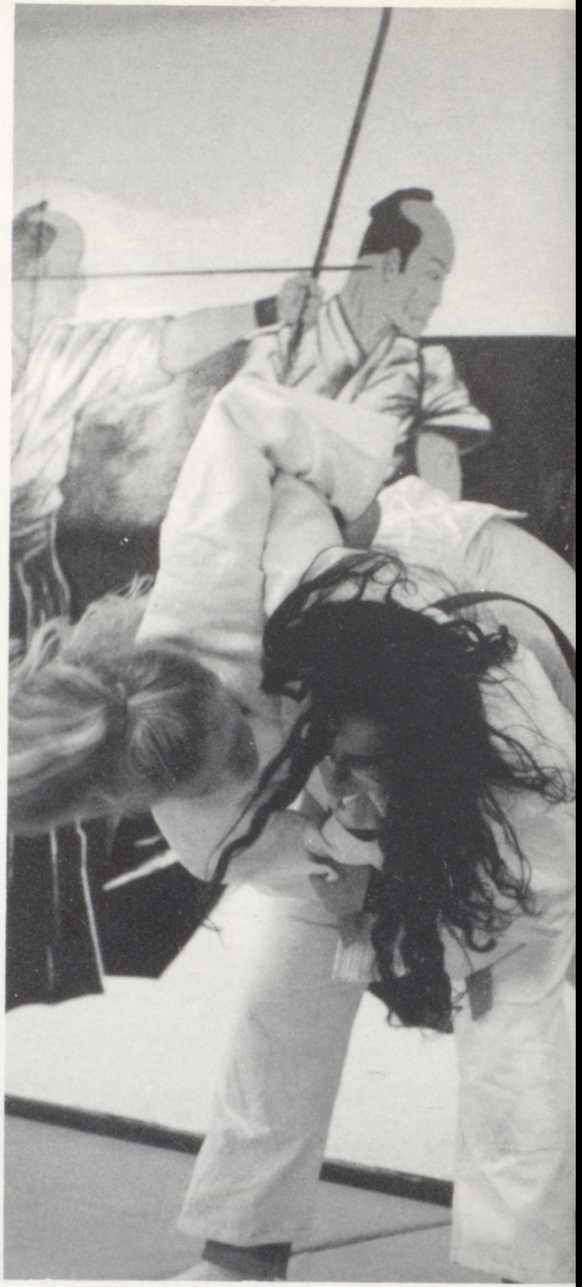
New Horizons

The primary objective of practising Jujitsu is to perfect character. The basic principal of this art is to use your opponets weight and strength, to your advantage in order to overcome your opponet. Jujitsu means "gentle art" which has been elevatedto a fine moral concept Judo, "the way of gentleness." Jujitsu is the ancient Japanese national art of unarmed self-defence practisd by the Samuri, or "warrior" class of Japan.

The dojo, school, is where the jujitsu students practice. With the philosophy of the art incorporated into the workouts, students learn from each other as well as from Sensei David Fairfield. The class usually starts with a ten minute workout, stresing the importance of flexibility. Sensei Fairfield taught techniques to students in which they practiced.

On Fridays students got to relax and learn the healing aspects of jujitsu. They learned how to massage different parts of the body as well as learning Kappo.

At the end of the year, students are able to go to a camp where they meet new people and test out what they had learnd in the dojo.



Giving demonstrations. Sensei Dave Fairfield and Rhodel Martin show how to do a simple maneuver by choking your opponent. Students help to show self defense while in the dojo.

Practice makes perfect. Linda Ho practices how to do a choke on her partner. Practicing their moves helps to learn from mistakes.

Flat on the ground. Jennifer Nelson practices a blue belt throw on Leif Matin. Working with lower ranking belts helps both the students develop skills.

Making it count. Nina Scheir throws her partner Jennifer Nelson. Being able to land properly helps to prevent from any injuries.

OVERALL RECORD
7-4-2

The ominous black clouds hung low in the skies as the referee blew his whistle. Bodies began to bump into each other as the struggle for the round black and white ball commenced. During each game the players dribbled their way across the field, and battled the opponents in hope of scoring a goal.

For the average spectator, watching a game of soccer varied in levels of excitement. Kent Franke had his own philosophy as to what composed as inspiring and interesting soccer game. "Soccer isn't just kicking the ball around. It takes skill which you need to practice and make perfect. Foot-eye coordination, accuracy, and most of all endurance, makes everything come together."

The team, lead by Coach Jack Cooley, experienced a season of triumph. With positive attitudes and total dedication the team was able to come away with solid wins against the other top teams within our league. Even losing five seniors Cooley anticipates a strong winning season next year, hoping to have an even better record than this year's: 7-4-2.

"Pass it, pass it!" Team play is the most important element in soccer.

Follow that ball, quickness and staying alter make for easy victories.

Intensity is Senior Ryan Flock's philosophy. Keeping his eye on the ball and using fancy footwork is part of Flock's game.

"Got it!" Junior Joachim Luis focuses on using footwork techniques that make it difficult for the opponent to recover the ball.

Observing success, Coach Jack Cooley and Adam Garfinkle watch the give and take ball distribution on the field.

"Hey, check me out!" Freshman Jenny Shargell takes on a player from Bishop O'Dowd.

"Hey get out of my way!" Junior Michelle Leckler, a former A.H.S. basketball player, was a big asset to the Girls Soccer Team.

KICK IT

INTO HIGH GEAR

The green field stretched almost as far as the eye could see. At either end were white poles encased by netting. Team members on the field were dressed in black shorts and yellow shirts. On the sidelines, Coach Luis Aguilar, yelled encouragement to the players on the field.

The exciting game of soccer reached new heights and expectations as the Girls' Varsity Soccer Team took the field to battle their opponents in search of victory. Senior Kelly Holmes commented, "I wanted to improve my skills in soccer and improve my leadership qualities. My personal goal is to be better than last year and help the team."

Along with two hour practices and the numerous games the team always gave 110% effort in what ever they did. With the winning attitude they fought hard to achieve their goals.

"A successful season doesn't necessarily mean winning all the time, but rather the experience you gain from playing the sport," responded Marta Westernoff.

The Lady Hornets added to the pride filled Hornet Family with their determination.

The 1992-93 season brought together by seniors Dave Burke, Sam Hopkins, Adam Garfinkle, Bret Bustos, Kent Franke, Jacob Battersby, Jacob White, Bernie Ortega, Chuck Lopez, Mohamed Arsalia... and also underclassmen Dan Nguyen, Tom Bennett, Ben Blaisdell, D.J. Cooper, and Jesse Sadillo to create "THE HIT SQUAD". They were out to prove to themselves as well as their fans that they were made of, a lot of heart and an enormous amount of talent. They began proving themselves during the pre-season. In their game against Skyline, they were behind until they all pulled together. In the bottom of the seventh inning Bret Bustos smacked the ball to bring the Hornets home with a 5-4 victory.

Impressive Swings

It's the ninth inning, bases are loaded and a definite "Casey At Bat " moment. The batter steps up and its the wind-up and the pitch. The ball crosses the plate. A powerful swing and contact is made, a loud hurrah comes from the crowd. It's a triple! The runners round the bases racking up the points for the womens softball team.

The season is off to a great start, with a record of 3 wins/ 1 lose."I think the Alameda Hornets Softball team is doing good but I think we have plenty of room for improvement. I think that our team this year is going to go very far. We're gonna do great this year."-Devon Damele.

Good sportsmanship, teamwork a a sense of fun are all compontents in a successful season. The whole team works hard as a unit, during 6th period to achieve this standard. "They are going to work as hard as they can. And try to do their personal best." Softball Coach Ruiz.

A winning season can take you to the Division Championships . Whether they win or lose they are sure to leave a lasting impression.

Keep your eye on the ball, is a lesson Brandi Wayne never forgets. This year there are 4 girls on the golf team.

Let's practice those putts. Mari Chin and Jason Chengtake time on Sunday to work on their putting. Keeping the competitive edge requires concentration and working on your weak points.

To be the best seniors Tommy Nakano and Alan Sue practices 2-3 hours everyday. In their final season they share the goal of being state champions.

It's too early - Tommy Nakano, Jason Cheng and Albert Lee get to the chriving range early on Sunday to ensure that they get a place. Daily they arrive at the golf complex around 2:30 p.m.

Poetry is motion. Remembering everything that Stretch taught him, Albert Lee works out at the practice range at the Alameda Golf Complex on Bay Farm Island.

The 1992-93 Season is dedicated to "Stretch Pearson. His two great loves ... Charmaine Pearson and golf.

"Stretch was a great coach, I'll always remember him as being generous, and good with kids." Tommy Nakano's feelings of the golf coach echo the feelings of the entire team. Coach Stretch Pearson passed away. The golf team, students, alumni, and faculty current and retired, all had positive memories of Stretch. The two most important things to him were his wife and golf. Everyone agrees that Stretch loved golf, that is all there is to it, and that love for the sport established him as a super coach. "He was my coach for my whole High School career, he had a unique way to fire us up to do our best. I miss him" - Alan Sue

The 13 member team is nowbeing coached by Don Murray, Athletic Director. The team consisted of 6 Varsity players, and 7 JV.

Practices are held at Alameda Golf Complex for 2-3 hours everyday. Last seasons achievements included the ESAL Championship, and a 4th place finish in North Coast. This year the teams goal is to compete in North Cal State Championship. Expected to place are Alan Sue, Tommy Nakano, and Albert Lee.

Alan Sue believes the team has great talent and potential, but they have not played up to their potential yet, "But when we do, we won't be beat.

The runners look confident but they can hear the loud beating of hearts, nerves are raw. The gun is held high, BANG...they are off!

Throughout a meet many events and races occur. A runner needs to know when to prepare, physically and mentally for a race. Running track takes self-discipline and knowledge about oneself. Depending on the runner and the weather can vary how long it takes to warm up, which includes stretching, running, and drill work. The Track and Field events include sprints, distance running, jumping, weight events, pole volt, and relays.

The track team practices after school and travels to the nearest track, at the College of Alameda. Even with few facilities team members manage to get a good workout in. The team is led by four coaches, Brian Lodge, Mr. Maiers, Dave Paiva, and Ms. Mann.

To be the best takes pride, dedication and a tremendous amount of hard work. The varsity squad consisted of eleven girls who are outgoing and anxious to be the very best .

Participating in cheerleading is very challenging for some of the cheerleaders. Junior Jessica Faria balances her school work and cheerleading " because I have to keep my grades up in order to stay on the squad. You need to maintain at least a 3.0 grade point average to stay eligible. So I try my hardest to stay on task with my school work."

This year was extremely difficult when Mama Frenchwood left our campus. The cheerleaders are struggling to keep it together and to make Mama proud of them.

Taking a breather. Keeping the crowd loud and excited is hard work. In between routines, the spirit squad has a chance to mingle and talk. They enjoy working together.

The spirit in the crowd is failing, Alameda is down and the air is tense. Suddenly the smiling faces of the spirit squad begin next another cheer and instantly the crowd is hyped up again. Alameda's spirit is renewed and they win the game!

Keeping the crowd enthuastic is the main focus of the Junior Varsity Cheerleading and Pom-Pon squads. They work hard practicing during 6th period and at various after-school practices. "Cheerleading is fun but it's a lot of hard work practicing and stuff. We're just one big family," says Crystal Martinez-J.V. Cheer.

Spirit Squad doesn't end with the school year either. Each year both squads go to United Spirit Association camp at Stanford. This year our Junior Varsity Cheerleaders walked away with a spirit award.

With all their many activities each year, its no wonder they leave such a spirited impression.

Leading The Way

Dances, assemblies, class competitions, lunchtime rallies - the AHS Student Government is to thank for all of these events. They are the leaders of our school, and without them there would be no fun activities such as intramural sports, dances, class trips, the Homecoming Parade, and all of the other wonderful activities that students get to take part in. Student Government's job is to make the 1992-1993 year as fun and as memorable as possible. "We try to bring the school together and to improve school spirit. We also get to meet a lot of great people and have fun while doing it," says Dara Kaplan, Student Body Activity Coordinator.

The Student Government is elected by the student body for both fall and spring terms. Each class has their own officers, and the student body has its own, as well. "The Student Government is a wonderful group of people! The Student Body Officers this year are a very unique and diverse group of people. I enjoy working with each of them," says Brian Wong, Student Body President.

Each class is also responsible for raising their own money and planning certain events. There have been many pasta feeds and candy sales this year for fundraisers. The sophomores biggest event this year was The Winter Ball. "It's been a very special year for me, working with student activities is very exciting. I'm really proud of all the students and their accomplishments." says Joy Bramlette, first year Director of Student Activities.

Student Government is a lot of hard work and responsibility, but it all pays off in the end. Without Student Government, there would be no extra activities that help make school a better place to come to. Good job everyone!

They're Playing Our Song

Entering the old building the faint sound of flutes tunning and drummers finding the beat draws your attention. Time it right and you may hear voices raised in harmony. During Homecoming week the Jazz and Concert bands were doing a lot of preparation, not on floats but on notes.

Jazz band began as a 7th period class but after school sports and plays interfered so it became a 4th period class. A few years ago students began playing in the pit orchestra for the spring muscial. This year Mr. Riccardi has more advanced students whom he is interested in having play in the pit for "Annie." Unfortunately, many of his musicians have been bit by the acting bug and will this year be on stage.

A typical day in the band room starts with concert band, followed by mixed and concert choirs, and jazz band. For the first semester, 6th period was a concert choir. The Orphenians are the elite choir group that meets every Tuesday after school. They displayed their muscial talents at the spring and winter concerts. They were asked by the Alameda Homeowners Association and the Alameda Yacht Club to perform during the holidays. After the rehearsals for the spring musical began, 6th period was open only to students in Annie. When Annie ends in May, students begin practicing for spring concert and graduation. Throughout the year, the music classes are preparing to perform. They entertained at Winter and spring concerts, school assembly's, fundraiser's, and at the end of the year with graduation .

No matter weather they perfer instrumental or vocal music, students all agree with senior Justin Adams,"Mr. Riccardi is a great guy and really musically talented. He's basically just a good human being."

EXPRESS YOURSELF

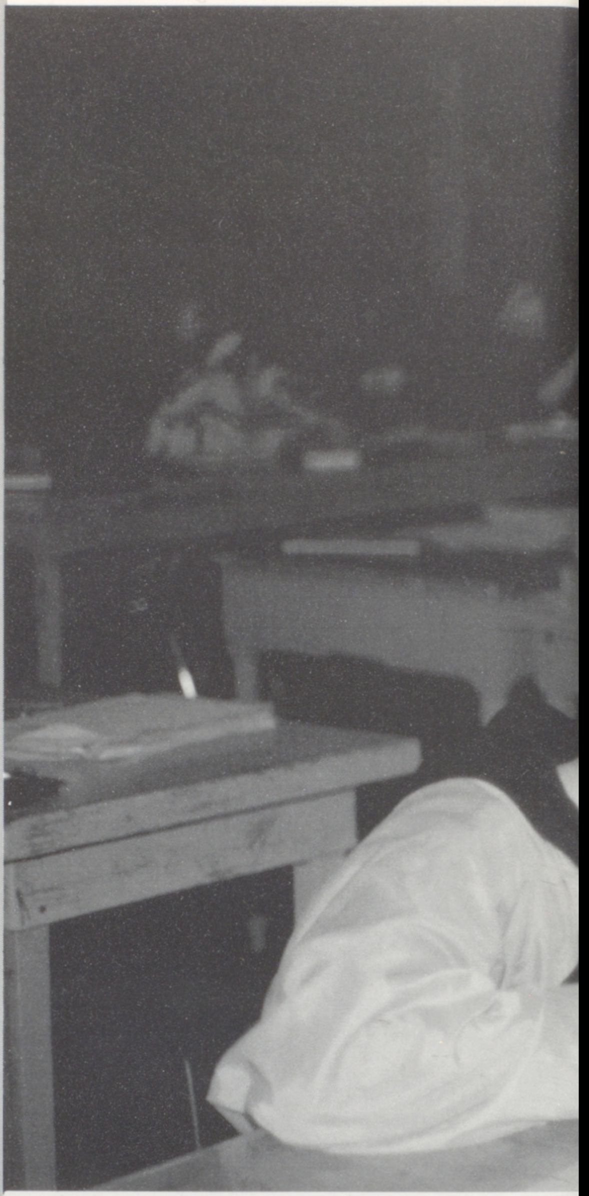
Paints, Brushes, Glue, Paper, and Pencils. Art classes give us a chance to express ourselves freely. Art is one of the few classes where students can let their personal creavity go.

Innovation is in order in the art classes. They are involved in the California Art Teachers Association Project. This program is trying to improve the art programs at schools. Using the new State Frame work, the new Vice-Principal, Mr.Kentris, is helping Mrs.Pearson and Mrs.McAllister review and evaluate the Art Department. One thing art classes are trying new is making portfolios to keep their art work to see the differences and improvements in students' work.

The Art Department supports students in submitting their work to state and country fairs, art compensations and contests. This helps students to not only express their creativity but also reach toward a goal and get recognition for their hard work.

This year the art department will be recieving a new computer. The computer will be a Macintosh 2C1. When the computer comes in Mrs. Pearson will start a club on computer illustration and graphics. Mrs. Pearson is very excited about this and hoping it will work out. She stated "If there is a good response hopefully we will be able to start a class next year."

Over all students take art as a time for enjoyment and to let their creativity go. Senior Dave Burke tells us, "Art can be man's best friend as well as his worst enemy. Only an open mind and a love for the hobby will enable him to avoid the latter."



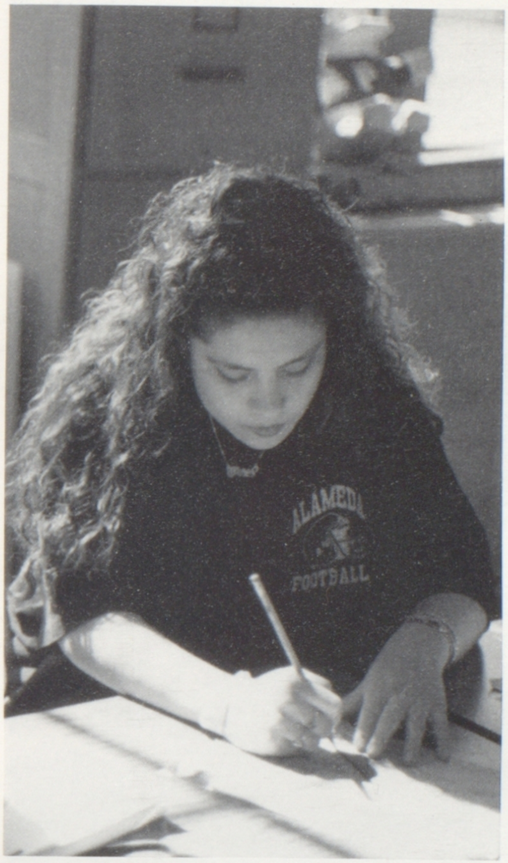
"Art helps me to express my creativity and feelings in a way that is not verbal."
Jeannine Falletti, Senior

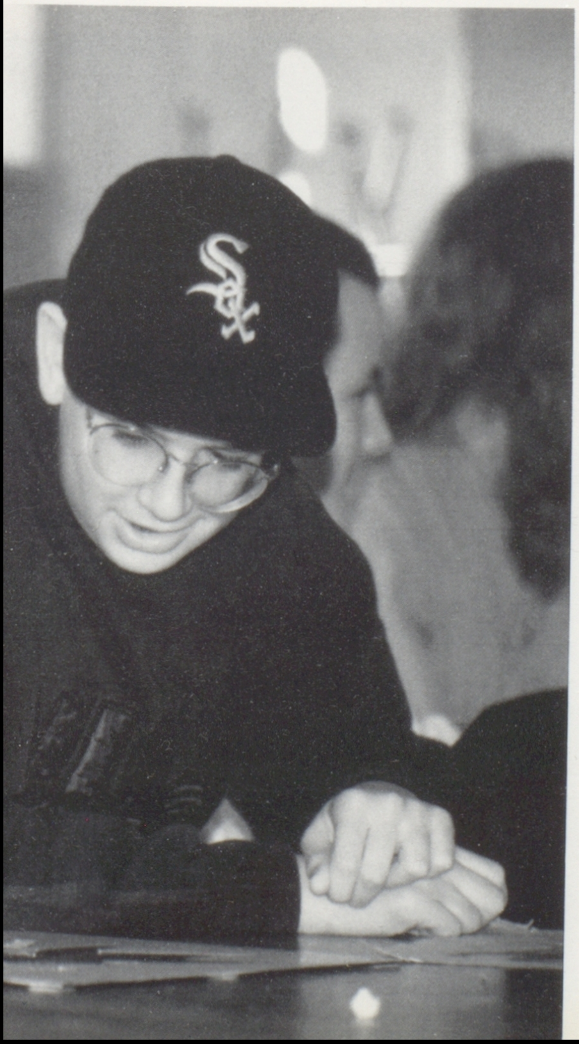
Listening to his tunes, Sam Hopkins works on his design for his mirror, a new assignment in Art 2.

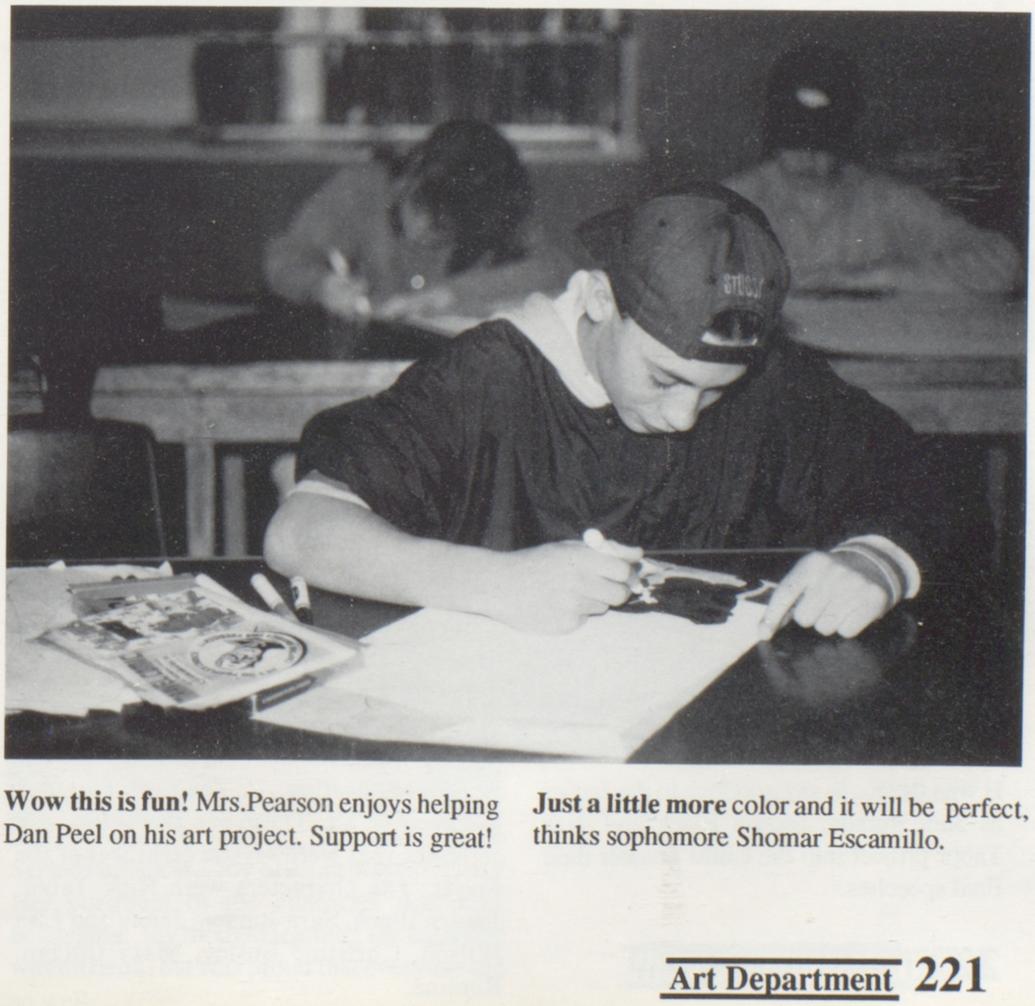
Which color should I choose next? April Woodward looks through the box of acrylics.

Don't go out of the lines! Robert Flores, Paul Ratto, and Mary Bada, are concentrating hard on their cartoon characters. /Students in art 1 are learning how to enlarge pictures by dimensions.

Working on her next project, Venus Bachicha concentrates. Art 2 classes are working on ser-realism, which brings out students creativity.







Wow this is fun! Mrs.Pearson enjoys helping Dan Peel on his art project. Support is great!

Just a little more color and it will be perfect, thinks sophomore Shomar Escamillo.

Kiss me baby... Jon harmon and Joe Costales pucker up and add to the humor in the 1992 Fall drama production of Shakespeare's " Midsummer's Night Dream." The production was difficult, but the cast proved worthy.

Now go to sleep... Farries Mary Colgan, Jennifer Wilson , Jessica Black and Romina Ronquillo sing to Bottom, played by Joe Costales, attempting to put him to sleep. The delight of make believe brought a smile to the faces in the audience.

Dream

"Midsummer's Night Dream" a dose of fun for the Fall Drama production. The reputation of our drama department is outstanding. The student participants exemplify commitment. Their challenge this Fall was to successfully stage Shakespeare's "Midsummer's Night Dream"

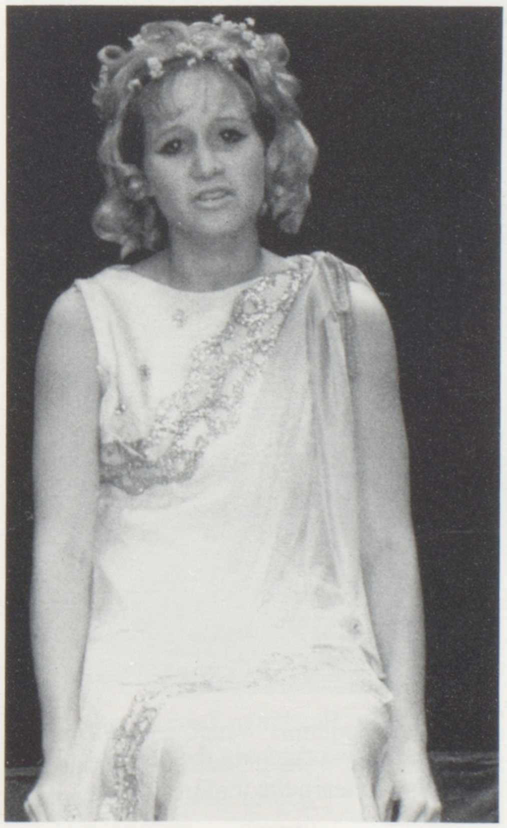
Months of preparation went into the production of the play. Students worked 4 to 8 hours after school to master Shakespearean English. Taking on the language task was difficult, but the entire cast proved worthy. The results were outstanding, with the audience applauding and thoroughly enjoying the production.

Opening night had everyone nervous. Fred Chacon, the director, gave a pep talk and reminded everyone that they could pull it off. The cast members were very proud of their accomplishments. Christine Ensley, played Puck a servant of the fairy king, played by Rick Tabor, thought " the play was fun even though getting into my makeup was hard. It took two people to assist me, and learning the lines was hard."

Joe Costales played Bottom reflected on the entire experience. "Well, the play was fun to do. It was hard for me to learn the lines in the time available, but I did it. One of the funniest things about the production was when I had to kiss Jon Harmon."

The audience really enjoyed the production, they laughed, when Joe kissed Jon and applauded the efforts of the cast members. Students and parents all thought that the production was well worth the cost of the ticket.

By: Adella Medina & Aaron Filipelli



Serious business... Joy Sherratt played Helena. Her portrayal of the character was very believable. Joy thought learning the language was difficult, but was proud that everyone did so well.

Someone is coming... Joe Wierather and Stephanie Toste, who played the king and queen learned to really anticipate each others lines.

History Keepers

Publications? What are publications? Publications are a mixture between two classes journalism and yearbook. Journalism puts out the newspaper called the Oakleaf. The Oakleaf tells us about main and upcoming events, major happenings, and things that are out of school but might have an effect on students and our campus.

This year Neil Modelvesky, a new teacher at A.H.S, took over the Oakleaf class,he had two periods full of mostly novice reporters, a few returning students made the entire first issue possible. In addition Mr. Mod. was responsible for three English classes.

The Oakleaf got off to a slow start, but the first two issues were outstanding. The reporting Hornets were really proud of their accomplishments. "We get a lot of freedom to make our own choices on what might or what not might be a newsworthy event." says sophomore Crystal Martinez.

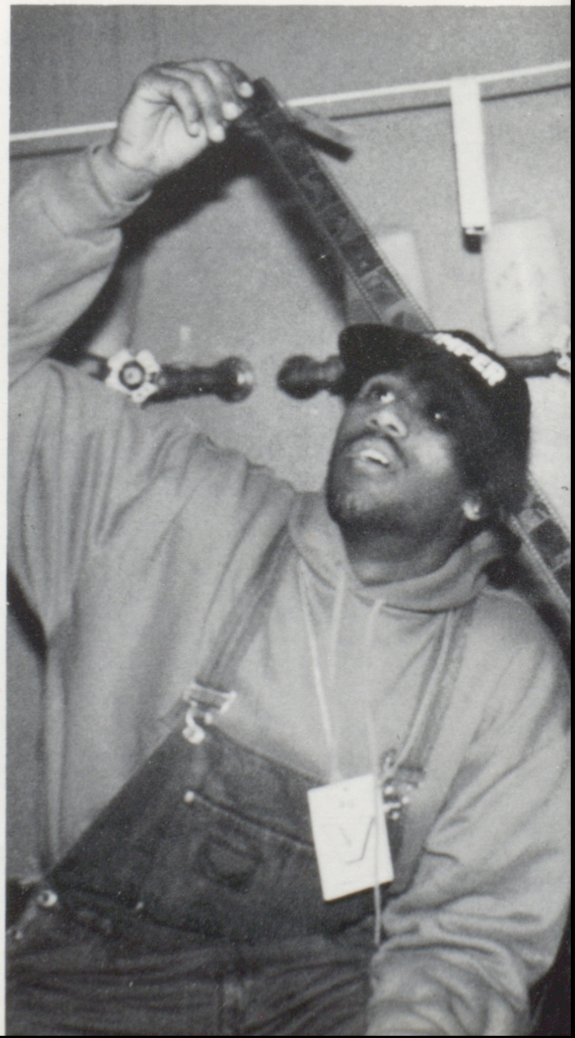
Yearbook is a completely different matter, even though it is categorized under publications. In yearbook students are assigned pages to complete with copy, photos, quotes, captions all brought together on layouts and set on the computer so that it is photo quality ready for the printing plant. All of this must be accomplished within a specific time slot and turned in by a deadline date. While having to worry about getting pages done they must also remember that they are on a tight budget. Advisor Joy Bramlette says that "Yearbook is a great opportunity for young adults to learn the stresses of having a deadline, and working to get the best quality with a limited amount of money, just like in the real world."

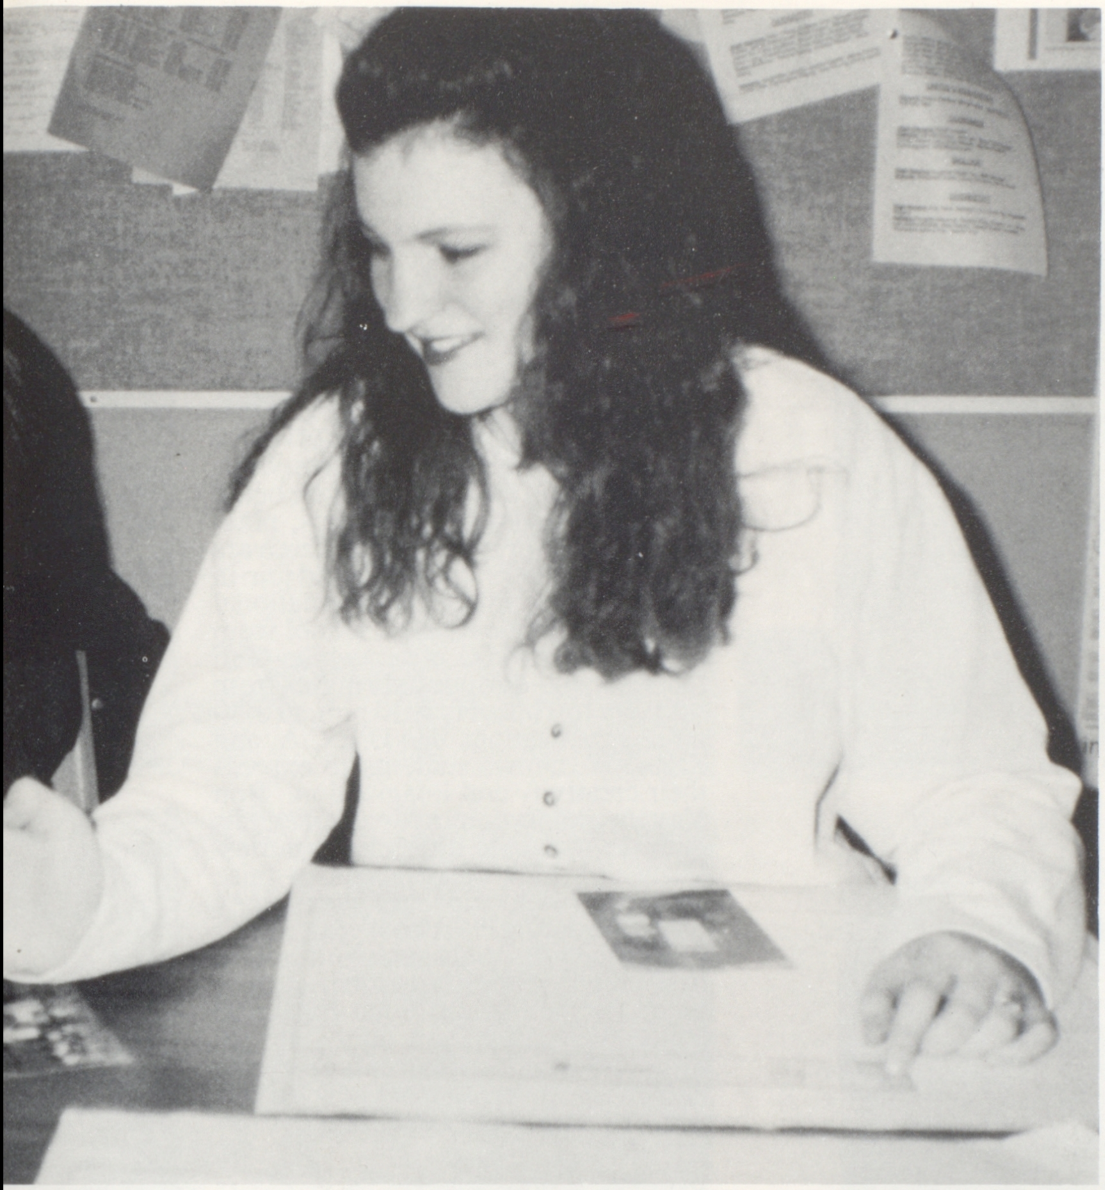
Kids in both classes put in a tremendous amount of extra time, work, and energy into these classes. If no one was around to do this dirty work, we wouldn't have a newspaper to keep us current, nor a memory book to look back on.

By Jake Brown

Great work! Sophomore Bernadette Brown and junior Anna Haberstroh are looking over a layout to be turned in.

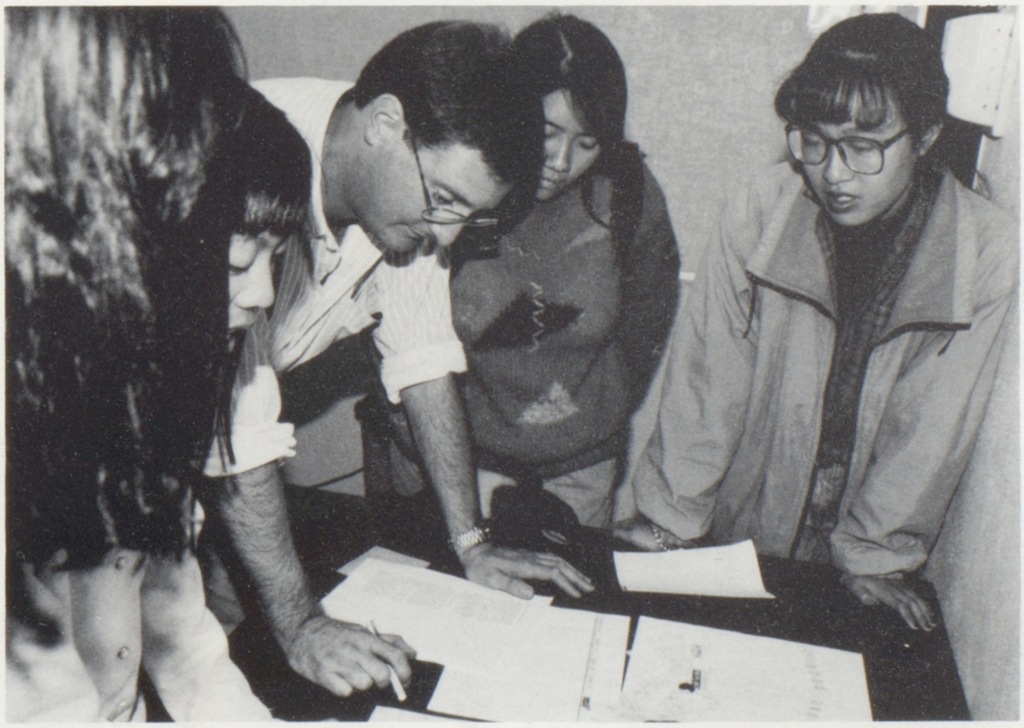
This will do. Freshman David Haun is very excited about working on the Oakleaf. He is still trying to learn the trade.





Good shot! Juniors Jennifer Finberg and Tannie Fungwork well as a team. Dealing with deadlines is very stressful.

How do you do this? Senior Susan Eastwood is the editor in chief, she works closely with our advisor Joy Bramlette.



I like this one. Senior Thumper VanArsdale and junior Roya Rashid know how important photos are to telling a story.

Were almost finshed. Mr. Modelvesky is new to our school, but is a pro when it comes to English and journalism.

"Where do I sign in?" Before and after club meetings, members sign-in. In meetings, officers discuss and plan what activities the club will participate in. All that the clubs do range from fun to intense devotion. Key Club plans for a trip to L.A. Members who will be attending a Key Club convention but shall be able to visit Disneyland. Also, B.S.U. promotes black awareness through dances, raps, and window displays. French Club filled the school with Valentine grams . Science Club prepared for a Science Bowl at Lawerence Hall of Science. C.S.F. had a one day student exchange with Campolindo High and a U.C. campus tour. Asian Club had a field trip to San Francisco Chinatown for some cultural fun. Korean Club set up a BBQ booth in the first Alameda Cultracopia. Outing Club members get a feel for the outdoors in their trips. No matter what club it may be, all the events they do are wonderful to participate in!

FINAL IMPR

It definitely takes more than two dollars to finance the making of the yearbook. Money is a huge factor on the final outcome and the appearance of the book. Dollars and cents don't come easily, they don't fall out of the sky or grow on trees. To finance a yearbook such as the Acorn, money needs to be raised. This great deed is done by selling business ads to local shops, personal ads to the students, and through the sales of the actual book. It may seem like a lot of work, and that it is, but final product makes all the work worth the efforts put into it.

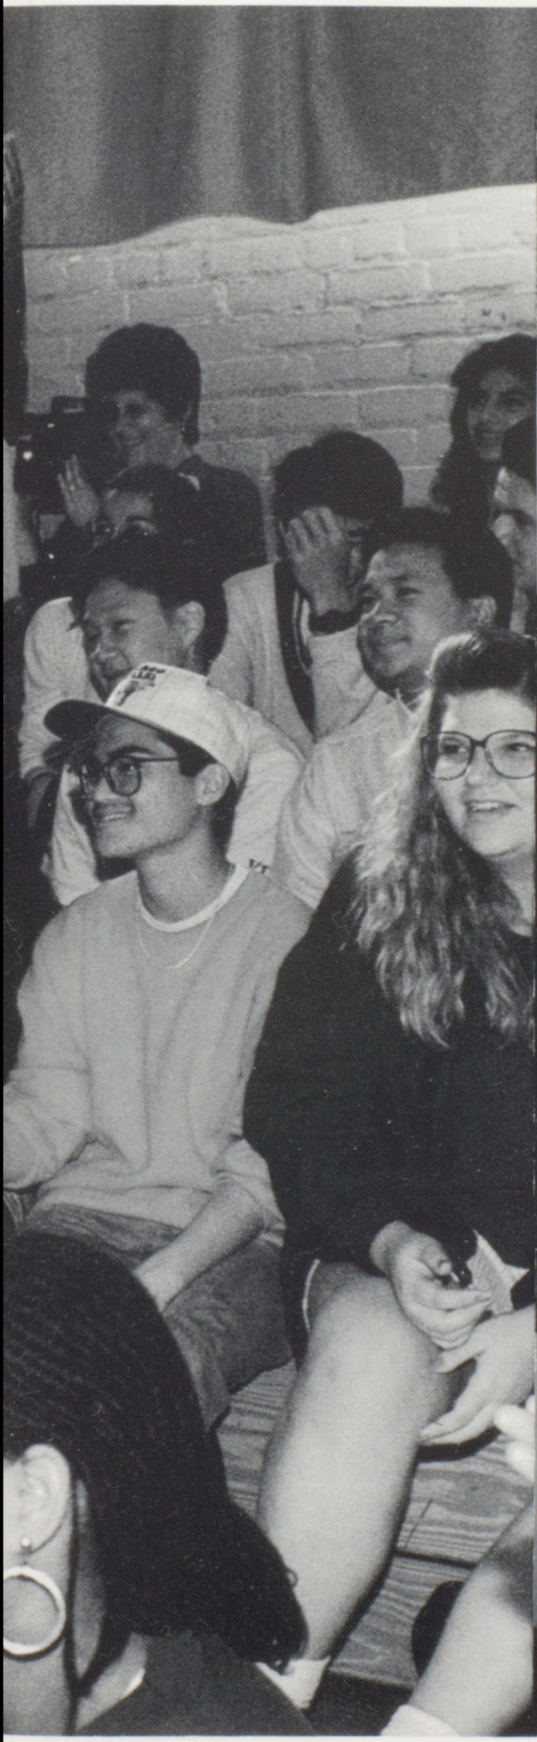
ESSIONS



Blue light special in main hall! Junior Shana Tippet looks at a few school spirit items in the main hall. The school store sold items to raise money for the student body

Enjoy Coke - A source of much money loss, the coke machine stands tall in the main hall. Students were grateful for the chance to grab a drink, but don't drink in the hallways!

Hi, Would you like to purchase...? - Yearbook staffers, Ellie, Kim, and Will, sit by the phone awaiting for orders to place ads in the Acorn. Ad selling was a tedious but necessary part of yearbook class.

Changing, dancing, leaping,
creeping from old life into new, wondering what I think of you.
unseen dreams, and newfound schemes, two lives emeshed, embroiled, enhanced at last, and suddenly,
heart snagged, held fast,
no turning back, to late to know if all is well,
yet time will tell it all.
And softly in the night I call your name, nothing quite the same admist this total rearranging, as everything around me is shifting, moving, changing.
